(International News Service)
BROWN'S MILLS, N. J., March 11.—William Stevenson, laborer and five of his seven childen were burned to death early today when their home here was destroyed by fire which followed an explosion when Stevenson poured kerosene into the kitchen stove.

Clara Stevenson, 20, is expected to die from injuries received when she jumped from a second story window. She is in the hospital with two broken hips.

Mother Escapes

Mrs. Rebecca Stevenson, the mother, together with William Stevenson Jr., 15, escaped, but Mrs. Stevenson, numbed by the tragedy, could not remember how she got out.

The children burned to death were: Ernest, 11; Shinn, 12; Aldred, nine; Mildred, six, and Lillian, one month old.

It was necessary for firemen to use long poles to extricate the bodies from the burning embers.

Clara, from her hospital bed, told the story of the fire. She said she arose early this morning and

Three-Power Naval Parley May Be Held

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 11. — Japan's willingness to engage in a three-power naval limitation conference with the United States and Great Britain at Geneva next June was formally conveyed to the state department today by Ambassador Matsudaira.

In signifying Japan's acceptance of the three-power proposal the ambassador emphasized, however, his government's belief that both Italy and France should participate. But if those countries persist in their refusal to attend, he said, Japan is willing to discuss a pact with the American and British governments.

Pittsburgh Shop Ruined By Blast

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, March 11—Frank Frangescos, proprietor of a tobacco shop here, was badly burned about the face and pedestrians fled from a shower of bricks when a three story building was wrecked by a gas explosion in the business district today.

The entire front of the tobacco shop was blown into the street. A defective gas line was believed to have caused the blast.

Judge R. L. Hildebrand Will Be President Judge Of County

New Judge's Duties Are Outlined—Election To Occur In Fall

With the appointment of an additional judge for Lawrence county but a matter of a short time, persons interested in the new judgeship have raised the question as to what his authority would be with reference to the president judge.

Under the law, the judge of a court who is listed as the president judge, is that one whose term expires first, and if he be re-elected shall continue as president judge. This would mean that Judge R. Lawrence Hildebrand would be the president judge of the 53rd Judicial district, which is Lawrence county.

Is Senior Judge

Being the president judge he would be the senior in authority, and in the listing of cases for trial it would be within his province to say which cases would be tried before him and which before the new judge. However, the practice in courts where a similar condition prevails is that a harmonious agreement exists between the two judges and usually a consultation is held before cases are listed for trial.

In the matter of appointments, the president judge has the power to appoint, although here again, it is seldom that appointments are made where the junior judge's opinion is not solicited.

Whoever the new judge is will be the fifth judge to sit upon the lawrence county bench. Not the fifth judge to sit in judgment upon Lawrence county cases, for since

Meadville Church Damaged By Fire

PLACE DAMAGE AT NEARLY $200,000

(International News Service)
MEADVILLE, Pa., March 11.—Fire swept the First Methodist Episcopal church, historic $300,000 structure in the business district here early today, with a loss estimated at $200,000. Defective wiring was believed to have caused the fire.

A new wing, constructed recently, together with the main building, erected in 1868, was swept by the fire.

The new wing was recently furnished at a cost of $125,000. Firemen believed the fire smouldered for hours before it was discovered.

Nine Are Victims In Burning Home At Saltsburg, Pa.

ONE OF OCCUPANTS IS ONLY SURVIVOR

Believe Fire Started Shortly After One O'clock—Occupants Trapped

(International News Service)
SALTSBURG, Pa., March 11—Nine persons were burned to death when fire of undetermined origin destroyed the home of Clarence Marsh, in Tunnelton, near here, today.

The dead: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Marsh and their five children; Mrs. Harry Montgomery and one child.

Only one occupant of the house, a frame structure, escaped with his life. He was Harry Montgomery, whose wife and child perished in the flames. Montgomery leaped from a window.

The fire is believed to have started shortly after one a. m. When discovered it had gained such headway that it was impossible for the neighbors to attempt to rescue the victims, trapped behind curtains of fire.

Freighters Crash Near New Jersey

One Freighter Sinks, Another Badly Damaged In Bow-On Crash

CREWS ESCAPE BY LEAPING INTO WATER

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, March 11.—One freighter was sunk and another badly damaged today in a bow-on collision in the fog near Robbins Reef off Greenville, N. J.

Members of the crew of the sunken vessel leaped into the water with life preservers. Most of them were rescued by tugboats but it was reported several men were drifting in the fog.

The freighter which sunk was the El Sol of the Southern Pacific line, bound from Galveston to New York with a cargo of cotton.

The El Sol carried a crew of 45. Captain Knoels was in command. It was reported there were several passengers on one of the freighters.

Marines Given Real Welcome

Nicaragua Towns Ask For Detachments Of U. S. Marines

PLACE 250 IN TWO OF TOWNS

By JOHN PAGE
International News Service Staff Correspondent
MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Mar. 11.—The cities of Masaya and Cuidad Dario were occupied today by 250 marines each. Citizens of the towns had asked for the marines, and large crowds gathered at the railway stations to accord the foreign fighters an enthusiastic welcome.

The U. S. marines are here in such numbers now that they have become a real factor in the daily life of Nicaragua. This was given evidence today when the telephone girls of Managua issued a statement charging that telephone service has been impaired because they are kept busy "telling it to the marines."

The girls published an explanatory letter telling the public that the bad telephone service which Managua has experienced recently has been due to the necessity of the girls' spending so much time with calls of the American "Leather Necks." It seems the marines speak Spanish so awkwardly that their telephone calls average fifteen minutes each.

Announcement was made that $125,000 monthly will be deposited in the Nicaragua National Bank for payment of the marines' wages. The newspaper La Prensa pointing out that the greater part of this sum will be spent in Nicaragua, says this is but one of the many benefits accruing from American occupation.

Sinclair Lewis' Book Attacked By Sunday

Noted Evangelist Lets Loose On Tirade Against "Elmer Gantry"

Only Old-Fashioned Religion Will Save America, Evangelist Declares

By J. L. MEDIOFF
International News Service Staff Correspondent
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 11—Billy Sunday let loose one of his characteristic tirades today, this time not against the "devil" but aimed at Sinclair Lewis' new book "Elmer Gantry", depicting the career of a hypocrite traveling to fame and fortune via the pulpit with base sins as mile-posts.

Blast for Public.

While his blast was largely at the author, it also included the American public.

"That there is any market at all for such unconvincing things as this 'Elmer Gantry' appears to be is due to deplorable religious conditions in the country today," the evangelist declared in a statement telegraphed from Tampa to International News Service today.

"If I am not mistaken, this same Sinclair Lewis is the bird who stood in a pulpit in Kansas City some time ago, ridiculed Christianity and defied God to strike him dead. Had I been the Lord I would have soaked him so hard there would have been nothing left for the devil to levy on."

Only "burning belief" can awaken belief in others, but owing to the teachings of the so-called "new theologians", an appealing number of pastors, ministers, priests and religious teachers have virtually ceased to believe themselves, Sunday said.

Timid Converts.

"And the result is" he continued, "that their timid and insecure converts are really only heretics and liars. It is a terrible accusation yet a just one. Reginald Wright

Approve Charter For Plain Grove Electric Company

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Pa., Mar. 11. — Application of the Plain Grove Township Lawrence Power Company, Lawrence County, for approval of its charter application today was given the official permission of the Public Service Commission.

The application formerly was approved by the Commission but former Governor Gifford Pinchot refused to concur. Today's approval is the first of the group which formerly had been refused.

The order of the Commission today said that executive approval formerly had been withheld because the application did not properly conform to General Order 27. That order specified the conditions and rates for the formation of subsidiary electric companies.

"Inasmuch as General Order No. 27, at the joint and unanimous request of the committees representing the Pennsylvania State Council of Farm organizations and the Pennsylvania Electric Association has been superseded by General Order No. 28, the basis assigned for executive disapproval no longer exists," the order said.

This the kind of a day it would seem, when the fairy sprites are about, and if you could see in a wooded glen, you'd see them gyrating about. For they're out today for an early dance, elflike, fairy-like forms, who have hidden away for the winter past, aloof from the ice and the storms. But when Old Sol turns his sunshine on, and the air has a hint of spring, its then that the elfs do their dainty dance, and the meadow sprites start to sing. And perhaps you have never been in the glen and saw those tiny folks dance, well you have to sneak up on a balmy day, and then it is only a chance. For the elfs are modest and shy you see, and very, oh very sedate, and they do not dance for the world at large, the weather is sixty eight.

Fifty Seven Volunteers Lose Battle To Save Companion

BY GENE HOFFMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent
EVANSTON, Ill., March 11.—Fifty-seven tight-lipped men were back on the job at the Illinois Public Service Company today—the tragedy in their hearts written on every face. Alfred Frick, their buddy, the man for whom each had given his full time and energy since last Sunday morning in an effort to save his life, will sit among them no more. The tense human drama closed with death the victor.

Frick, who had come to be known as the "living dead man", died at St. Francis hospital last night at 10:10 o'clock after his fifty-seven fellow workers had kept him alive 108 hours by pressing the walls of his chest to give him the breath of life.

Death came quietly. Shortly before the end, the brave youth—he was only 22—looked up at his father and mother and smiled, a faint smile that seemed to say "farewell." He was too weak to talk. A moment later he lapsed into a coma and did not regain consciousness.

But tragic as was his death, even more tragic was the grief of his friends—that crew of loyal men who had labored day and night, in teams of two, and in fifteen minute relays, in the hope that life would win. Many of the men, unashamed, broke down and wept. The two who were on duty when Dr. H. H. Conley pronounced the patient dead, refused to quit the task, hoping against hope that they could revive the spark of life.

Young Frick was stricken early last Sunday with Landry's paralysis, a very rare disease. It cut off the nerve supply to the diaphragm and chest walls, causing the lungs to collapse. Breathing stopped. Technically, the youth was "dead." But it was found that by pressing the sides of his chest, bellows fashion, artificial respiration could be induced.

He was thus kept alive and a hurried call sent out for volunteers to help in the strenuous physical work of pressing his sides. Fifty-seven men with whom he worked answered the call. They organized teams and began the long battle with death, working in 15 minute relays. Physicians hoped that if the patient could be kept alive long enough the paralysis may lift and normal work of the lungs be resumed.

Hour after hour the brave "comrade crew" worked, hoping that their efforts would restore their friend to health. Even the pessimistic views of the specialists who watched the case with interest, could not discourage them. Flick's life was in their hands. Medical

State Grangers Protest Against New Gasoline Tax

Grange Secretary Says Organization Favors Two-Cent Permanent Tax

ADDITIONAL TAX IS UNDER FIRE

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Mar. 11. — The Pennsylvania State Grange today added its voice to the continuing howl of protests against an increase in the gasoline tax.

John H. Light, secretary of the Grange, in a statement today said his organization favors a permanent two cent tax per gallon but does not favor the addition of another cent as an "emergency measure."

Communications to all the subordinate granges in the state have been sent from headquarters here asking them to join in the fight against the tax.

Opposition of the grange is based, Light said, on the belief that if the fiscal officers collect all the money due under the present system the state highway department will have sufficient funds to carry on all the work it can handle.

The addition of another cent will be an added incentive for bootleggers and tax dodgers, light asserted, adding to them the "road material interests" as one of the chief beneficiaries.

Light also pointed out that large percentage of the gasoline tax is paid by users who do not get any direct benefit from additional good roads. He cited creameries, small factories, machine shops and the large amount of farm machinery driven by gasoline.

"Users of gasoline are already being taxed twelve to fifteen per cent on the average price of the fluid," Light maintained, "and any further tax will be simply an imposition."

Pours Kerosene on Blaze

The coal fire in the range was only flickering, so Clara awakened her father to help her. Stevenson poured kerosene from a can into the stove.

An explosion followed which shook the house. The clothing of Stevenson and Clara caught fire. Each tried to help the other, but became excited when the kitchen burst into flames.

Stevenson attempted to go upstairs and warn his family but collapsed. Clara said she finally succeeded in getting up the stairs.

The entire house was soon on fire. Clara leaped from a window and was found unconscious.

Meantime Mrs. Stevenson tried to carry her two youngest children downstairs. She fell on the stairway, dropping both children. She was unable to relate how she escaped.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR CAMPAIGN TO START ON MONDAY

inary steps in the campaign was told and the importance to New Castle of its success was stressed.

Teams Dine

At six o'clock a dinner was served to 100 members of the solicitation teams and the prospect cards and other supplies given out. The mass meeting followed this dinner and was held in the west banquet room of the Cathedral.

Robert McKinney White presided and introduced the various speakers in clever fashion. Howard B. Richards, chairman of the team organization, told of the organization of his workers and of their plans. He was followed by John Elliott, who spoke on the joy and necessity of service. William A. Hart, vice president of the General Organization Company of Chicago, gave an encouraging statement and congratulated the workers on the manner in which they were undertaking the job.

FACTS ABOUT CAMPAIGN

Purpose: To complete the financing of the Scottish Rite Cathedral.

Goal—$297,000.

Securities offered for sale: —5½ Trustee's Certificates, Pennsylvania tax paid; secured by $297,000 worth of 4% second mortgage bonds, deposited with trustee.

Intensive week—March 14-19.

New Castle men working: —100 men on ten teams; 44 men on campaign council and preliminary subscriptions committee.

Outside towns:—35 towns within radius of fifty miles of New Castle; 150 men on their team.

General Chairman:—Robert C. Love.

Chairman New Castle Team Organization:—H. B. Richards, M. D. Wells and Jess H. Gibson, colonels.

The last speaker of the evening was Fred Rentz. Mr. Rentz spoke in a humorous vein and kept his auditors laughing throughout his remarks. He emphasized the fact that failure could not be thought of in this campaign.

During the evening several vocal solos were delightfully rendered by Miss Ruth Drescher, who was recalled repeatedly for encores.

First Reports

The first report meeting of this group will be held Monday evening at six o'clock, when a team dinner will be served at the Cathedral and announcements made of the results of the initial day's canvass. It is expected the compaign will be successfully concluded by the last of the week.

With the exception of one group, which will be ready for announcement soon, the team organization that will start the work of solicitation Monday in the city is completed. It is as follows:

MANY CONJECTURES ON POSSIBLE APPOINTMENT OF NEW COUNTY JUDGE

1849 the county has been organized. Up until 1894 Lawrence and Butler county were in the same judicial district. In that year Judge William D. Wallace was elected, the first to sit as judge of this county alone. In 1904 Judge William E. Porter was elected and through a change in the law served 11 years. In 1915 Judge S. Plummer Emery was elected, and in 1925 Judge R. Lawrence Hildebrand was elected.

The last three judges elected have run the cycle of colleges in this district. Judge Porter is an alumnus of Westminster college, Judge Emery an alumnus of Geneva college, and Judge Hildebrand is an alumnus of Grove City. As to what college the new judge will come from, only time will show. Many conjectures are being made.

Whoever the new judge is, he will serve until the first Monday in January of 1928. In September of this year, in the primaries which will be held then, the Republican and Democratic parties will name candidates for the office, and in November of this year the new judgeship will be filled for a ten year term.

Dodge Brothers Announce Price of New Line of Cars

Public announcement was made in January that Dodge Brothers, Inc., will enter the market this summer with a car in the higher priced field. Since that time Dodge Brothers Dealers everywhere have been beset with an incessant flood of inquiries regarding the new supplementary car.

Mr. Foster, of Foster Brothers, local dealer, has just received an official announcement from Detroit emphasizing some of the statements previously made regarding the new car and containing information of interest to many prospective purchasers.

"We are pleased to advise Dodge Brothers' dealers that progress on the supplementary car is thoroughly up to schedule and it will be available for moderate retail delivery on or before July 1st, the date heretofore announced.

"We are naturally receiving many inquiries seeking a description of the car. Its specifications will not be released, however, until it is ready to be shown.

"While the announcements concerning it, already made, have emphasized the fact that it will be a considerably higher priced car in no way conflicting with our present standard product, there are doubtless a number of buying prospects who have been led to believe that the difference in price between our standard car and the supplementary car will be small, and therefore, some of your prospects may be disposed to defer their spring purchase of present product until full announcement of the supplementary car.

"In order to dispel any such uncertainty that may exist we are therefore advising you authoritatively that THE SUPPLEMENTARY CAR WILL BE SOLD AT A PRICE OF $1650.00 F. O. B. DETROIT, FOR THE FOUR DOOR SEDAN.

"We also take this occasion to again assure you that production of the present Dodge Brothers power plant and the sale of our present standard line of cars will be continued; rumors inconsistent with this statement are false and misleading and should be promptly and vigorously denied."

Duquesne And New Castle To Play Tonight

Duquesne Coach Reports Team In Fine Condition; To Broadcast Game

(International News Service)

DUQUESNE, Pa., March 11.—Duquesne high's basketball team will present its strongest lineup when it faces the New Castle high team in A. W. P. I. A. L. elimination game in Pittsburgh tonight, Coach Elder said here today. All the players are in the best of condition, he stated. A huge crowd of rooters is expected to accompany the team.

The game is one of a series of eliminations being staged to determine which high school shall represent the W. P. I. A. L. in the state high school championship series to be held soon by Penn State at State College, Pa.

The New Castle high team departed for Pittsburgh early this afternoon. The game tonight is scheduled for 8 o'clock.

War Bride And Hubby Quit, Court Orders Board For Children

A romance of the World War which began in France ended today in the local court. Arthur Delia, an overseas veteran, wooed and won a French girl, whom he afterwards married and brought to this city. They have two children, a boy and a girl. Domestic difficulties, however, parted the couple. In the case before Judge Hildeband this morning, support for the children was asked. Delia did not object to paying for keeping the children, but he did not want to pay his wife anything. She said that she was not asking anything. An order was made under which Mary Bolinger, who has been caring for the children, is to receive $7.50 a week.

ARRESTED ON WARRANT

Joe DeMarco was arrested last night in the seventh ward by Officers Hagan and Algier on a warrant issued by Alderman H. G. Coates. He is charged with assault and battery before Alderman Coates as a result of some trouble that he had in the seventh ward last night. He was turned over to the alderman today.

Town Talk

Spring is here. Ike reports that two scissor grinders were seen in the East Side district yesterday, and report is also made that an itinerant umbrella mender was noted on the streets of the city yesterday.

Several truck loads of moving were noted going through the city today in Ohio trucks, evidently movings of Ohio families leaving for some part of Pennsylvania.

House cleaning is getting under way in many New Castle homes this week. Paper cleaning is being given attention in some of the homes.

According to the talk about the police station, the lawyers of the city had better look out for their business. There is a cause for the wild rumor on account of the fact that there was delivered this morning at the police station, a package containing many volumes of the laws of Pennsylvania. While Officer Moore to whom the books were addressed had not intimated to even his closest friends, the interest he might have in legal matters, the arrival of the books has set them all to thinking that he might have ambitions to become a lawyer.

Now it's chickens and dogs. At least that is what the police say. There isn't a day now that there are not several complaints received concerning residents of the city, who are allowing their chickens and dogs to run at large. The result is that the police are kept busy going out and telling the owners to keep them penned and tied up. There may be residents of the city who do not realize the fact, but there is law against allowing chickens and dogs running at large, and heavy fines may be imposed for the violation of the same.

Japan Accepts Invitation To Arms Conflab

BLACK CAT STEW

Some time ago, in an Ohio college, there was another fraternity hazing scandal. It leaked out that candidates for admission to a certain fraternity were compelled to bring black cats with them. Then one from among the class of candidates was compelled to kill his cat with a knife or an axe. This sickened the victim generally, greatly to the delight of those who were not being initiated but had undergone their tortures heretofore.

Some of the candidates were tortoured in this wise. The cat was taken from the victim, who was informed that he would be made to eat it. The young man was then locked up, and the cat was liberated. After an hour, the victim was given a hot rabbit stew, and was told that this was his black cat, served up to him for consumption. The foolish victim, instead of tossing the stew into the faces of his torturers, usually ate it and then became deathly ill.

* * *

Seldom indeed does a candidate for initiation have the courage to turn upon his torturers and lay them cold upon the ground, though not frequently the victim is strong enough to take his own part. There is a foolish pride, survival of the days of primitive savagery, which causes the immature boy to feel that he would be disgraced if he did not submit to the shameful torment through which he is often put by cruel and unthinking fellow-students. A good deal of the savage remains in a young man of 20 who is full of strength and good spirits. Their elders ought to prevent these boys' exercising this barbaric instinct in torturing one another.

* * *

I know a young man who was paralyzed as a result of cruel beating administered during a "paddling" initiation. The collegian's father, who worked hard for his moderate income, had to pay the doctor bills. The fraternity paid nothing.

It is an injustice to high school and college boys for their parents and instructors to tolerate their exercising unmanly cruelty, one toward another. The sensible fraternities ought to lead the way in a national intercollegiate movement to stop the primitive torture of students by the more uncivilized organizations.

Deaths Of The Day

Clarence S. Newton.

Clarence S. Newton, aged 54 years, postmaster of Portersville for 14 years and well known resident of the community, died Friday morning March 11 at 9 o'clok at his home in Portersville following a brief illness.

Mr. Newton's death was due to pneumonia which he contracted about a week ago.

He was born near Portersville a son of Phillip and Laura Newton and had lived in that vicinity all his life. He was an active and faithful member of the Portersville Presbyterian church.

Besides his widow he leaves two children Kenneth and Geraldine, his mother Mrs. Laura Newton of Portersville and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. T. C. Marshall and Mrs. T. L. Haines of Ellwood City, Mrs. Roy Wilkison of Dawson, Pa., James Newton of Warren, O., Howard Newton of Youngstown, O., Mrs. R. F. Neiper of Portersville and Mrs. J. H. Neiper of New Castle.

Announcement of funeral will be made later.

John A. Anderson.

John A. Anderson aged 38 years, of New Castle, died in a Pittsburgh hospital Friday morning March 11 after an extended illness of 20 years.

He was born in Williamsport, Pa. Apuril 27, 1889, a son of Thomas and Sarah Anderson. He had resided in this city for 20 years.

Besides his mother, Mrs. Sarah Anderson he leaves two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Ketchum and Mrs. J. L. Herbold, both of this city. The body was brought to White's undertaking rooms this morning and will be sent to Williamsport this evening where burial will be made in the Wildwood cemetery of that city.

Mrs. Susan Howley.

Mrs. Susan Howley, aged 70 years, died at her home, 701 Chestnut street, Thursday afternoon at 2:30, after an illness of several years.

Mrs. Howley was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Claffey. She is survived by two sons, James and William, and two daughters, Mrs. Howard P. Calahan of New Castle, and Mrs. Joseph B. Chill of Youngstown, O., and one granddaughter, Savina McClaren, and a brother, Thomas Claffey of Cleveland.

Funeral services will take place Saturday morning, March 12, at 9 o'clock from St. Mary's church. Burial will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Joseph Krasvic.

Joseph Krasvic, aged 25 years, of Wampum, died Thursday afternoon in the Providence hospital at Beaver Falls after an illness of complications. Besides his father, Andy Krasvic, he leaves two sisters, Mrs. Jennie Karner of Crescentdale, and Margaret, at home, and one brother, Andy Jr.

Funeral services will take place Monday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Monica's church at Wampum. Interment will be made in Hoytdale cemetery.

REED COMMITTEE TO DROP PROBES FOR TIME BEING

ed by the refusal of senate officials to advance any further sums. Lack of money, it was conceded, will force the committee to indefinitely postpone all activity, an object which even a three-day filibuster in the senate just before adjournment failed to accomplish.

Activity Wanes.

"There won't be much activity by the committee this summer," said Senator McNary (R) of Oregon, a member. "In fact, without funds, I do not see how the committee can accomplish anything more until congress reconvenes in December. The committee will meet again March 25 to decide its course of action but I cannot see how it will act without funds."

Senator McNary announced that Senator Goff (R) of West Virginia had resigned from the Reed committee. McNary said he had planned to do likewise because of the pressure of other work in connection with farm relief but that in view of the present developments he would "remain as a member".

McNary to Stick.

"I did intend to resign. To do so now would make it appear that I quit when the committee was under fire," McNary explained. "I shall stick now."

Senator Keyes, chairman of the senate audit committee, whose decision halted the committee, told International News Service he doubted whether the slush fund investigators had any power to proceed during the recess of congress.

When congress reconvenes, the committee undoubtedly will ask for an extension of power and the inquiries then resumed. The committee so far has filed a number of special reports but it never has reported finally on either the Pennsylvania or Illinois elections, and its inquiries into the Ku Klux Klan, Anti-Saloon league or association against the prohibition amendment or on its Indiana investigation. These reports will be filed next fall.

Kauffman has written a book recent, 'A Man of Little Faith', which is a fine expose of conditions and will not leave a dark brown taste in the reader's mouth.

"The time is at hand when nothing but a revival of old-fashioned religion will save America from disintegration and dissolution and the neurotic, anti-God, anti-virtue and anti-everything novels which many writers are foisting on the public today is only a part of the rot that must be gathered up and dumped into hell if the institutions we love and on which the nation was founded are to be perpetuated.

"If America continues in the sins of Babylon, she will have the judgment of Babylon."

NINE ARE VICTIMS IN BURNING HOME AT SALTSBURG, PA.

of Marsh's sister-in-law. They returned to their home late last night.

While authorities could not ascertain definitely the cause of the fire, because of the condition of the ruins, they believe an overheated stove may have been responsible.

Neighbors, burrowing through the blackened ruins when the latter had cooled sufficiently for exploration, found two bodies. Both were burned beyond recognition. Searchers are still hunting the seven other victims.

Neighbors later found the children's bodies huddled together in their beds, apparently suffocated before they could be awakened.

One Survivor

Montgomery, sole survivor of the tragedy, said he was awakened by his wife, who was aroused by the smoke. Together they made their way to a window in their bedroom on the second floor, where he left her to return for more clothing. When he groped his way back to the window, he said, his wife was gone. Believing she had not waited for him, but had leaped to safety, Montgomery jumped from the window.

He learned later that he was the only one to escape, and expressed the opinion that his wife, too, had gone for clothing and was overcome by the smoke.

Montgomery, although unhurt in his leap, was overcome with grief when he learned that the fire had robbed him of his wife and child. He was placed in a physician's care.

science had done its best and failed. But they would pull him through. That was the spirit of the "comrade crew." And thus their grief may be understood.

Physicians, who could no nothing but check on the patient's condition and direct the efforts of the "breathing crew," felt all along that young Frick was doomed. What few records of Landry's paralysis cases they could find argued against a favorable prognosis.

Several hours before his death, Frick rallied and was able to speak a few words to members of his family. He used the breath that his friends forced in and out of his wasted lungs to whisper words of good cheer to those he loved.

"Don't worry, Mom," he said to his mother. "I've got a fighting chance."

His father said that as soon as he got well they would have a party for him.

"Shall we invite Miss Martin, the nurse?" asked his father, trying to control his voice.

"Sure thing," said Frick cheerfully.

Those were his last words.

Frick had been in ill health most of his life, it was learned. Several years ago he went to Colorado and lived in the mountains, but believing he had regained his health, he returned to his home. Until forced to give up his studies on account of his health he was a student at Northwestern University.

TROUBLED WITH RASH ON BODY

Developed Into Blisters. Cuticura Healed.

"I was troubled with a rash which broke out on my body and developed into blisters. It itched and burned causing me to scratch, which was very annoying, and also caused eruptions. I lost sleep at night, and often had to get up and wash the affected parts.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It worked wonders so I purchased more, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) John J. Cronin, 2124 Municipal Bldg., New York City, Aug. 20, 1926.

NO FUNDS FOR RADIO CONTROL

THIRTY million radio fans are hoping that Secretary Hoover and the members of the new radio commission will be able to discover means by which organization of the commission may be effected despite the failure of congress to pass the measure carrying the radio control appropriation.

Existing conditions "on the air" call for wise regulation at the earliest moment. The measure creating the commission and defining its powers was not the wisest that congress could have passed, but it was a moderately good beginning, and it would be disastrous if the benefits it offers the millions of people who find pleasure and instruction in the radio should be denied for months simply because of a senate filibuster.

The public will be disposed to support Secretary Hoover in any expedients he may be able to devise, and its support probably would be effective for his protection and the protection of the radio commission should congress, having made a mess of things, assume a critical attitude in the next session toward those left with the duty of clearing the mess away.

In most other departments left by the filibuster without new appropriations emergency ways and means have been found to keep the wheels moving. But the radio listeners are still walking the floor.

This experience with radio control is another lesson for the much-deceived public in the possibility and probability of slips 'twixt the signature that makes a bill law and the putting of the new law in operation.

BUY FROM LOCAL STORES

THE housewife usually regards the peddler who comes to her door as a nuisance. But half the time she encourages him by the upside-down process of "buying something to get rid of him." She finds it easier, in the individual instance, to buy a package of bad needles or a rubber apron which turns out to be a second than it is to listen to a stream of talk and force herself to argument as to why she should not buy.

In one prosperous small city often victimized by this type of person, the merchants got together and issued a statement which may well be heeded here:

"Numerous complaints are being received from housewives who report that they have lost money through purchasing merchandise from unknown house-to-house peddlers. Professional swindlers who go from city to city have victimized thousands of housewives. Merchandise is misrepresented and, if delivered, is often inferior to samples shown. Advance payments are sometimes collected, the peddler vanishes and the merchandise is never received. Investigate before you buy or invest.

"Your responsible local merchants support all civic and public enterprises, pay taxes for the city's development and support, and give employment to thousands of home-town people. You can always see them personally for the adjustment of any mistakes.

"You are safe in buying from responsible local stores."

A THREE-RING CIRCUS

SPRING is a three-ring circus. In the center ring are the high sun, the new warmth and the invigorating, zephyr-like breezes and in either end ring are the flowers and birds. Of course the main attractions are in the central ring but it would be a poor show, indeed without those added attractions in the end rings.

People who live where the wind blows cold and the snow flies feel the comfortable warmth of the spring and they readily associate this season with the bright and warm side of the weather question, but after all spring's real gifts to mankind are the return of the flowers and the birds.

One may note that the weather is experiencing a transformation, that the elements are becoming less intemperate, and not be aware of anything out of the extraordinary. But that first spring song of the home-coming bird outside the bedroom window shakes every slumber out of winter-worn man and convinces him that the renaissance of spring is in full motion. A thrill sometimes akin to that provoked by the latest songs from Dixie bird sanctuaries is in store for those who discover the purest wild flower bursting through winter's somber carpet.

Soon all the birds will have returned north and the countryside will be a veritable flower garden and then fickle humanity will forget all about them until they have again departed in the fall, to be longed for until the return of spring.

Are criticising every lead you make;
If you can bid, and let your partner doubt you
Or raise you when a trick he cannot take;
If you can hear but never heed the chatter
Of those who merely sit to watch the game,
And have some stranger bring his luncheon plater
Where he may eat and note the trump you name;

If you can bid, and keep the last convention;
If you can think, remembering what is played;
If you don't mind a stranger's jeering mention
Of each mistake you thoughtlessly have made;
If you like being hemmed in at a table
By men who keep their feet upon your chair;
If you can hold your temper in such babel
And never ask for room or beg for air;

If you don't hope to please your partner wholly;
If you can bear his censure with a grin,
And smile when perfect strangers whisper lowly
How several tricks you could have gathered in:
If you can pitch a portion of your salary
Upon the table when the game is done
And still be friend to players and the gallery,
I'll say that you have well-deserved your fun.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:03. Sun rises tomorrow 6:16.

We are pleased to learn that pupils at Martin Gantz school have formed a bird club, the object of which is to learn the names and habits of birds found in this section. It will prove an interesting study as there is much to be learned about our feathered songsters. One of the first things should be to learn the names of birds and be able to recognize them. Most people are able to tell a blue bird, robin or black bird but it is surprising how many grown people are unable to name some of the other birds common to this section.

County Treasurer David Nessle announces that he is now prepared to issue fishing licenses. When we were young a fellow didn't have to get any license to fish. All he had to do was to dig a little bait, cut a pole from a pussy willow or some other bush, spit on the bait and pull out the fish. Now a fellow has to pay for all of this, and the worst of it it that it is mighty seldom that he pulls out any fish. No wonder some of us sigh for the good old days.

Drat you! You wouldn't remove your hat in an elevator, either, if you were nude on top.

If you have any grape vines or shrubs about your home that need trimming it should be done at once before the sap begins to go into the tops. If you don't know how to do the trimming we don't know where you can find anybody. There are plenty of places where you can get your hair trimmed, but when you want to doll up your shrubbery you don't know where to go.

Women down in North Carolina are sponsoring a movement to wear cotton dresses in the hope that it will boost the market for cotton. The movement is a laudable one even if it fails to put cotton on the financial throne. Some of the sweetest girls we ever knew wore cotton dresses and sun-bonnets; yet and even cotton hose, but the latter were not kept for display in those days.

When it comes to a real education much can be learned from the cat. She is seldom ruffled, never loses her head, is usually polite, and above all has the diplomatic virtue of concealing what she thinks. When a cat is not feeling well she has sense enough to know that rest will do her stomach good and refrain from eating the most tempting food. A little rest, a nip of catnip and pussy is on her feet again.

ADMITS HE WOULD HAVE GONE TO HELL

A prominent lawyer says that the extract quoted below is the most remarkable piece of legal phraseology that ever came under his observation. The affidavit from which the extract is taken actually was filed in a court of Missouri. It reads:

"And the deponent further saith that on arriving at the house of the said defendant, situate in the county of —— aforesaid, for the purpose of personally serving him with the said writ, he, the said deponent, knocked three several times at the outer, commonly called the hall, door, but could not obtain admittance: whereupon this deponent was proceeding to knock a fourth time, when a man, to this deponent unknown, holding in his hand a double-barreled shotgun, loaded with slugs or balls, as this deponent has since heard and verily believes, appeared at one of the upper windows of said house, and presenting said double-barreled shotgun at this deponent, threatened that if said deponent did not instantly retire he would send his (the deponent's) soul to hell, which this deponent verily believes he would have done had not this deponent precipitately escaped.

He was a powerful animal but couldn't last because he didn't have a brain big in proportion to the size of his body.

Civilization has developed a more powerful creature, which is the two-legged billionaire, able to control and command the work of 200,000,000 men for one day.

That billionaire will soon be numerous and the interesting question concerning him will be, "What about his brain?" Will it be big enough to keep him safe?

You read about a new mountain range discovered in Siberia, 1000 miles long, 300 miles wide, peaks 11,000 feet high.

This range will be named for Lenin, whom the Russian people delight to honor, and that will annoy high finance.

But what of the mineral wealth that, undoubtedly, is hidden away in that gigantic mountain range? If gold, silver, copper should be discovered in quantities, it would soften the heart of high finance, always, practically, willing to listen to a good argument.

The British, developing an air force, where we talk and save money, are about to attempt the longest non-stop flight, 4,000 miles, from London to Karachi in western India.

What does President Coolidge, responsible for the safety of this nation in a case of war, think about our comic opera flying force? How does he think the long successful flights by Italians, Englishmen, Germans, Russians and Japanese compare with our failures?

The president will be interested in an address to the Paris Union of Commerce and Industry by Andre Michelin, who says that every nation in Europe is developing gas warfare and that "a city as large as Paris" (ten times as large as Washington, D. C.) could easily be asphyxiated by gas bombardment from a flying fleet.

The Rev. Father Bernard Werner, dominican missionary in China, tells of Coolie mobs arousing hatred against the Christians by displaying bodies of dead babies, falsely alleged to have been killed as part of a religious ceremony.

Going to the Far West in its choice of an executive head, the department of superintendence of the National Education Association has chosen Dr. Joseph M. Gwin, superintendent of schools of San Francisco, to be its president during the ensuing year. It was in New Orleans, where he served as head of the public school system for nearly 15 years, that Dr. Gwin made a reputation for originality and efficiency which led to an invitation to become superintendent of the San Francisco schools in 1923. A native of Warrensburg, Mo., he attended the State Normal School in that place and then completed his education at the University of Missouri and at Columbia University. His early career as an educator was spent as a teacher or superintendent in various towns in Missouri. From 1903 to 1910 he filled a similar position at Tulane University.

Dr. Crane's Editorial

PROPER BUSINESS FOR A GOVERNMENT

A recent report to congress for an appropriation for the Interior Department included some $750,000 for a dam in Arizona and some $2,500,000 for road construction, with other items of a similar character.

This is proper business for a government. It does not pay for a government to be paternal and to foster certain special interests, but it does pay for a government to engage in public works, the benefit of which shall accrue generally to the people.

When the Lord made Adam and Eve it is said that he put them in the garden in order to tend and keep it. Man's work ever since upon this earth has been in improving upon the natural conditions of nature.

He is to reclaim deserts, improve rivers, perfect harbors and make tunnels, etc., so that the earth will be a fitter place in which to live.

It is this kind of work in which the army should be engaged, in other words, be put upon constructive labor as well as to be kept in readiness for destructive operations.

Such a program might well call for the services of every boy and girl at some time in their lives, say from the years of 20 to 22, when they would be required to give their services to the government. Everybody ought to be made to realize that the nation is greater than the individual and has prior claims upon a man, claims that come before his individual needs.

This would maintain an immense army of constructive workers who could be changed in a moment's notice to an army of defense against an enemy.

If this plan were adopted I should be in favor of compulsory military training and in compelling boys and girls to be trained not alone in the bearing of arms, but compelling them at a certain period in their lives to work for the government.

The United States has vast stretches of land which need improvements. Much of the west is barren and needs only the proper use of its water courses in order to water it. Arizona might be as rich as Egypt if it were properly wattered.

The use of the natural supply of power that is found in falling waters opens up tremendous vistas and in the application of this our youth might well be employed.

The making of good roads also is a contribution to the permanent welfare of our nation. Roads need to be constantly worked upon and new roads need to be built.

Altogether it is quite proper for a government to go into the business of improving the natural resources of the nation.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

WHAT WATER MEANS

When traffic in the East is tied up with a great blanket of snow, the California newspaper carry the event in screaming headlines. It is not hard for the veriest tyro to understand why. California newspapers love to carry columns comparing the beauties of its climate to the rigors of all other climates. The shoe was on the other foot during the last week in February, and now the California newspapers are very much disturbed about the alleged lies that have been disseminated by Eastern newspapers concerning what has probably been the worst rain storm California has had for a generation. Californians have been receiving telegrams, and air mail letters from friends and relatives in the East, seeking to know whether or not they are alive, and it has highly incensed the California newspapers. As a matter of fact there was a time, on Wednesday, February 16th, when California feared for the safety of every damsite and bridge in the State. There was not a dam in California on that day through the spillways of which there were not rushing millions of gallons of water. The spillways of a great many of the dams were not sufficient to take care of the rush of waters and the floods were running over the face of the dams. River beds which for ten months out of every year, are absolutely dry, were filled with water,—not only were they filled, but the water was covering the valleys, from hill to hill, through which these river courses ran, taking out bridges, great sections of highways, destroying crops, and wrecking the habitations of those who lived in the valleys.

If the storm had not been stayed on that Wednesday, if it had lasted twenty four hours longer, in all probability there would not have been a bridge left, to say nothing of what damage would have been done had any of the dams collapsed under the great pressure.

The wealth of California is dependent upon the conservation of water. Without these dams, and lakes held back by them, Southern California would still be the desert discovered by the first Spaniards. The first thing that the Franciscans did when they entered California was to build dams, that they might have life giving water. At every one of the Missions from San Diego to San Francisco, there was a damsite selected and the dam built by the Indians under the direction of the Colonizers. From these small dams have grown the great ones. Each year new ones are being built, more water is being conserved to take care of the growing population. The reader can easily see what a great flood means to California. If controlled, it spells wealth and happiness; if uncontrolled, it means ruin.

A strange coincidence exists between the time of this flood and the action of the United States Senate in refusing to come to a conclusion upon the building of the Boulder Dam on the Colorado River. The Colorado River today is threatening the life of Imperial Valley, which in itself grows enough food to feed the population of a great part of this Nation. The menace of this river was never so great to the Valley as it is right now. The storm is over, but the Colorado River is just girding its loin for a fresh attack. The snows were never so deep at the headwaters of this river. The river was never so full. All the dams below Yuma have been removed to allow as much water as possible to escape into the Gulf of California. Rock trains are busy piling up as great a barricade as possible between the river and the Valley. But not until June will the danger be passed, if the danger does pass at that time.

There are a lot of "dogs in the manger" in the United States Senate and while Hiram Johnson may not at all times appear as a highly intelligent Senator, he has his back against the wall in his fight for the Boulder Dam, and every red blooded American should be with him.

Safety Sam Says:

Good advice is all right in its place, but a good scare is what a lot o' reckless drivers really need.

Driving was unsafe in the old days when the horse felt his oats; not when the driver felt his corn.

POEMS HOVE

BY CHARLES HANSON TOWNE

"Irish Peasant Song," by Louise Imogen Guiney.

Miss Guiney, who died last year in England, was an American poet of rare gifts, who found the scholarly atmosphere of Oxford an inspiration to her. She was born at Boston in 1861; and such a critic as Bliss Carman has spoken of her genius and culture, of the flame within her which ill health could not quench. She likewise wrote many delicate and graceful essays; but it is as a poet that she will stand the test of time.

I try to knead and spin, but my life is low the while,
Oh, I love to be alone, and walk abroad a mile;
Yet if I walk alone, and think of naught at all,
Why from me that's young should the wild tears fall?

The shower-sodden earth, the earth-colored streams,
They breathe on me awake, and moan to me in dreams,
And yonder ivy fondling the broke castle-wall,
It pulls upon my heart till the wild tears fall.

And far as Leighlin Cross the fields are green and still;
But once I hear the blackbird in Leighlin hedges call,
The foolishness is on me, and the wild tears fall.

Putting Roof On School Addition

Arthur McGill School Addition Will Be Ready For Next Fall

Work Is Being Rushed On Enlargement Of North Side School

Work on the new addition to the Arthur McGill School has progressed to the point where the building is now being placed under roof. Yet, although work is progressing so well on the project it is not likely that the building will be ready for occupancy before the end of the present school year.

The new addition which is being built on to the rear of the present building is being constructed of tile and brick that makes it practically fireproof. It will add 10 new rooms and an auditorium or gymnasium 62x50 feet to the present equipment of only five rooms and office.

Auditorium Provided

The new addition consists of a large auditorium on the main floor with two class rooms on each side on this floor and also four class rooms on the second floor directly above the four rooms below. Then in the basement on the south side of the building are being constructed two rooms for the kindergarten.

The gymnasium or auditorium occupying the center of the rear of the building will be well lighted by windows in the west as well as skylights from the top. The heating coils in the gym are arranged above except in the rear beyond the playing floor so that there will be no danger of burns to players.

A new boiler is being installed as well as the present boiler being enlarged so as to take care of the additional space to be heated. A new system known as the Illinois Vapor system is being installed which works automatically being controlled by a special valve. This system will eliminate air in the pipes.

Modern Ventilation

The ventilating system is known as the Heatovent system which is similar to the Univent system used in so many of the schools built recently. The fresh air is drawn by a fan from the outside and heated by the steam coils is thrown upward into the room, thus eliminating drafts. It is controlled by a thermostat which keeps the temperature of the room between 68 and 70 by a valve adjusting the amount of cold and warm air allowed to enter the room.

The school is now much handicapped for space as they have only five rooms, but are using the office and one portable. They have not been able to use the departmental system which is used in the other schools of the city on account of this crowded condition but each teacher teaches all subjects in the same room to the one grade only. When the new addition is completed they expect to adopt the departmental system as in other schools of the city.

Adult Conference In Westfield Church

Rev. Aber, State Administrative Superintendent, Will Fe The Speaker On March 15

"The Significence of Lent" will be the theme of the message delivered by Rev. Ross M. Haverfield in Westfield Presbyterian church on Sunday morning, at 11 o'clock. Sunday School at 12:15 p. m. Christian Endeavor Society at 7:30. All Endeavors are asked to make a special effort to attend the spring rally in Central Christian church of New Castle, on March 22.

On Tuesday, March 15, at 1:30 p. m., an Adult Workers conference of the Mahoning district of Lawrence County Sabbath School Association will be conducted in the lecture room of the church. All officers and teachers of churches of the district are especially asked to attend. A general conference will be held in the evening at 7:30 in Bessemer Presbyterian church.

Rev. L. Louis Aber, administrative superintendent of Sabbath School Association of Pennsylvania will be the speaker.

Personal Mention

James Foster, Lowery street who suffered a slight stroke, Tuesday remains about the same.

Donald Kerr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kerr, Pennsylvania avenue, who has been suffering with acute bronchitis, is somewhat improved.

Miss Alice Lowers a student nurse at the Hamot hospital, Erie, Pa., has returned after spending the past three days at her home on Park avenue.

Mrs. E. A. Fenton, Clenmore boulevard, has returned from a month's visit with her brother, H. G. Gehr, who is spending the winter in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Mrs. Harry Miller of Frank avenue who underwent an operation three weeks ago in the Youngstown City hospital, has been removed to her home much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell H. Shields of Laurel avenue motored to Pittsburgh Thursday where they attended the wedding of Arthur L. Shields of Springfield, Mass., and Miss Margaret Mutzig of Wilkinsburg.

Miss Ethel Smith, daughter of [illegible] Ira Smith of Wilmington avenue, who has been nursing [illegible] Charity hospital in Texas for several months, underwent an operation for appendicitis last Saturday and its getting along nicely.

Still use old hygienic methods. Charming freshness, true protection, this new way ... discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

TO help women meet every day unhandicapped, is the object of a new hygiene. A way that ends the hazards of the old-time "sanitary pad," that ends the embarrassment of disposal.

Eight in 10 better-class women today employ "KOTEX."

✓ Deodorizes. Ends all fear of offending. Discards as easily as tissue. No laundry.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying, "KOTEX." No embarrassment.

Pittsburgh Boy Severely Burned

Youth Is Grabbed By Two Unknown Assailants, Clothing Ignited

REASON FOR ATTACK IS UNASSIGNED

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Mar. 11.—Near death from a harrowing experience in which he claimed two other boys saturated his clothing with gasoline and then applied a match, Melvin Ours, 12, was being treated in a hospital here today, for burns.

Police are searching for the two boys, whose identities Ours did not know, but who, he said, seized him as he was passing an alleyway, and throwing him to the ground, poured the gasoline over his clothing, and then touched a match to his body. His screams for help failed to attract passersby, he said.

Hospital attaches said two newsboys brought Ours to the hospital, but disappeared before they could be questioned. John Ours, father of the boy, said Melvin had been the victim of attacks by neighborhood boys on other occasions, but was unable to assign a reason for the quarrels.

In Religious and Fraternal Circles

C. E. Society.

An unusually good program is being arranged for the meeting of the Christian Endeavor society of the First Christian church on Sunday evening. Ray Matthews will be the leader. Tickets for the banquet given in connection with the spring C. E. rally in Central Christian church on March 22 may be secured at this time.

Stephenson Circle

Mrs. W. G. Ayres of North Jefferson street, entertained the members of the Stephenson Circle of the First Methodist church at her home Thursday evening.

After the devotional period Mrs. H. B. Brooks gave an interesting talk on "Moslem Women." Mrs. J. C. Pherson read a story of the missionary work in Algeria. Miss Mabel Roberts gave a pleasing reading entitled "The Wild White Rose."

Refreshments were served by Miss Cordelia Roberts and her group. The meeting in April will be in the form of a banquet in the church when the Bertha Girls and Standard Bearers Girls will be guests.

Livingstone Circle

Members of the Livingstone Circle of Central Christian church were entertained Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Ray Gosney of Galbreath avenue. An interesting program on mission work in Africa was carried out. A short business meeting was held with the president, Miss Anna Phelps presiding. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Harry Redmond.

The next meeting will take place in April at the home of Mrs. Maurice Sadler of Laurel boulevard.

Every-Member Canvass

The Central Presbyterian church is planning a genuine Every-Member Canvass next Sabbath. A dinner will be served at noon in the church dining room, and the men of the church will go out two by two to underwrite a courageous budget for the new year. Prof. George S. Lyon, president of the Board of Trustees and Attorney Mont L. Ailey, with John R. Atkinson are in charge of the canvass. The Central church is closing one of its best years and is planning larger things for the future.

Section A.

Section A. of the Y. L. B. class of the Third United Presbyterian church met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Joseph Hahn of East Washington street. Mrs. Lutz was the leader of the devotional period. Mrs. F. J. Conray was received as a new member. Sewing was the diversion of the evening.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. R. W. Hopper of Marshall avenue.

Daughters of America.

New Castle, No. 46, Daughters of America will hold their regular meeting in McGoun hall this evening at 7:30. After the business meeting euchre will be enjoyed for members and friends.

Croton Services

Meetings at Croton Avenue M. E. church are proving very interesting and helpful.

Rev. English spoke Thursday evening from the text 1 Kings 20:40; —So shall thy judgment be; thyself hath decided it." In part he said; "People are too busy with the things of the world and leave no time for God in their lives. God has given each a soul. He has created our souls too big to be satisfied with the things of the earth. Many are too busy about such things as: making a living; looking at the sins of others; loafing on the job; busy in social life and have lost the love of God out of their souls.

Live such a beautiful Christian life that others will long for that kind of life.

THE NEWS, BY MAIL ONE YEAR, $5.00

Expect To Recover Old College Bell Within Few Days

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., March 11—In what condition will the old bell from the tower of Old Main be in when it is uncovered? This is the question troubling the undergrads of Westminster college as the work of removing the ruins of Old Main the administration building destroyed by fire January 24 goes rapidly on with the aid of a steam shovel.

The huge shovel has removed about one-half of the mass to the level of the ground and it is expected that by the end of the week or the first of next it will be possible to begin excavating the cellar. When the tower of Old Main finally fell on that historic morning, the huge bell, the bell which for years had awakened students for eight-fifteens and pealed out tidings of athletic and forensic victories it crashed to the cellar with a deafening roar as it took heavy timbers with it.

Every member of the faculty and every student and every one who has ever attended classes at Westminster hopes that the bell will be in such shape that it can be preserved as a memorial to the great fire which sounded the beginning rather than the end of the old college.

Soviets Increase University Fees

MOSCOW, March 11.—The commissariat of education announces that from now on Soviet universities and technical high schools will charge substantial fees.

The new system, however, preserves a marked distinction between the "proletariat" and the "bourgeoisie." Workers and employes, the latter term being used to describe office workers and other "white collar" classes, are required now to pay fees of 225 roubles a year in universities and 150 roubles a year in technical high schools. However, even workers who elect to study any of the so-called "free professions", such as law, journalism, teaching or medicine, will pay 350 roubles fee in the universities.

"Persons who live on income not derived from their own labor," must pay fees ranging from 400 to 550 roubles a year for their higher education.

No Pay

Henry A. Bellows, of Minneapolis and St. Paul, was one of the five members of the Federal Radio Commission who agreed to serve without pay until Congress meets again. He is a native of Maine.

"You are coming to my party, aren't you?"

"How can I when I'm in half mourning."

"Oh, well, come and stay half the evening."

American Craze For Jade Keeps Chinese Busy

By JOHN GOETTE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PEKING, Mar. 11—The craze for jade which continues to hold America and Europe keeps the Chinese experts busy since all fine jade work is done in this country, although the stone is quarried in Burma.

Much of the best jade carving is done in Peking. Here the most expert of carvers is paid U. S. $5.00 per month while cutters, drillers and polishers draw up U. S. $3.00 per month.

Apprentices in the jade houses must serve a term of three and a half years during which they receive no pay but are given a few dollars on each of the three festivals of the year. However, food and lodging is supplied to all workers and apprentices.

Peking carvers turn out chiefly figures of birds, animals, Buddhas, flowers, beads, pendant, buckles, rings, bracelets, wine cups, sacrificial vessels and incense burners.

The smaller articles, such as beads, bracelets and pendants is usually fashioned from the more costly green jade while Buddhas and figures are done in white jade.

Cotton Mills To Stage Exhibit

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Mar. 11.—The growth of the cotton textiles industry in New England from its earliest stages to the present day will be depicted by a rare collection of prints of mills in this section in an historic exhibit to be shown at the dedication of the Lawrence & Company new building, Franklin street, March 14.

The dedication exercises will be given official color by the presence of Mayor E. Nichols who will make the opening address on the occasion. Textile manufacturers from all sections of the country have been invited to attend the affair.

The collection of prints which will feature the dedication will be exhibited by John S. Lawrence, president of the New England Council. Keys of mills more than 100 years old and seals, hand stencils and stamps used a century ago will also form part of the exhibition.

MERCER NEWS

All of the bridges proposed for erection in the county this summer have been approved by the Water Ways Commission of the state it is said today by County Engineer F. F. Graham of Grove City who has just returned from Harrisburg where the plans for the bridges were laid before the commission.

Bids on the bridges will be asked at once by advertisement, it is estimated they will average a cost of $2,000 each. Until prices have been obtained on them and the contracts let for construction nothing will be done in the planning of further bridge construction.

The date of March 25th has been set by the County Superintendent of Schools, Prof. H. E. McConnel for the holding of the eighth grade examinations in the rural schools of the county that will be preliminary to High School exams.

All eighth grade pupils in the rural schools desiring to take up High School work next fall will be required to take this test.

Those passing the test of May 25, will be eligible to take the examination held in all county high schools on the date of May 7, that will be for high school entrance.

All fixed to proceed with the collection of the $15,000 in bail bonds that have been turned over to him for collection it is announced today by Attorney J. W. Nelson who is county solicitor. The proper legal steps have been taken to protect the interests of the county in collecting and those interested have been notified of the debt and given opportunity to pay.

It is said by Mr. Nelson executions will be issued in the near future for the collections of the sum.

The sum noted is but a part of that owed the county in forfeited bail bonds, there still remaining for collection $25,000 in unpaid bonds.

The practice of wholesale bailing indulged in will be found not so profitable following the actions now being brought.

Criminal Type Theory A Myth, Survey Shows

NEW YORK, Mar. 11.—There is no definite criminal type and no single cause or combination of causes for crime. A great majority of criminals are of normal intelligence, and most of them become criminals when very young. Our present legal and "correctional" machinery has demonstrated its utter failure to improve fundamentally the crime situation and should be reorganized to permit consideration of the particular needs of each criminal and to assure his confinement until personally equipped for social freedom.

These are major conclusions drawn from the most comprehensive scientific study of a large group of criminals thus far made—of 3,053 offenders in the court of general sessions during 1925 and 1926. At the direction of Cardinal Hayes, the Catholic Charities Probation Bureau brought the talents of a large staff of thoroughly trained workers, assisted by psychiatrists, psychologists and physicians to bear upon the analysis of criminals and their crimes.

Dr. Sven Hedin On Chinese Expedition

(International News Service)

OSLO, March 11.—Dr. Sven Hedin, famous explorer, is starting on a new expedition for Central China, now that the political and military developments apparently make it possible for him to go.

His objective is the City Urumissi, the capital of Chinese Turkestan, and the expedition will use camels, as Dr. Hedin is of the opinion that automobiles have not yet proved themselves absolutely reliable in the desert.

He starts from the village of Patoutchen, about 900 miles west of Pekin, and the route is across the southern part of Mongolia and the Gobi desert to Hami, in Turkestan and thence to Urumissi. The scientific program comprises geographical, archaelogical and geological exploration and studies of the ancient civilization.

Motor Liner Has Playroom In Funnel

(International News Service)

SOUTHAMPTON, Mar. 11.—The world's largest and latest motor liner, the Alcantara, a 22,000 ton sister ship to the Asturias, is on her maiden voyage to South America. She sailed from here on March 4th.

Two Diesel engines of 20,000 h. p. consume 70 tons of fuel oil per day, but there is little to indicate that the twin propellors are doing 100 revolutions per minute at a 16-knot speed.

The builders, Harland and Wolff's believe these oil-driven engines will soon drive the steamship from the seas. But the ships still carry funnels. They are left because the public seems to insist that they are an essential of a ship. Actually the after-funnel of the Alcantara contains a main staircase, a gymnasium, and a brightly decorated children's playroom.

Scotch Distillers Show Big Losses

(International News Service)

EDINBURGH, March 11.—The quantity of spirits distilled in Great Britain during 1926 amounted to 28,953,211 proof gallons, being a decline of 10,616,900 gallons.

Only in 1919, when conditions were abnormal, has the production fallen below 36,000,000 gallons.

Last Of Piatts Leaves Castles

Historic Ohio Landmarks Remain As Monuments To Noted Family

WEST LIBERTY, O., Mar. 11.—Finis was written to a chapter of Ohio history by the death this week of Capt. William McCoy Piatt at his chateau near here.

The captain, the last of Piatts, one of Ohio's most distinctive families, was a descendant of Col. Jacob Piatt, a member of the staff of Gen. George Washington during revolution, and the son of Gen. A. Sanders Piatt of Civil war fame. He was the nephew of Col. Donn Piatt.

Both of the elder Piatts were poets, editors, soldiers and prominent figures in state and national politics for many years.

Capt. Piatt was the builder of the famous Piatt Chateaux, for years landmarks for lovers of the quaint and unusual. These two huge dwellings were designed after the chateaux of France, the ancestral home of Piatts.

The first Piatts came to America early in the eighteenth century. They were French Huguenots, fleeing persecution.

Chateau Piatt, where Capt. Piatt lived at the time of his death, was build first, for Gen. A. Sanders Piatt.

Later the general's brother, Col. Donn Piatt, wanted a home, and his nephew built for him Mac-O-Chee castle, a few miles away. Mac-O-Chee castle is much larger than Chateau Piatt and more ornate.

James Whitcomb Riley, the beloved Hoosier poet, was a close friend of Gen. Piatt and Col. Piatt.

It was at Mac-O-Chee, in a room at the top of a high tower, that Riley sat one autumn morning and wrote "When the Frost is on the Pumpkin and the Fodder's in the Shock" as he looked out at Donn Piatt's fields.

Fame As Warrior Came To Tilly At Age Of 61

Victor In Thirty Years' War Until Gustavus Adolphus Entered Conflict

John Tzerklaes, Count of Tilly in Belgium did not attract much attention until 1620, when he was sixty-one years of age. The battle of the White Hill, which began the Thirty Years' war, made Tilly and his army famous throughout Germany. He continued, during the first years of that terrible war, to win battle after battle.

His troops devasted valley after valley and captured Heidelberg and Mannheim. He was rewarded by receiving the title of Count. When the Danes came into the conflict he defeated them. He was by far the outstanding figure of the first years of the great war, before Wallenstein and Gustavus Adolphus had come into the arena of wrestling armies.

Even after Wallenstein appeared at the head of his private army, Tilly at first overshadowed the freebooter. Tilley's victory at Lutter, won over the Danes, was one of the most important battles of the war.

Politics did much to hinder Tilly thereafter. At first he was able to fight Gustavus Adolphus on even terms after the Swedes entered the war. He captured Magdeburg after a siege of horrors. The sack which followed the capture of the city, in which between 25,000 and 30,000 of the unfortunate residents were butchered, has been attributed to Tilly. Just how much he was to blame for the atrocities is not clear.

Four month later he was defeated by Gustavus Adolphus at Breitenfeld, and some weeks later the armies clashed once more on the River Lech, where Tilly was mortally wounded. He died April 30, 1632, at the age of seventy-three years.

Moscow Boy Sets New Weight Record

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, March 11.—What is claimed to be a world's record for weight lifting has been established here by Petrov Buynitski, 23-year-old Muscovite, who lifted from the floor and "put up" over his head 154 pounds.

The feat is declared remarkable because the youth only weighs 150 pounds.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS
BY MRS. MARY MORTON

TODAY'S RECIPES

Perfection Salad—(Twenty-five servings)—Four tablespoons gelatine, one cup cold water, four cups boiling water, one cup mild vinegar, four tablespoons lemon juice, one cup sugar, two cups cabbage, finely chopped, four cups celery cut in pieces, four pimentoes or fresh sweet red and green peppers, salt to taste—a teaspoon or more. Soften gelatine in the cold water, add boiling water, stir until dissolved, then add sugar, vinegar, lemon juice and salt. When sugar is dissolved strain. When mixture begins to stiffen add remaining ingredients. Turn into mold first dipped in cold water and chill. Cut in slices or blocks and serve on lettuce leaf or endive with mayonnaise. Or cut in cubes and serve in cases made of red or green peppers or turn into individual molds lined with strips of canned pimentoes or bright red pepper. For a fruit salad use fruits instead of vegetables in the above.

Chocolate Ice Box Cake—One and one-half dozen lady fingers (double), one-half pound sweet chocolate, two to four tablespoons sugar, four eggs, one cup whipping cream, vanilla extract. Mix chocolate and sugar over hot water, adding two teaspoons water. Cool slightly and stir in egg yolks, then fold in whites beaten stiff. Add a few drops of vanilla. Line a round, deep pan or mold with wax paper. Place layer of single lady fingers in bottom and around the sides. Spread half of the chocolate mixture on them, cover with a layer of lady fingers, put in rest of chocolate and finish the top with lady fingers. Cover with wax paper and weight down with a plate. Keep in refrigerator 12 to 24 hours. To serve remove paper, invert on plate and cover with whipped cream. (Sponge cake may replace lady fingers.)

MENU HINT

The business woman who has her own apartment or lives at home likes to entertain just as much as her sister who is at home all the time, but she has less time for making dainty things to eat. The following menu may be largely prepared the evening before she entertains and will be appreciated by the guests.

Perfection Salad		Olives
Warm Rolls		Butter
	Ice Box Cake
Coffe	Salted Nuts	Mints

SUGGESTIONS

Electric toasters may be cleaned more easily with a small dry paint brush than with a cloth.

Vary rolls, biscuits, coffee cake, nut bread, cakes and cookies by the use of part whole wheat flour instead of all white.

Full Tone

Since 1915 Standard for all Sets

Consult your radio dealer. He will tell you the right combination of Cunningham Radio Tubes for your receiver.

The full, well rounded tone of a radio set equipped with this new Cunningham power tube is truly remarkable even to ears accustomed to quality reproduction. The most up-to-date equipment is designed especially to use the CX-371. This tube supplies the loud speaker with maximum, undistorted power. Besides its use in the more modern type of receiver, it can be employed to great advantage in bringing older equipment up-to-the-minute. The wiring changes necessary to adapt it to circuits not designed for it are very simple.

Four Coast Cities Plan Great Ports

(International News Service)

OAKLAND, Cal., March 11—Following the example of Los Angeles, which demonstrated that any city having several million dollars to spend and some water to work with can have a harbor, four cities lining the east shore of San Francisco bay today were preparing to develop ports capable of handling maritime traffic.

Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley and Richmond are the cities with aquatic ambitions.

In Oakland harbor, new piers are now being built and preparations made for channel dredging by the federal government. The city of Oakland itself is spending nearly $10,000,000 in these improvements. Alameda will join with Oakland in the development of its inner harbor. The city councils of the two cities have just effected a satisfactory agreement.

Berkeley, site of the University of California, plans to spend $5,000,000 on its waterfront.

In Richmond impetus was given harbor developments by the announcement of a large motor car company that it will establish a distributing plant there.

Bulgaria Has Big Surplus Of Men

(International News Service)

SOFIA, March 11—Every woman should find a mate in Bulgaria for according to the recent census taken in December there are 12,000 more men than women in the total population of 5,484,000. The last census in 1920 showed 5,000 more women than men.

Masonic Temple Rebuilt Into Fine Office Structure

Hundred And Seventeen Officers In Big Five-Story Temple Building

Rebuilt Structure Is Now Most Modern Office And Store Building

When the Temple building, formerly the headquarters of the Lawrence club and Masonic organizations on North street, is ready for occupancy, it will be one of the finest buildings for storeroom and office purposes in western Pennsylvania.

Rapid progress is being made and it will not be long until tenants will move into the building, which is fireproof, five stories high, has four storerooms on the ground floor, 117 office rooms, an elevator, and in fact all up-to-date accommodations.

The Temple building is owned by George McKenzie, C. J. Streib, L. A. Haug and Earl Streib and is advantageously situated in the downtown section, has daylight on all sides and will have free parking space for 75 autos of tenants who occupy the building.

The scaffolding has been removed in front of the building and one can but attest to the improvement that has been made since fire razed the old structure. The walls have been rebuilt and 110 tons of structural steel used in the building.

The entrance way is a thing of beauty itself and leads to the corridor in the rear of the storerooms, the staircase and to the elevator. All of the corridor floors and stairways are of Trazzo and all officers have metal doors.

There is a shaft coursing through the center of the building which provides excellent ventilation and this with the daylight on all four sides of the building and lavatories in each office will make it a choice place for those who secure offices.

All of the wires, telegraph and telephone, are hidden. They are confined in a conduit system and according to the general contractor, L. A. Haug, 15 miles of wire has been placed in the conduit. The conduit is so arranged that new taps can be made on each floor and there is also fire fighting equipment placed on each floor.

There are two separate steam heating systems, a mail shute from the top to bottom floor and in fact everything about the building augurs well for the Temple Building company which is leaving nothing undone to make it an advantageous place for the transaction of business.

More than a year ago the building, then known as the Masonic Temple, was damaged by fire. The present owners purchased the structure and have practically rebuilt the entire building, also added a fifth story. It is equivalent to a fine new five-story office and store building, and is one of the most modern and complete that it is possible to erect. The transformation in the structure is a revelation to all who have inspected it.

Some of the building will be in use by April 1, according to present indications.

STAR OF WALES LODGE TO MEET

New Members To Enter Order Saturday Evening; Personals Of The Lodge

The Star of Wales lodge will hold a very interesting meeting Saturday evening, March 12, at 7:30. The degrees of the order will be given to new members by the following team: Griffith Thomas, Thomas Grey, Griffith Phillips, James Davies, Thomas D. Thomas, Charles Richards, Evan Hopkins, Emry Lewis, Henry T. Jones and Benjamin J. Fowler.

Each member of the lodge will receive a copy of the general balance sheet of the order at this meeting. It is in book form with pictures of the delegates to the convention, among them the pictures of Daniel Richards and Mrs. Griffith Thomas may be found. The pictures of the national officers, including that of Griffith Thomas of this city, who is the secretary, may be found in it also.

Star of Wales Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Davies are having a fine time in Florida. They have traveled over 200 miles from where they were staying a month ago. It is hoped that Mr. Davies, who is steward of the lodge, will give a lecture on the sights of Florida when he returns to New Castle.

Rev. Samuel Whilding, pastor of the First Congregational church, had a wonderful reception while filling the pulpit of the Welsh church of Utica, N. Y. He has been there for two Sundays. According to the report from a paper in Utica, Rev. Whilding was greeted by a large audience each Sunday.

Some of the members of the Star of Wales lodge, including Henry T. Jones of Waldo street and Councilman D. O. Davies, who attended the celebration of St. Davids day at Pittsburgh, enjoyed the speech of Arthur James, lieutenant governor of the state of Pennsylvania.

Mazer Story Is Being Checked

Ora Slater Starts Checking Over Story Told By Mazer On Stand

DETECTIVE MAY VISIT PRISON

(International News Service)

CANTON, O., March 11.—Detective Ora Slater of Cincinnati continued his efforts to substantiate the story told by Louis Mazer, alleged conspirator in the Don Mellett murder of July 16, last.

Mazer's story was given to the Stark county grand jury Tuesday and made public for the first time.

Several police officers who were on the Canton force at the time of in Mazer's statemens as being "the higher ups" who knew that an "editor was to be mauled" on the night of July 15, 1926.

In order to check more thoroughly Mazer's "immunity confession" Slater may visit Pat McDermott who Mazer claims was the "triggerman" and who is now serving a life sentence following his conviction of first degree murder in connection with the killing of Mellett.

Meantime Floyd Streitenberger, Canton detective awaits arraignment for his alleged complicity in the crime scheduled for next Monday.

If Slater makes the trip to the penitentiary it is probable he will question Ben Rudner also, it was stated here today by those close to the investigator. Rudner was convicted of second degree murder and was sentenced to life imprisonment for his part in the conspiracy.

Reports that Mayor S. M. Swarts of Canton had started a probe of his own in connection with Mazer's revelations could not be confirmed here.

Texas University Plans To Classify Entire Student Body

(International News Service)

AUSTIN, Tex. March 11.—Intelligence tests will be continued for one more year at the University of Texas, and examinations will be given first year students entering the College of Arts and Sciences, according to E. J. Asher, psychology instructor.

It was decided four years ago by the faculty to conduct such tests for five years in order to determine the abilities of the new students entering the University, Asher explained and next session will mark the end of the testing period.

"There has not been any definite action taken on the data so far gathered," Asher explained, "but probably some classification of new students will be developed after the exact relation of the results have been determined.

Asher stated that the undertaking, which was purely an original experiment, has given satisfactory information so far.

Mt. Gretna Centre Of Military Work Of State Outfits

General Beary Has Made Big Strides In State's Military Service

Three Thousand Acres Now Devoted To Development Of Work

(From News Bureau)
(State Capital)

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 11.—Pennsylvania is accustomed to a place of leadership in the union of states, so that a statement to the effect that Pennsylvania leads the country in the matter of preparation for national defense in itself might occasion no surprise. But an investigation of the reason why Pennsylvania leads in this branch reveals to one a preparedness plant that is one of the most efficient organizations possible to effect.

During the World war, the 28th division, which was the Pennsylvania National Guard division, was considered to be the best National Guard division in France, and one of the eight divisions of the entire A. E. F. to be cited by General Pershing for efficiency. The ideal of thoroughness which permeated the division in 1918, still is existent, and if anything has been improved upon by the present day 28th division, which is the Pennsylvania National Guard.

First Line Defense.

The old idea of National Guard is done forever. Under the national defense act, the National Guard is a component part of the first line defense for the United States, the other component being the regular army. To parallel the regular army in efficiency, and to do it at a cost that is amazingly low is the accomplishment of the man who heads up the guard system of Pennsylvania, Adjutant General Frank D. Beary, a soldier of 37 years' experience, but who still has the enthusiasm of a "rookie".

While the headquarters and arsenal of the 28th division are in Harrisburg, Pa., it is at Mt. Gretna, Pa., that a visitor gets a broader visualization of the splendid work that has been done and is being done by General Beary and his staff officers.

Mt. Gretna today is a partial realization of a dream of 11 years ago. Back in 1916 the military reservation had slightly more than 200 acres, with here and there a ramshackle building for the storage of equipment. Today the reservation has over 3000 acres of rolling land, well kept buildings which contain trucks, caissons, field artillery, supplies, machine shops and all the impedimenta necessary to a well kept military organization.

On the reservation there are $600,000 worth of visible assets, which have cost the state about $282,000. The answer to the wide difference in the values is a canniness on the part of General Beary, who though a native of Lehigh county where most everybody admits to being Pennsylvania Dutch, must have a streak of Scotch in him.

An example of his thrift is seen in the auto mechanic shop. Shortly after the war he suggested to the government that Mt. Gretna was the place for gassed service men to be rehabilitated. The government agreed with him and as a result 100 gassed men were sent there. The government fitted up a splendid shop, and after the last man had been graduated, the shop reverted to the 28th division. In the truck sheds are seen dozens of trucks which were to have been junked by the government but which were turned over to General Beary for the 28th division. His men rebuilt them at small cost and today they are in splendid shape.

By installing a small planing mill it has been possible to mill lumber for the erection of buildings, and the stone necessary for foundation work comes right out of the ground, a pretty brown sandstone that has a rich appearance. Several buildings have been erected without a penny of cost to the state of Pennsylvania except for the labor.

At Colebrook, where the cavalry camp is located, the state has taken over the houses, and by using its own men to repair and remodel the houses, the employes of the state who live on the reservation are housed comfortably, and have their own little plots of ground for truck gardening. The youngsters are hauled to Lebanon, Pa., each day in a rehabilitated army truck which saves bus fares for the school children. Colebrook is really a state-owned village, and as neat appearing a little place as you would care to see.

So outstandingly efficient is the 28th division that the United States government has recognized it as a model for the states, and only recently, General Lord, the budget officer for the entire United States, spent a day in Mt. Gretna and Harrisburg, looking over the plant. The system of storing parts is now used by the United States government and is known as the Pennsylvania system.

General Beary is not a jingoist, not a militarist. He is a soldier with the ability of a big business executive who believes in reasonable preparedness. He believes that the training and discipline afforded by service in the 28th division results in better, cleaner citizens for the state, and each year sees him advancing the standards. His own service dates back 37 years when he was a private in the company enlisted from Lehigh county, his home.

A POLITICAL PROSPECT

"How did you come to embark on a political career?"

"I won my opportunity," said Senator Sorghum, "by my lovely disposition. I was always anxious to oblige friends and to avoid making enemies."

Wrangle Islanders Get First Air Mail

MOSCOW, Mar. 11.—Fifty colonists of Wrangel Island, sent there six months ago for the purpose of establishing by settlement the superiority of the Soviet's claim to the island over any possible claim by Great Britain or the United States, will receive their first mail and news of the outside world this Spring when an airplane of the "Society for Defense of the Soviet Union" lands on the island.

The society, recently amalgamated with the "Society for Aerial and Chemical Warfare," and now known as the "Osoaviachim," plans the Wrangel Island flight of this society endeavor in 1927. It was under the auspices of this society that the flight of Soviet aviators to Japan and return took place in 1925.

Starting from Petropavlovsk on the peninsula of Kamchatka, the Wrangel Island flyers will go via Chukotski cape and the mouth of the Lena River to their destination, which is far within the Arctic circle. They will cover a distance of 3,500 miles, chiefly over barren steppes, mountains and the Arctic ocean.

Four aviators will make the flight. Besides letters for the colonists, they will take with them a supply of fresh food. The colonists subsist largely on game, but rely upon the aviators to bring them fruit and other anti-scorbutic foods. After visiting the colony, the aviators will skirt the island, photographing it for maps.

Veteran Trapper Has Huge Kill

SALT LAKE CITY, March 11—For eleven years Roy Mussalman has trapped on the Indian Creek cat range.

He has lived a secluded life at his lonely cabin in Mormon Creek pasture. Jack, a large, grizzly dog of undetermined ancestry, and Old Blue, his faithful horse, being his only companions.

In this time he has caught 2,100 lynx or bobcats, 6,000 coyotes, 1,500 foxes, 6,000 badgers and civet cats and numberless crows and small pests. Stockmen whose ranges he has protected consider he has no peer in the west as a trapper.

After the "Flu" is over —you need a Tonic

Help Is Needed To Restore Your Wasted Strength And Energy.

"Flu" leaves the body weakened and run down. In such cases a tonic is clearly indicated. Restore the appetite and rid yourself of that let-down feeling.

"Flu" is a very enervating disease. It leaves its victims so weak and debilitated that there is as much danger from the after-effects as from the diease itself. In other words, after an attack of the "flu" you need a selective tonic to rebuild the system so that you may have your old-time strength and energy restored.

S.S.S. is unequalled for restoring strength and vitality.

You owe it to yourself and family to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build up red blood corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the body is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable. S.S.S. is made from the roots of fresh herbs and plants, and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

New Castle's Chance For Postoffice Enlargement Has Been Improved

Failure Of Congress To Pass Building Bill May Aid This City

New Castle May Be Moved Up On Building Program

By GEORGE H. MANNING
(Washington Correspondent of the News.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 11.—New Castle is now on equal terms, not only with other cities of the state, but with practically every other city in the country, in the matter of securing a new postoffice building within the next year or two.

Failure of two public building bills, killed by the filibuster in the senate in the closing days of the congress session, leaves the postoffice building program virtually where it was at the start—with $100,000,000 authorized for expenditure outside the District of Columbia over five or six years for giving new or enlarged quarters to the postoffices of the country most urgently needing them, and the allotment of this sum still largely undecided and the money not appropriated.

An entirely new list of projects must be submitted to congress at the beginning of the next session in December, because the bill containing them died automatically when the congress adjourned, and New Castle or any other city may or may not be put on this list. And the joint committee has been so acrobatic in making up previous lists that it is beyond the realm of reason to hazzard a guess as to what cities will be placed on the priority list to be submitted nine months from now.

A review of the postoffice building situation as it affects New Castle is very interesting. With authority to spend $100,000,000 on a six-year program, the joint postoffice building committee of the postoffice and treasury departments made a survey of the larger offices of the country, taking account of floor space, postal receipts, number of carriers, increase in population and similar factors. The committee then announced a list of cities where construction work ought to be done soon. A few new buildings were included but most of the projects were additions to present buildings. New Castle was named as requiring a new building costing $405,000.

To follow out this big program, however, would take nearly twice as much money as the $100,000,000 which was available, so later the joint committee got out a new list which totalled $100,000,000 containing a large number of new buildings and leaving out many cities previously named for extensions. New Castle was retained on this second list, but the estimate was cut to $355,000. When various congressmen sought an explanation they were told by the joint committee that they expected congress to pass a bill doubling the authorized building limits. If the bill failed, they were told, the $100,000,000 list would be entirely revised and might possibly exclude or include New Castle or any other city, and if the second $100,000,000 authorization passed, nearly all cities named on both lists might be provided for.

But when a draft of a bill was sent to congress a few days later from the joint postoffice and treasury department committee, through the budget director, to provide the appropriations to begin the first year building program, New Castle was omitted from the list, although it had been on both of the lists drawn up by the committee to receive consideration, first, under the entire building program, and second, under the program to be carried out with the first $100,000,000 provided by congress. And no lucid explanation of this omission has been offered by the departments.

The second $100,000,000 authorization bill failed. Now the joint committee must again revise the list—unless they care still further to depend on the uncertainties of congressional action.

The same filibuster which killed the bill increasing the building authorization outside of the District of Columbia to $200,000,000 also killed the appropriation bill carrying $19,878,700 for starting work on the projects to be taken up during the next fiscal year. New Castle was not named on this list, but 81 other cities in the same situation were named, and to have started work on these which were deemed to be more urgent, would have carried the program down to New Castle that much sooner.

Now appropriations for starting the $100,000,000 program must wait until congress gets back on the job and the start of the program has been pushed from six to 12 months in the future because the senate talked too much.

And the question of when New Castle will get a new postoffice building is still in the air.

Fake Dealers Are Curbed In Africa

(International News Service)

CAPE TOWN, March 11.—South Africa is probably the first country in the world to protect its visitors from dishonest curio sellers.

Since the American tourist ships first began to visit the country and hundreds of their passengers made the trip "up-country", the government has realized that to allow people to carry "fakes" as curios away with them would be bad business. Now the different Chambers of Commerce have been asked to collect genuine curios from the native territories and sell them to tourists.

French Salvation Army Lassies To Serve Doughboys

By E. L. RAWLEY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, March 11.—The Champ Elysees, Paris' most popular thoroughfare, will be lined with French Salvation Army lassies serving doughnuts and coffee as in the days of the A. E. F., when the legionnaires go to Paris this September for their annual convention. "Fags" also will be served by numerous K. of C's., Y. M. C. A., Red Cross representatives and other welfare workers that endeared themselves to the "doughboys" during the hectic days of 1917 and 1918.

The work of the welfare workers of the war days is to be done all over again, James J. Deighan, the French convention officer for this state, announces.

The legionnaires will be away for a month or longer and wherever it is possible the welfare organizations that carried on virtually under the guns of the enemy will be on hand to aid "vets", their wives and children in viewing the spots where the doughboys were billeted in war days.

Pennsylvania, Deighan says, is leading the country in the number of reservations for the legion pilgrimage to France in September.

Never ask a girl what she is thinking about. There are enough lies in the world already.

Anybody May Dance "Black Bottom" In Paris Is Decree

(International News Service)

PARIS, March 11.—"Black Bottom" is not the exclusive property of anyone according to a Paris arbitration court. The court decided against M. Salabert proprietor of France's largest musical publishing house in his contention that because he published the original "Black Bottom" in France the expression was his exclusive property.

In rendering its verdict the court decided that "Black Bottom" was a general denomination and like "valse," "fox trot," and "tago" not susceptible of appropriation.

Forty Mongolian Camels In Circus At Peru, Indiana

(International News Service)

PERU, Ind., March 11.—Forty camels which arrived direct from Mongolia are the latest addition to the winter circus quarters here.

The camels came on express cars from New York. They were unloaded and tethered around a shadowy bonfire near the Wabash freight depot here giving the place the appearance of an Arabian scene.

The animals were escorted from their native land by dusky attendants who got them here in fine condition.

British Scientists Seek Higher Wages

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 11.—British scientists are following the lead of labor unions by orginizing a widespread movement for better status, wages and conditions for those who labor in scientific fields.

One hundred of Britain's most distinguished scientific and professional men have banded together in an appeal for 10,000 scientific worker to band themselves in the proposed new union.

They stipulate that the "strike weapon" shall be ruled out of the idea, but they insist on more "class-consciousness' among scientists—probably the worst paid class in Britain—and they demand a system of minimum salaries and fees.

GUIDANCE IN THE HOME.
Mrs. W. W. Sniff.

Just boys and girls in our homes. To be sure, that's our subject matter just now—but they are boys and girls with futures and that is our first pause for thought.

Slackers?

With your first look into the eyes of your new born child begins your responsibility in the guidance of that child's life. And you cannot shake off that responsibility, it is there to stay.

You may shirk it, you may side step it, but that only tells the pitiful story that your child has only a slacker to look to when it needs a steady hand to help and guide. The very fact that so many failures go out from the homes of our land ought to put away from you forever any carelessness in your attitude toward the responsibility that is yours as parents.

The Right Path.

Just steering the child into the right path. How easy it sounds. But what a tremendous job—the parent's job—to take the motive power that is wrapped up in your child and carefully release it and guide it into proper channels with the curbing that is necessary. But that curbing doesn't mean cement hardness—nothing so despicable as that. It means standing at the by-paths that they may not stray, pointing out and explaining the miry places in which they might sink; urging and helping—not carrying—them over through places and boulders lest they seek other and easier paths. It means a considerate looking ahead for the parents along the path of the child.

It is easier by far to take that plastic piece of clay that is yours to mold and slap it this way and that—like they do a mass of clay at the pottery—cow it with harsh words and brutal blows and thus masterfully subdue it to your own wills. But then! You would have only an abject piece of humanity a worse product than an imperfect, inanimate piece of china. For at the pottery the result of a mistaken handling of the clay can be put aside as seconds or, if too faulty, detroyed.

Egoity All Important.

There is an idealism that grows with each life. Just w n it begins to grow—we know not. What the source of that idealism we are not sure. Perhaps the little rootlet sprang from the root of your idealism that you have cultivated or possibly left to wither. Perhaps it was God planted it there. The nurturing of that idealism in your child that it may develop untrammeled will mean a life of priceless value. Ignore that idealism, stultify its growth and you will have a stunted and ofttimes a vicious life as the result.

Steering the child into the right path then means steering each individual child into its own right path—not into a selected path of your own chosing. So necessary is it, parents, to look downinto the depths of each child and find the trend of its life and then catch step and walk side by side.

Again it is to pause and take thought of the damaged lives that may be your legacy to your children because of indifference, impatience and incompetancy.

Every child has a right to unfold his faculties in Nature's own way. Because Nature has so many ways in her unfolding process it is an intricate route for the parent to survey.

Your Visions Count Mightily.

We are told that the young shall see visions. There is no question about their seeing visions for that is a part of youth. Indeed it is nearly the whole of youth. But the kind of visions? The kind they catch at your table, at your hearth. The visions they catch through your eyes of the home, of the church, of the school, of society, of the state and of your relation to these institutions. The kind of visions that will help them to plant their feet with confidence on these foundation stones of our civilization or else will cause their feet to stumble.

So early does the child step out from the home for further training and extends guidance in the schools that he needs the assurance of the parents that these are worthy guides not enemies into whose presence he is going. Some parents are not able to see beyond the chip on their child's shoulder and so the work of the teacher for that child can grade little above zero. Some parents misunderstanding the value of the digging process of school work—with mistaken kindness do that work for the child—and so limit its mental growth.

Out Into Life Alone.

The time comes in each life when he starts out into the world with only self-help as his staff on his climb toward success. What are the qualities that you parents should have built into that staff—his only support? Wouldn't you say, self-control, self-direction, and self-denial?

Unless that staff has been well formed in the home, to be ready when needed, success when if it comes, comes at such a cost of effort and pain.

There is a smithy of self-propulsion and self-discipline in which every life must be forged. The path to that workshop if paved with over indulgence by the parents brings the child weak and shivering to its portals. Then he will be to soft and to anemic to meet bravely the blows of the many hammers on the anvil of experience and yet he cannot escape it.

Here is pause for thought and parents ought to think. Why not?

The Need of the Hour.

The crying need of the world today is—not the condemning of others for failure—but to recognize the need of the youth of today where our responsibilities touch that need and then courageously shoulder the responsibility and go to the task that is ours.

So parents get your grip on the vital reality of the task intrusted to you. It is a tragedy that our children are not understood by their teachers but a far greater tragedy that they are not understood by their parents.

We need to think through this responsibiltiy of ours.

Loses Estate

Madame Henri Sudreau has lost her fight to obtain the property in France that belonged to Jacques Lebaudy, "Emperor of the Sahara." New York courts recognized her as his common-law wife after she was acquitted of his murder in Westbury, N. Y., in 1919. But such relations have no standing under the French law, and Paris courts awarded the huge French estates to Countess des Fels, his sister.

Mrs. Foxlee To Have Conference

Ellis Island Worker To Visit International Institute Here

SPEAKS TONIGHT AT Y. W. AUDITORIUM

Mrs. Ludmilla Foxlee, the Y. W. C. A. worker at Ellis Island will hold a conference this afternoon with the staff of the International Institute which is doing welfare work for the Y. W. C. A. at their location on Pennsylvania avenue.

The institute does welfare work among the women of many nationalities and much help is expected to be obtained by the conference with Mrs. Foxlee, says Miss Emma B. Moore, head of the staff of the institute. The knowledge that Mrs. Foxlee has obtained in her work with immigrant women should be very helpful to the staff of the institute.

It is said that Mrs. Foxell knows almost all the languages of the people of Southern Europe and that she will be able to speak with many of the workers of the institute in their own language.

Mrs. Foxlee will speak tonight at the uptown Y. W. C. A.

Arrest Local Man In Sharon For Passing Check

Detective C. C. Horner and Officer Thomas Lynch of the city police department, went to Sharon this morning, to investigate a man under arrest there, who according to Chief of Police Steager of Sharon, has confessed to being Walter Jamison, a former resident of this city, who was sent up some time ago, for the theft of cigarets from a local wholesale house.

Jamison is being held in Sharon on a charge of operating the bad check game, having been picked up in that city, after having pulled a bad check stunt that is very similar to a number pulled here.

Engineer Unit Fast Filling Up

More Recruits Are Enlisting In Local Military Unit

SEVERAL VACANCIES ARE STILL EXISTING

Company B, 125th mounted engineers, now being recruited here, is fast filling up and but ten more men are now needed to fill the quota of 50 men necessary to have the unit mustered into service.

Four men signed up last night and four more will sign up this evening, making a total of 40 men who are certain as members of the organization. In addition, five other men have signed up but are on what is known as the doubtful list and at the present time are not being considered as possibilities.

With the opportunity of becoming affiliated with this unit narrowing down to a few, owing to the many enlistments already secured, young men who are interested in securing a knowledge of engineering must get busy at once, if they expect to have any opportunity at all of joining this outfit.

Young men with the following knowledge and training are especially desired at this time: Blacksmiths (1), buglers (2), carpenters (3), cooks (2), demolition men (2), saddler (1), wagoneers (5).

It is especially desired to get in touch with two men who are good cooks as this is naturally an important matter in connection with the business of the unit.

The above specialists, as enumerated, draw extra pay during the camp period in addition to their pay as privates, first class, and usually are granted special privileges which are most welcome.

The armory on Neshannock avenue is still open every evening from 7:30 to 9:30 and will be kept open until the quota has been secured. Those in charge of the recruiting are Second Lieutenant Paul W. Keely and Sergeants Saltzer, Florida, Boughter and Thorne.

EXECUTIVE MEETING

Executive meeting of the Lawrence County W. C. T. U. took place Thursday afternoon in the Y. W. C. A. parlors with the president, Miss Margaret S. Walker, presiding.

Arrangements were made for each member of the Union to make an effort to secure one new member during the year. Each Union throughout the county was asked to have a special meeting in May.

A communication was read from the state president telling of the plans made to purchase a building in Harrisburg, Pa., for to be used as headquarters for the State W. C. T. U. Each Union was asked to contribute to this enterprise if suitable time was given.

A committee was appointed to review the books that compose the Master Library, a set of ten books which comprise the entire Bible for the advisibility of placing them in the library of the Benjamin Franklin Junior high school. This committee included Mrs. D. F. Balph, Mrs. Ida May Allison, Mrs. J. B. McClaren, Mrs. S. E. McCleary and Mrs. Calvin Smith.

Plans were made for the County Institute to be held in April. The place and exact date will be announced later.

Franklin Pool Water Report

Water In Pool In Excellent Condition, Analysis Shows Regularly

Swimming pool at the Franklin Junior high school is occupied by over 2000 swimmers and bathers every week and yet bacteriological examination made by the health officer, W. L. Steen, M. D., show the water at the outlet of the pool to contain only 16 more bacteria to the cubic centimeter than is found as the water enters the pool.

This is a record that can hardly be surpassed and is only made possible by the efforts of the principal and instructors emphasizing the rules and the stndents fine cooperation in keeping the pool clean. Every bather is required to have a good shower bath before being permitted to enter the pool.

The pool is cleansed thoroughly several times a year and clean fresh water is turned in twice a day. Thus we find that this swimming pool is perhaps many times a safer place for the children than the "old swimming hole." The report showed no B. Coli (intestinal Bacteria) present either in the inlet or outlet.

The water in the pool certainly looks clean and inspection shows it almost pure enough to drink, and the school, both faculty and instructors, are endeavoring to keep the record they have just made.

ARRANGING TO PAY STRAIGHT SALARY TO STEVENSON

Council today authorized Solicitor R. M. White to prepare a new ordinance providing a straight salary for E. S. Stevenson, inspector of plumbing, White having decided that Stevenson, under an existing ordinance, is not entitled to a 30 per cent commission on plumbing licenses. The salary will be determined later.

Stevenson's 30 per cent on 1926 business was held up and he carried his fight to council. He stated that the salary is $120 a month and the commission averages about $60 a month.

The present ordinance is technical and when White ruled adversely Stevenson offered to resign his position wherepon solons decided to pay a straight salary, stating that the office receipts have been increased since Stevenson became inspector.

Councilman Genkinger, Davies and Burns were delegated as a committee to establish a salary and present it for consideration at Monday's session. If satisfactory the remainder of council will with the other three members have it incorporated in the bill White has been ordered to write.

Urge Support Of Hasty Marriage Bill

An appeal to women's organizations throughout the State to support the "Hasty Marriage" bill now before the House Committee on Judiciary General was sent out today by the Child Welfare Division of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania.

"Every year," the appeal reads "the lives of a certain number of Pennsylvania young people are wrecked through hasty, rash and precipitate marriages. Under our present laws a couple may decide on marriage, secure their license and celebrate the ceremony all within the space of an hour."

The "Hasty Marriage" Bill (H. 776) introduced by Representative Grimes provides for an interval of five days between the application for and the issuing of a marriage license. It carries a provision that the Orphans' Court may waive the five-day interval in exceptional cases. It is pointed out that eight other states have similar legislation.

Decrease Divorces

It is claimed by proponents of the bill that it will decrease divorces as well as prevent the misery of ill-considered marriages. It is stated by Allen S. Olmsted, 2nd, Chairman of the Pennsylvania Committee on Marriage Laws, that a recent report made of a county in Georgia, where a five day interval is obligatory between the applying for and the obtaining of marriage license, showed that out of 2,175 applications for a license 142 of the couples had their applications withdrawn for various reasons before the five days were up. The clerk commented that in 92 of these cases the couples never returned but left the application hanging fire without being withdrawn or without returning to have the $3.00 fee refunded.

Some of the reasons given in the report for the revoking of the applications included eleven withdrawn because the man had a living wife; six withdrawn because the woman had a living husband; parents filed objections in seventeen; in five instances the woman refused to marry; eight were withdrawn without giving any reason; one was withdrawn because of non-residence in the county; one because neither the man nor the woman had been divorced; one because the man refused to marry, and another because the woman was of unsound mind.

Permits Inquiries

It is claimed that the five day interval permits inquiries to be made into cases such as cited above, and that the slight inconvenience that might be caused in some cases is more than balanced by the number of "spur of the moment" marriages that might be averted. The provision that allows the Orphans' Court to dispense with the waiting period for sufficient cause also takes care of the possibility of real inconvenience in other cases.

The Bill has already been approved by the Women's Legislative Council of Pennsylvania, representing more than 200,000 members in the following organizations: The State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, the Pennsylvania State Education Association, Women's Christian Temperance Union, Pennsylvania Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Society of Farm Women of Pennsylvania, and the State Council of Jewish Women.

In the letter sent out by the Public Charities Association members of other women's organizations are urged to write their Legislative representative, urging that the bill be brought out of committee and given favorable consideration in both Houses. "Pennsylvania" it says "needs the Hasty Marriage Bill to protect the young and thoughtless, to prevent bigamous marriages and to emphasize the dignity and importance of the marriage contract."

Survey Reveals State Government Cost Increases

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The high cost of self-government in the several states is rapidly making a luxury of freedom.

A department of commerce survey reveals that the average cost of government per unit of population for the 48 states advanced from $4.06 in 1915 to $9.87 in 1925. During the same period receipts at the state treasuries increased 224 per cent and outlay 226 per cent.

Governmental functions which cost only $494,907,085 in 1915 required $1,614,526,230 in 1925.

Fixed expenses—executive departments, legislative establishment, militia penal institutions, etc.—cost 173 per cent more in 1925 than ten years before and permanent plant improvements—roads, buildings, experimental farms—required 428 per cent more, or about $503,023,971 in 1925 against $95,192,799 in 1915.

During the same period, the combined per capita debt of the 48 states increased from $5.41 to $15.50, or from $532,000,000 to $1,745,000,000. Carry charges on state obligations increased from $19,000,000 to $68,500,000, or more than 250 per cent.

Famous Dog Is Acquitted Of Killing Cat

(International News Service)

CANTON, N. Y., Mar. 11.—Lona, the police dog, cousin of the great Strongheart, owned by Miss Martha Sansom of the St. Lawrence University Athletic Staff, was tried for murder in Justice of the Peace Leon G. Grary's court. Lona was charged with killing a cat.

A plea of not guilty was entered by her owner, she was given a trial and found not guilty.

Complaint was entered with Frank Ellwood, town clerk, by Mrs. Emma Smith of Pine street, that her black and white cat had been killed by a dog. Ellwood directed her to Justice Grary who issued a warrant for Lona's arrest.

The hearing was for Miss Sansom to show cause why Lona should not pay the penalty for causing the cat's death. Mrs. Sansom testified that Tuesday the dag was with her in her home from the middle of the afternoon to 9 o'clock at night, and therefore had no chance to go hunting for cats.

Justice Grary ruled that the evidence against Lona was not sufficiently strong to warrant conviction and the prisoner was discharged.

Music Supervisors Plan For Meeting

(International News Service)

WORCESTER, Mass., Mar. 11.—Fifteen hundred music supervisors, members of the Eastern Music Supervisors Conference, will meet in Convention here for a three day session beginning March 9. The teachers will come from New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Delaware, Maryland and other states.

A program of speakers which includes some of the leading figures in musical circles of the country has been prepared. Among those scheduled to speak are Herbert Witherspoon, president of the Chicago Musical College; Dr. James Francis Cooke, editor of Etude; Peter W. Dykeman, professor of music education, Teachers' College, Columbia University; Dr. Victor Rebbman, president of the conference; Norval L. Church, City College, New York; Edward Z. A. Joiner, Alexander Hamilton High School, Brooklyn; Clarence C. Birchard and Elbridge W. Newton, Boston; Franklin Dunham, Duncan MacKensie and Tatian Roach, New York.

A Baltimore man says his wife spent $50,000 in trying to reduce. She certainly succeeded as far as the bankroll was concerned.

Coughs Stopped Almost Instantly

A famous physician's prescription called Thoxine, relieves the most stubborn coughs that otherwise would hang on for weeks. Acts on new theory, relieves the inflammation and irritation which is almost always the cause of the cough, and stops it like magic. Thoxine is equally good for sore throat for which purpose it is far superior to gargles. Contains no dope, chloroform or harmful drugs. Once used you will never be without it. Pleasant taste and safe for children. Remember one swallow stops night coughs or sore throat within 15 minutes or money back. 35c, 60c and $1.00. Here's Champion Of All Champs At Eating Game

WELLINGTON, Kas., March 11.—The biggest thing about John Horton, local negro, is his appetite.

With the recent bringing to light of certain coffee drinking champions, Wellington puts forward old John, champion gormand.

John lives in Wellington, a railroad center, by what he eats and bets that he can eat. Incredulous travelers are his victims.

Local records recite the following bets made and won by John as to how much he could eat at one sitting and his rating of the difficulty of the feats.

Fourteen two-pound spring chickens (easy.)

Eleven and one-half dozen eggs (nominal.)

Two cases of soda water (easiest.)

Ten pounds of raw beef (no comment.)

Horton doesn't stop there, and the town will vouch for the whole list. In addition he will wager he can eat two bushels of ripe apples, a stock of bananas, a 40-pound watermelon (rind too) or the hearts of a wagon load of melons.

Horton's only stumbling block was an attempt to eat a quart of brickmason's cement. He became sick.

The negro is six feet tall, muscular and will eat anything for a $10 bill.

Says Raising Baby Is Job In Itself

LONDON, March 11.—"You cannot run a business and a baby at the same time; a baby is a whole time job," said Miss Storm Jameson, the British novelist, taking part in the discussion started by G. K. Chesterton in his debate on that subject with Lady Rhondda. In private life she is Mrs. Guy Chapman.

"I once ran a baby myself," she said. "I ran a good many other things at the same time since I and the baby were living in a somewhat rural community with the nearest shop five miles away and the nearest telephone half an hour's walk."

Following the custom of centuries, no electric lights were used to illuminate the route followed by the cortege of the late Emperor of Japan. The way was lighted entirely by paper lanterns.

Pep Meeting At High School

Basketball Team Is Given Rousing Send-Off For Game Tonight

A basketball pep meeting was held Thursday in the senior high auditorium for the purpose of arousing enthusiasm for the game with Duquesne in Pittsburgh tonight.

Ralph Gardner was in charge of the program. He immediately introduced Attorney George W. Muse, representing the Boosters' club. Mr. Muse gave a fine talk on the boosters' work and begged the students to give more support in future athletic events. As a conclusion to his speech he unfolded a red banner, which had on it in black these words, "Victory or Defeat—New Castle High School Forever" with a large "N. C. H. S." in the center, saying that it was a gift from the boosters. Mr. Gardner accepted it in behalf of the school. There were four other members of the Boosters' club present.

Mr. Gardner then introduced the members of the basketball team, saying there were some who did not know them. The following gave short speeches when they were called on: Klaber, McGrath, Johnson, Richards, Ostrosky, Sillman and Kulick. "Gig" Thomas and Coach Phil Bridenbaugh also spoke. The program was closed with cheers by the students.

Smiles Turn To Tears As Family Sees Head Freed; Then Sentenced

MAYVILLE, March 11.—One hour after it had left the courtroom to deliberate, a jury in county court returned and reported it found Blaine Wilbur, 47 years old, of Jamestown, not guilty of charges of burglary, third degree and grand larceny, second degree. Wilbur was charged with having aided in the robbery of the stock room of the Odsonia Worsted Mills at Falconer on the night of January 10th. John and Walter Rowan, of Salamanca, were arrested and jointly indicted with Wilbur. They pleaded guilty and were given suspended sentences.

Seated in a group in the court room awaiting the verdict were Wilbur's wife, with a babe in her arms, his two young daughters and another baby, his four children who had been in court all day eagerly awaiting such a verdict. Broad smiles crossed their faces when the verdict was announced. While it meant to their father that no linger term would be imposed upon him, at the same time it didn't mean his return to the family circle for he was sentenced at the January term of county court after a conviction on another charge and must serve from one to two years in Auburn State prison. Warner S. Rexford represented Wilbur.

Atlanta Is Divided In Big Battle Over Sabbath Day Movies

(International News Service)

ATLANTA, March 11—Atlanta is in the midst of a row between church people and civic leaders over the question of Sunday movies.

Civic leaders, including some of the biggest business men in town, take that stand that many visitors to Atlanta find it a dull place Sundays, with nothing to do except go to church.

The sponsors of the movement to open theatres on Sundays claim that due to the scarcity of means of recreation on the Sabbath, many people are indulging in "immoral conduct" and finding other means of diversion less desirable than the movies.

Churches and Sunday school organizations came right back and denounced the move to "commercialize the Lord's day," and one resolution adopted by a Sunday school class as Wesley Memorial hospital declared Sunday movies "would pervert the morals of the young people of Atlanta."

Heads of many Parent-Teacher associations are aligned with the campaign to have Sunday movies, pointing out it is a "step for the good of the morals of people." Mrs. M. D. Farnham, leader of the campaign, made the following statement:

"Naturally we expected some opposition from certain bodies, but what astounded us was the tremendous response from people who are in accord with our viewpoint—from mothers and fathers of children who believe with us that the present inadequacy of recreational centers in Atlanta on Sunday tends to throw young people into bad influences and deteriorating practices."

The W. C. T. U. of the state and all the ministers of the Methodist and Baptist churches are lined up in opposition to the plan to have movies on Sundays.

LISTEN WITH YOUR EARS AND STOP EYE STRAIN

BOSTON, March 11.—Close your eyes while listening to the radio. This is the advice given by the State Board of Optometry as a means of conserving eyesight.

In a set of simple eye-saving rules issued by the board at the convention of New England other methods of eye relaxation are recommended. Closing the eyes occasionally while listening to a concert or a speaker, the board says aids in concentration. In reading a book at night closing the eyes for two minutes at the end of every twenty pages is urged.

The eye muscle and nerves, the board remarks, are subjected to a greater strain than any other organ of the body.

SEEDS, STOVES BOOST DETROIT

DETROIT, March 11.—"Detroit—oh, yes—automobiles!"

The supremacy of this city in the automotive field is proverbial, and even residents seldom claim further right to industrial note.

But now the city has discovered that it leads the world in production of 39 other things ranging from seeds to surgical instruments.

Detroit is the world center of production for adding and accounting machines, iceless refrigerators, dairy machinery, oil burning heaters, soda ash, salt base chemicals, varnishes, marine engines, sheet music and stoves. A single Detroit plant manufactures more than half the world's wire springs, and more than half of America's garden seeds come from here.

Decide Caddying Is Genuine Work

LONDON, March 11.—Caddying is no child's play, but real work, it has been decided by the British ministry of labor. Sidney Harris, 20, was fined five pounds sterling by the Working, Surrey, magistrates for drawing state unemployment benefits while engaged as a caddy at the West Hill Golf club.

In making clear his case, the prosecuting atorney announced that the question thoroughly and desires it to be known that caddying was work within the meaning of the law and that young men who served in this capacity on the links were not entitled to draw the dole. Thousands of caddies will be affected by the decision.

N. Y. Solons Study Child Marriage Law

By RAYMOND I. BORST
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ALBANY, Mar. 11.—An intensive fight is being waged in the New York State Legislature to provide for effective regulation of child marriages.

Upward of a dozen child marriage bills have been introduced at the present session, and advocates of this legislation hope the lawmakers will agree to pass at least one of the measures.

The bill which is most likely to be passed, according to Republican leaders of the Legislature, contemplates a five-day stay between the granting of a license and the wedding ceremony. It is sponsored by Senator William T. Byrne and Assemblyman John P. Hayes, Albany Democrats.

Another anti-child marriage bill for which a vigorous fight is being waged provides that in the event a girl is between 14 and 16 the marriage may take place only with the written consent of a justice of the supreme court or the judge of a children's court, in addition to the consent of the parents.

Another bill would make it a misdemeanor for any town or city clerk to knowingly issue a marriage license to a youth under 16 or a girl under 14. A fine of $100 could be imposed.

A MODERN PLEA

Wine Trade In France Injured By Prohibition

Champagne Makers Hard Hit With Loss Of Sales In United States

French Exporters Insist They Have No Dealings With Bootleggers

By HARRY R. FLORY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, March 11—Three-fourths of the so-called French wines, champagnes and liquors distributed by American bootleggers are poor and sometimes harmful imitations.

Bootleggers prefer to handle liquids of strong alcoholic content because a little goes a long way in the fabrication of concoctions resembling slightly in taste and color many pre-war and pre-prohibition delicacies.

The American market is almost a total loss to French wine producers, nor are other markets taking sufficient additional supplies to make up the deficit.

Count Bertrand de Mun, member of the French chamber of deputies and creator and secretary of the French wine exporters' commission, thus sizes up present conditions insofar as America is concerned.

American Orders.

"Occasionally we have a big order from Canada, Mexico or the Bahamas which we believe may be destined for the United States," says Count de Mun. "But the consignment is always paid for on delivery at Havre or Bordeaux where it goes from there doesn't interest us.

"French exporters have no dealing with American bootleggers. The bootleggers prefer to work through intermediaries, thus dividing the risk.

"I doubt if much of the French product ever enters the United States. Bootleggers' profits on stronger spirits are so much greater and their risk are less since the quantity can be less but still appreciable."

The champagne industry, in which the Count de Mun is particularly interested, since he is connected with the Veuve Cliquot Ponsardin company, has been especially hard hit by prohibition. Before prohibition the United States took four and a half million bottles annually out of a total production of 30 million bottles.

The Count de Mun has only faint hopes that the prohibition amendment will ever be repealed. But he expects the Volstead enforcement act to be modified permitting the importation, sale and consumption of French wines.

France To Stay Wet.

"America will realize eventually that the prohibition experience is based upon formidable error," he declared. "The error is the prohibition of healthful products with those which are injurious and harmful. French wines, which have proved themselves beneficial over several centuries, eventually will be admitted."

Asked if he believed France would ever adopt prohibition the count replied with an explosive, "Certainly not."

"France is a nation of old culture," he said, "which has always produced wine and has always known how to appreciate and consume the wines she produced. She does not suffer from the inconvenience of not knowing how to use wine.

Henry Ford Adds Two Hearses To His New England Antiques

(International News Service)

WAREHAN, Mass., March 11.—Two hearses used for many years in this town to carry to the sacred ground of the community the last remains of the rich and poor alike have been added to the Henry Ford collection of antiques at Wayside Inn. The hearses used in old New England have a unique place in the history making years that molded this section.

Back in the days before the automobile, in the days when every man was a friend of his neighbor's and the spirit of New England was still intensely Puritanical, every town and hamlet had its town hall, its soldier's monument, its village green and its town hearse.

When this town, like many other towns, was confronted with the problem of disposing of its two municipal hearses the town fathers were stumped. For almost 150 years the jet black vehicles had carried the townspeople to their final resting places. Finally it was decided to have a public bonfire with the hearses contributing the chief bit of fuel.

With preparation under way for the blaze, the attention of Mr. Ford was called to the hearses. Realizing the historic value of them, one of his agents was sent here by Mr. Ford to look them over. A cursory inspection revealed that in historic value they were genuine antiques and with his offer of acceptance the town made a gift of the vehicles to Mr. Ford.

Like all other antiques collected by Ford and his agents, the two hearses made the journey to Sudbury.

The hearses are odd looking vehicles. The older of the two is simply a large weather-tight box mounted on huge wooden axles, with thills or shafts for a single horse. When two horses were to be used the thills were replaced by a single pole.

A square recess was cut in the forward end of the box to serve as a seat, while in the back were two small doors for entrance. The four wheels were fastened to the axles by bolts. With large handwrought nuts and the whole thing painted a deep black.

The newer model conveyance showed many refinements over the earlier one. The top, instead of being flat, was rounded in much the same manner as a box car or trolley and in each side of the body were cut four small windows.

Within the box, on the sides and back, was hung heavy black silk drapery, the escolloped edges adorned with a silver fringe fully one inch wide. The silver of the fringe had miraculously escaped the ravages of time and was as bright as the day it was made. Even the silk showed no signs of wear or deterioration.

Ticket Holder Wins Hotel For 25 Cents; May Be Prosecuted

BOSTON, March 11.—Because the Massachusetts Federation of Churches asserts Everett Gibbs of Marion acquired a $20,000 hotel by purchasing a 25-cent ticket at a bazar in Plymouth, the society today called on the state's attorney general for action to "enforce the penalty of the law against promoters of lotteries."

Gibbs, it is alleged won the hotel by holding the lucky number when the bazar, conducted by the Ancient Order of Hibernians, ended in Plymouth, last night, and the drawing took place. The hotel, a 75-year-old structure, known as "Bayview Inn," is in Kingston.

French Women See New Suffrange Hope

(International News Service)

PARIS, March 11.—With elections over and a slight change in the Senate, French women working for suffrage are holding out new hopes to have their bill received.

The Chamber of Deputies have already showed their willingness to let the women vote. They are younger men and follow the modern trend. The old senators threw up their hands in horror at the first thought of the fairer sex mixing up with politics and they have held up the bill ever since a few of the very oldest ones have stepped out this year, and it is hoped that better results will come from the younger substitutes.

Everyone agrees, however, that the worst anti-feminists in France are the women themselves. All the suffrage leaders find it extremely difficult to work up any kind of enthusiasm. The women in the South are even worse than those of the North. For added to a slight touch of indifferent laziness which is probably caused by the warm climate, they have been spoiled by the old belief that the children of the best families are brought up solely for love and marriage.

It tastes so good so rich and smooth and the tender bran is so valuable

Most little children, doctors say, should have a certain amount of tender roughage—and the bran covering of the oat is especially good for them because it is so tender.

That is why Mother's Oats has the approval of child health specialists who urge the importance of the natural whole grains. Vitamins and minerals known to be necessary for growth are liberally supplied by a bowl of Mother's Oats and milk—and an abundance of the tissue-forming protein of which children often fail to get enough.

Let your growing children have this healthful growth food often. See how they love its rich whole-grain flavor—see how they appreciate its extra smoothness that comes from the fifty years of experience of its careful millers.

Two kinds—the kind you have always known or Quick (cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes). Both with coupons interchangeable with the Aunt Jemima coupons that bring you silverware, toilet articles, and many other fine furnishings for your home.

Mother's Oats

The label that distinguishes

Finer Flavor

Finer flavor is a distinguishing quality of Cudahy's Puritan Ham. The label is your positive assurance of this quality in every ham which bears it.

Puritan has a mild, sweet, delicious flavor and a decided tenderness that can be enjoyed only in this fine ham.

That is because the choice, young meats selected for Puritan are "ripened naturally"—a special Cudahy method of curing.

This exacting method diffuses the rich juices of the meats slowly and in a natural way, producing a result similar to fruit tree-ripened as compared to fruit artificially ripened.

Puritan is so easy to prepare because it requires no parboiling. It is nutritious, easily digested and is rich in the elements necessary for muscle and tissue building.

You, too, will be delighted with this fine ham. So look for the label when you buy. At your dealer's.

School Pupils In Fire Drill

Pollock School Is Emptied In Less Than Three Minutes

PUPILS LEAVE IN ORDERLY FASHION

Fire drill, as it is carried on by nearly 450 pupils at the Pollock school, is about as neat and regular an exhibition as one could wish to see.

The fire gong rings and within three minutes the children are all out of the building and lined up in rows, and the best part of it is that it was all done without any disorder or commotion.

James M. Hughes, principal of the school, said that they could empty the building sooner, but he considers it a better policy to take a little more time and have them march out in order and without confusion.

A great number of injuries in case of a fire are often caused by excitement and the rushing of the mob, rather than by actual injury from the fire.

The children of the Pollock school come almost entirely from Italian homes and people of this nationality are reputed to be highly excitable. Yet as one stood and watched those hundreds of children who, as soon as the gong rang, sprang to their places, and as the piano played a march marched quickly out of the building in ranks of four, one wonders if soldiers could have done it better.

The children issue from the building by three doors, four abreast, out of the mainfront door, two abreast out of the side door and another file out of the basement. The teachers are to be commended and the children praised for the manner in which they carried out the fire drill, and if ever a fire does happen we can expect that the children will escape from the building with safety.

NEW HAVEN WOMAN'S TROUBLE DISAPPEARS

Feet and Legs Were Swollen—Was in Bad Shape.

New Haven, Conn.—Another victory for Matamel over chronic kidney and bladder inflammation was made known today by the well known local resident, Mrs. Gertrude Robert of 15 Clover Pl. She states: "I have suffered from chronic kidney and bladder inflammation for years, and last January I was taken down with a bad attack; the doctor said it would take a year or so to relieve me for I had neglected my condition so long. I had no appetite, could not sleep, had terrible pains in my back; my bowels would not act causing me great pain and in this condition I was obliged to go to work every day. So after reading in the daily paper from day to day about the wonderful Mexican Sap, Matamel, I thought I would try it and after taking one month's treatment I found my condition much better in many ways so took another month's treatment and found my trouble had been relieved, the swelling in my ankles had disappeared, my appetite returned, in fact I feel like another person.

"I surely found Matamel wonderful and highly and gladly recommend it".

If you have headaches—pains in back—tired feeling in the morning—lack of energy—dancing spots before the eyes—strange noises in ears or head—dizzy spells—poor appetite—coated, foul tongue—dry, itchy skin—pins and needle cramps—loss of weight—restless sleep—frequent going to bathroom—don't wait, get Matamel at once from:

Berlin Is Building Big "Film" Palaces

(International News Service)

BERLIN, March 11.—Germany and especially Berlin, is making a strong bid for constructing the biggest film theatres on the European continent. She is engaged in building a number of big film "palaces" with an average capacity of more than 2,500 seats.

In Berlin alone three film palaces are under construction with about 5,000 to 3,000 seats each and other German cities, like Munich, Hamburg, Leipzig, Diesseldorf are following the capital's example.

Film statistics show that the number of film theatres in Germany has decreased, but the number of seats available has steadily increased. While in 1910 the average number of seats in German film theatres was about 200, it is 360 now, which means that there are four seats available for one thousand people now, against only 21 in 1910.

In Berlin one seat is available for every 24th inhabitant. The total of Berlin film theatres is 361, with a capacity of altogether 167,773 seats. Thirty-two of these theatres have accommodations for more than a thousand visitors, but there are still 71 theatres that cannot even place 200 visitors.

In poor quarters the oldest theatres are still being run but the new idea is that big film palaces mean better business if erected in poor quarters than in fashionable quarters. There still is too much prejudice against films generally among better class people and a play in a good theatre is preferred to film shows.

Utterly Discouraged? Don't Be

AFTER a hard cold or an attack of the grip or flu, your kidneys are apt to be affected. When these body filters become inactive poisons accumulate in the blood and are scattered throughout the body, and many disagreeable symptoms follow. If you notice any kidney irregularity, send to the drug store and get DR. PIERCE'S ANURIC TABLETS, a mild stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. And if you feel the need of medical counsel, write Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.—This carries no charge.

Famed Locomotive Of Civil War Is Fired Up For Run

ATLANTA, March 11.—The "Texas", famed locomotive relic of Andrews' raid during the Civil war, was "fired up" for the last time yesterday nad taken to a sheltered place in Grant park, there to share interest with the 400-foot cyclorama of the battle of Atlanta.

The "Texas" will be restored to the same pristine gloss and sheen as its rival and victim of the raid, the "General", which stands burnished and proud, in the Western & Atlantic station at Chattanooga.

The firing up of the "Texas" was only a gesture. Pistons, long ago, were rusted fast in cylinders. Driving rods were disconnected to let the wheels turn. There was not a chance the boiler would hold steam. It was merely a salute to a blazing past, as the "Texas" started its slow and creaking journey.

Skunk Cabbage Is First Herald Of Spring

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The skunk cabbage, a gnome among wildflowers, pokes its red spattered, curled and painted cap out of a low bank at the base of a wooded ope.

"The spring," paraphrases the erican Nature Association, "can- be far behind."

t appears in late February or ly March, and soon come pussy llow buds and the trailing arbu- s, which hides, fragrant and shy, beneath matted leaves or snow. Thus heralded, the prodigal season then opens a scented purse and scatters its wealth over hill and valley, wood and field.

Thrift has no place in the economics of spring, and extravagance is contagious. For that reason, some of the season's greatest treasures are becoming more and more rare; the trilliums, the dog tooth and white violets, the march marigold, the anemone, Jack-in-the-Pulpit, Saxifrage, Dutchman's breeches, and numerous others.

Perhaps the automobiles has a good deal to do with it, by making the woods and fields more accessible to the city dweller. The flowers there seem to invite the strangers to take them home to make their rooms more gay.

And in recent years, the association feels, too many have been accepting that invitation. Therefore, the blooming of the skunk cabbage is the signal for renewal of its annual campaign to induce the public to enjoy the wildflowers where they grow and leave them to adorn the countryside for others to see. Only in that way, it holds, can they be saved for future springs.

Barbers Make Merry In Annual Banquet On Thursday Evening

Journeymen barbers of local 278 and master barbers of local 408, banqueted at the Elks Club last night, and though they have often been accused of assisting to stamp out young America by beautifying youth to such an extent that they try to resemble Arabian lovers, not a sheik could be seen among the barbers.

During the toastmastering proclivities, performed by Sol "Houdini" Davis, who permitted wittiism to flow with the abandon of Shenango hair tonic, he advocated Andy Hoke for mayor, but when he called upon Andy the latter had disappeared, and all of Sol's tricks failed to make the veteran tonsorial artist reappear.

And, strange to relate, the barbers staged another surprise by arriving at the banquet unarmed; not a member of the profession carried a concealed weapon and they attacked the chicken with knives and forks instead of razors and scissors, and instead of bay rum being used as a wash, water was freely dispensed.

One of the features was the fact that not a bald-headed representative of the profession was present, because they say there are no bald-pated tonsorial artists. Neither was there a man with a beard, which goes to speak well of barbar practicing what they preach to their clientele about tonics.

The toastmaster discovered at the banquet last night that there are some non-talkative barbers, as they apologetically declined to say a few words. This was caused, it may be explained, by their larnyx having become sore yesterday asking customers: "Massage, sir?"

None of the barbers discussed the "gag rule", which the barber has been accused of using, though it isn't true. The "gag rule", let it be explained is the request "massage"? and before the man in the chair can reply a towel is applied to shut off the answer.

But forgetting Sol Davis and his wise cracks temporarily, the banquet was a big success. In fact, 50 members of the profession gathered, and not a finer body of men and youths could be met. Each and every one of them forgot "barbering" and enjoyed the session.

The affair was opened by Fred Lewellyn explaining the object of the profession, declaring that there should be co-operation, that good fellowship existed and explaining that barbers are now fighting for a barber's licensure bill, pending in the House of Representatives.

This measure, if passed, will add further safeguards for the public, and if there is a man who knows what would have a far-reaching effect on public health it is the barber, and all of them in this city are firmly entrenched behind the bill.

Bart Richards, representative from New Castle district, who has given hearty support to the hill, introduced by a Pittsburgh assemblyman, was present and explained what has already been done and again told the members present that he will continue his support.

Jack White, a master barber, was another spokesman, expressing himself as only a master barber can. He said that the co-operation and fellowship that prevails among the two branches.

Lee Lutz described himself as a gormandizer and not a talker, and according to the gentleman who sat next to him Lutz spoke the truth, as the chicken did a better disappearing act than Davis in the box, excepting that the chicken did not appear again and Sol did.

Norman Kiefer retaliated at the toastmaster then, describing some of the scenes in the oil fields, and told how the oil flows. He described Davis' remarks as being akin to the oil flow, while Herbert Samuels delivered a few remarks.

After the cigars and cigarettes had been passed around and the gentlemen had been given time to permit Sol "Houdini" Davis to remove his coat and shoes, secure a big wooden box, handcuffs, ropes and search him for keys the finale hove into sight.

A committee of barbers handcuffed their brother barber, placed him in the box, put a screen around it, and within a few seconds Sol appeared outside the box, still locked, to the mystery of the barbers, after which 50 who had attended the banquet, traveled home to dream of the next banquet.

Couple Find Relief At Last By Taking Famous Remedy

Dreco Brings Relief From Stomach Trouble, Constipation And Other Complaints After Everything Else Had Failed

S. P. Thorp the Dreco Man, Will Gladly Explain the Merits of Dreco to All Callers at Eckerd's Cut Rate Store. Free Samples Given.

It is not unusual for Dreco to help both husband and wife or even three or four people in the same family for it is the ideal family remedy and the roots and herbs it is made from seldom fail to overcome any complaints caused by weak and rundown stomachs, livers, and kidneys. In a recent statement given to the Dreco man, Mr. Porter A. Blake, 233—3rd Ave., Homestead, Pa., engineer on a yard engine at the Homestead Steel Works, says:

"Both my wife and I had suffered for a long time and though we tried most everything we could get nothing to help us till we started on Dreco.

"We were both completely rundown. Our stomachs would not digest the food but it laid in a lump forming gas and causing us great distress from gas and indigestion. We were both also subject to severe pains in the back and limbs and our livers were sluggish which caused headaches, constipation and dizzy spells. It wasn't much trouble for the wife to cook for neither of us had any appetite.

"After so many other remedies had failed us we had little faith that Dreco would do us much good but in this we were both mistaken. For Dreco went right to the root of our troubles like it had been made just for us two and in a short time we were both as healthy and hearty as on our marriage day. Neither of us suffer from stomach troubles anymore, the dizzy spells, headaches and constipation have been relieved and the rheumatic pains have completely disappeared. We're both eating heartily and sleeping soundly all night long. I don't believe there's another medicine as good as Dreco and I gladly recommend it to everyone."

Mr. S. P. Thorp, the well-known Expert from the Dreco Laboratories now at Eckerd's Cut Rate Store, is telling scores of people every day how to take Dreco for best results. Go to see him. His advice is free.

Auto Accidents Indicate Spring

Mishaps Reported To Police Over Night Show Increase

SOME DAMAGE IN CRASHES REPORTED

Four automobile accidents were recorded at the police station on Thursday afternoon and evening, a slightly larger number than for several days.

William C. Eligass of 1014 Summit street reported Thursday night that he was driving west on West Washington street at Shenango street, when he hit a man who was crossing the street with his wife. The man was a foreigner and his name was not secured. He claimed he was not injured and kept on walking away from the scene of the accident, according to the report of Mr. Eligass, and refused to be taken to the office of a physician.

J. P. Dando of R. D. No. 7, South New Castle Borough, reported that he was driving south on Moravia street at the viaduct. A street car had stopped at the intersection of Moravia street and Mahoning avenue, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 862-103, going east on Mahoning avenue, drove out on Moravia street and the two machines came together. Some slight damage was done.

C. E. Bauder of 427 Northview avenue reported that he was driving north on South Jefferson street at Lawrence street, and was trying to pass two other cars, when J. Geib of 1512 Orchlee sreet, Pittsburgh, driving east on West Lawrence street and turning onto Jefferson street, collided with his machine. Some damage was done.

George E. Blair of 30 West Washington street, reported that he had his machine parked near 415 Lutton street, when a car bearing West Virginia license 89-052, coming down Lutton street, ran into and damaged his machine.

Fisher Vetoes Senate Measure

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 11.—Another resolution today had been added to those which Governor John S. Fisher refused to approve because they interfered with federal statutes or prerogatives.

The governor last night announced his veto of the senate resolution which would have allowed a popular referendum on pending amendments to the federal constitution. The governor asserted that such a plan would be ineffective and "would merely tend to produce confusion."

The governor approved the Wilson bill which repeals a former act which provided for the admission of testimony given in ejectment suits upon a retrial.

Big Run, Pa., Oct. 27, 1926
"Crop yields are the supreme test of a fertilizer. While my oats, corn, hay and buckwheat crops have shown definite increases, the outstanding example of greater production due to your fertilizer was shown in my potato patch.
"In my section this season low yields have been the rule, but upon digging two acres I find there are five hundred bushels of marketable potatoes. Market possibilities for this season are at least $2.50 per bushel, which should net me $1250 on these two acres. I used sixteen hundred pounds of your 'AA Quality' Fertilizer, and it paid me well."
—John R. London

Sandusky, N. Y., Dec. 12, 1926
"Our yields have averaged exceptionally well for the last few years considering the condition of the weather and the seasons in general. I have always found 'AA Quality' Fertilizers in A-1 condition and they have never caused me any trouble in distributing. I am entirely satisfied in every respect."
—John Waterman

Wake up those "lazy acres"—with the right fertilizer

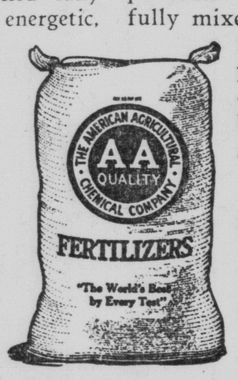
LAZINESS affects land as well as living things. And even good land won't produce its utmost without a little prodding. Put your lazy fields to work. Make them produce with "AA Quality" Fertilizers. Then check up when harvest time rolls around. You'll find those so-called "lazy acres" have become energetic, profit-yielding fields.

"AA Quality" Fertilizers are made for all crops and all soil conditions. They prove their worth by producing consistently good yields, year in and year out. Three generations of farmers know them as old friends, as absolutely dependable crop-producers.

The plant food elements in "AA Quality" Fertilizers feed the growing plant during every stage of its development. They prod crops into an early maturity of heavy-yield, top-quality products. Materials are carefully mixed and cured. Then remilled to give them perfect mechanical condition. They can be distributed easily and evenly.



See your nearest "AA Quality" man. He can tell you which "AA Quality" brand is best suited to your individual needs.

Nine U. S. Horses Are Entered In Grand National

Famous British Race Is Likely To Be Captured By American Favorite

English Racing Public Is Alarmed At Prospect Of Losing Steeplechase

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 11.—With an American-owned favorite and eight other American-owned horses listed to run, this year's race for the famous Grand National Steeplechase Prize of approximately $35,000 on March 25 promises to be of exceptional interest to Americans.

Seven American owners—each confident of his chances— have entered a horse or horses in the race, and already the English racing public is shaking its head foreboding, opining that this latest American "invasion" means that the race will go to an American owner for the second year in succession. Fifty horses now remain in the acceptance list.

Jack Horner, the sensational twenty-five to one winner of the race last year, has fully maintained his reputation of being one of the finest jumpers in training, and A. C. Swartz, the millionaire American who purchased him just before last year's race, is very confident that he will pull off the prize again for him.

Jack Horner's Chances

Jack Horner is carrying seventeen pounds more on his back this year, but Schwartz considers him to be at least twelve pounds better than last year, when he had only been in training three months. He is already being quoted at odds of ten to one, and the fact that he is to be ridden by Hary Brown, the most brilliant amateur cross-country rider in this country, is gaining him a large public.

The Americans who have entered horses for the race, with names of their entries, are as follows:

A. C. Schwartz, of New York: Jack Horner; H. Fowler: Pop Ahead; Col. F. M. Alger: Ballinode; William F. Draper: Knight of the Wilderness; Gordon Selfridge: Misconduct; M. D. Blair: Master of Arts; Stephen "Laddie" Sanford: Bright's Boy, Mt. Etna and Marsin.

Sanford has two of the best horses in training in Bright's Boy and Mount Etna. Bright's Boy, who is carrying top weight, is listed at twenty to one in the advance betting. He was third last year, and is considered to have a very good chance. Mount Etna, Sanford's second string, fell last year. Little is known of Marsin, who is being quoted at the long price of sixty-six to one in the betting.

Fowler Will Ride

Fowler has announced that he will personally ride Pop Ahead, who was ninth last year and is being priced at twenty to one.

Misconduct was seventh in the race last year and is being offered at 25 to one in the betting. Gordon Selfridge as usual is most optimistic. His horse is one of the biggest jumpers in training and has a fair chance in this most uncertain of races.

At this writing Jack Horner the favorite, Master Billie who finished sixth last year and is now being quoted at 25 to 1. Grecian Wave, Great Span and Bright's Boy are considered to be the most likely possible winners of the race.

Germany Planning To Honor Beethoven

(International News Service)

BERLIN, March 11.—Germany's musical world is preparing festivals on a grand scale on the occasion of the hundredth anniversary of Beethoven's death. A great many visitors, especially Americans are expected to come over here this summer and attend the celebrations.

Bonn, the great composer's birthplace, will be the scene of a great national festival at the end of May. There will be a number of concerts, in which almost all big orchestra works of Beethoven will be performed. It is also planned to give the Ninth Symphony on the city's market place.

A great number of other German cities including Bayreuth, Frankfurt, Berlin will celebrate the anniversary by concerts or theatre performances. There will be a special festival at Bayreuth and during an international music exposition at Frankfurt, called "Music in the life of nations," Richard Strauss will conduct several opera performances.

Other festival weeks are schedule for Dresden, Munich, and Berlin, and the most famous German conductors will figure in them.

Ten Commandments For Successful Church

WILKES-BARRE, March 11.—Ten commandments for a successful church were offered by Rev. Joseph F. Cross at the close of a seven-years' pastorate at the Dana Street Evangelical church here. They were:

"Thou shalt not have any love before thy love for thy church.
"Thou shalt seek no substitute for church loyalty.
"Thou shalt not think or speak lightly of the church.
"Thou shalt not hinder the work of thy church by driving from the back seat.'
"Thou shalt not be a gadabout.
"Thou shalt not withold thy talents.
"Remember your vows to pay them to your church.
"Thou shalt not make the church a whispering gallery by gossip, scandal and cheap talk.
"Respect the leadership of thy pastor.

Pipe Of Peace In Indian Land Suit

SYRACUSE, March 11.—Indian custom prevailed in the land dispute action now on trial before Judge P. J. Ryan, as special master when the pipe of peace was passed around to Judge Ryan, opposing counsel and Indians involved in the case as the open action of today's session.

The action is one brought by the Onondaga nation of Indians against Mrs. Minnie Schenandoah Lowery Brothers, contractors, to set aside a contract between the defendants permitting the removal of sand and gravel from land near Mrs. Schenandoah's home on the reservation.

WHY FAT IS DISAPPEARING

Note in every circle how slenderness prevails. Note how many of your friends have reduced. One reason lies in Marmola Prescription Tablets. They combat the cause of excess fat, so results are brought without requiring abnormal exercise or diet. People have been using Marmola for 19 years, and users have told others. As a result the demand has grown to very large proportions. Let it do for you what it does for your friends—for people all about you. Reduce to your normal weight.

All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box. Each box contains a pamphlet explaining the results. Go try it. You will be delighted.

Noted Physician Killed By Fall

Dr. Henry W. Frauenthal Falls To His Death From New York Apartment

WAS SURVIVOR OF TITANIC DISASTER

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 11. —Dr. Henry W. Frauenthal, noted physician and the man who brought Dr. Adolph Lorenze "bloodless surgeon" to this country, met death instantly today when he fell from a window of his seventh floor apartment. Dr. Frauenthal who is survived by four brothers and a sister, was born in Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

The body hurtled seven stories down to a paved areway, where it was found several hours later by an employe. Dr. Frauenthal had been suffering from ill health for the past month according to a brother.

The doctor and his brother Isidor with whom he lived, were survivors of the Titanic disaster in 1912 in which 1,500 lives were lost. Dr. Frauenthal was 65 years old and had five grown children.

Asks $10,000 For Injuries Received In Car Accident

Grace Waddell Files Suit Against The Penna-Ohio Electric Company

Grace Waddell has filled a suit against the Penna-Ohio Electric company in which she is asking $10,000 damages for injuries sustained while leaving a street car of the defendant company. Plaintiff alleges that she boarded a South Mill street car at the intersection of Washington and South Mill streets. When she arrived at Division street, she rang the bell for the conductor to stop. He opened the door and she stepped out, but claims that the conductor closed the door to quickly with the result that her foot was caught on the step and she was thrown violently to the pavement, sustaining internal injuries and nervous shock from which she has never recovered. It is also alleged that she has had to spend considerable money for doctor bills and medicine. It is claimed by plaintiff that the conductor was not looking at her when he closed the door, but was looking in an other direction, and that the accident was due to negligence.

New Troop Meets

The newly organized troop, under the auspices of the Hoover Heights branch of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, held their weekly meeting Wednesday, March 9, in the Council room of S. N. C. borough. We want to thank the councilmen for their action at the last meeting, in allowing the Council room to be used as a regular meeting place of the scouts.

At the last meeting, four color bearers were selected, G. Duncan, V. Driver, H. Driver, and R. Anderson receiving this honor. R. Buick was selected by the troop as bugler. William Ryan is now assistant scribe.

Following is given the results of the knot-tying contest held: Square knot contest, won by Carney of the Wolf patrol; Bowline knot, won by H. Driver of the Flying Eagle patrol.

The track memory contest, won by the Eagle and Wolf patrols, was very interesting, each patrol having two points. Another interesting feature was the demonstration given by Mr. Matthews on rope splicing. Mr. Matthews did it to perfection.

Sad to say, the Fox and Raven patrols were left out of all honors at this meeting, but they say they are going to come back strong at the next meeting to be held Wednesday, March 16.

Troop Scribe, Louis E. Bogle.

Troop 13

The Lion's troop 13 met last night in the Scotland Lane school. A large number of scouts were in attendance. Scoutmaster Peter Grittie was in charge. Senior Patrol Leader Henry Grittie was in charge of first aid instructions.

Gerald Ammon and Howard Kelso received their tenderfoot badges. Andrew Eve passed knots and tenderfoot tests. Richard Wallace passed his 14 mile hike test. Lynn White is registered for the coming year.

Reverend D. C. Schnebly gave an interesting talk to the boys on "The Home." He also presented the badges to the boys.

Croton Troop 5

The Croton Scouts held a meeting at the Elks club Wednesday evening, March 9, with a large number of boys present. Scoutmaster Halph Davis and Assistant Scoutmaster Tony Colaluca were in charge. George Lamoree, Jr., a member of the Elks club gave the boys an interesting talk which was enjoyed by the boys very much. Five new members were taken into the troop during this meeting: Kenneth Winges, William Young, Russell Young, Hugh Erwin and Leonard Guckerd.

The troop has now organized patrols and now intends to work very hard in order to make this troop one of the most successful troops in the Lawrence County council.

Tyler's Plan Not Accepted

Claims Police Should Courteously Have People Obey Traffic Lights

Council delved into the traffic situation and Councilman Tyler advocated that traffic officers educate the people to obey the lights, the same method to be instituted here as in other cities.

He urged that trafficmen station themselves in the street and when pedestrians started to cross in violation of the signal, to courteously tell them to return and "await the signal."

However, his remarks did not bring councilmanic action but later Councilman Davies said that people crowd on South Mill street before street cars doors are open and council agreed to buy a sign, telling people to remain on the sidewalk until the doors are open.

According to observers there is no question but that some pedestrians need education which has not been forthcoming. Policemen watch the "lights" and notice auto violations but have done nothing to educate pedestrians.

Apparently council believes that by cautioning the pedestrians it might engender bitterness but the majority of persons who believe in "safety first" would welcome the innovation here and it would in a short time work out to the department of police welfare.

North Street High Pupils Are Given Awards Of Merit

Recognition Banquet Event Of Thursday Evening—Fifty Present

Scholarship And Athletic Supremacy Are Rewarded At Fete

Thursday evening marked a "peak" in the life of North street junior high school when the annual Recognition Day banquet was held in St. John's Lutheran church and the awards for distinctive service given out.

Approximately 50 boys and girls of North street, all recognition winners, were present, and because the evening was one to be marked in the notebook of memory, they seemed determined to make it a big night. And they did. Pep songs, cheers and an infectious spirit of good fellowship marked the evening from beginning to end.

Plenty of Music.

Of course there was plenty of music. The North street orchestra, directed by Miss Isabelle Zehner, provided the orchestral music while Miss Lois Patterson led the pep singing. Miss Verna Wilfert acted as the toastmistress of the evening and linked up the various numbers of the program in a clever way.

Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent of schools, was the chief speaker of the evening, and spoke on The New Junior High. In his address he described what the new building would be like, but said that no matter how fine it was in appearance, the students would decide how good a school it was with their school spirit. Bart Richards also spoke briefly.

The program was a lengthy one, but a good one withal. The numbers listed on it follow:

Toastmistress—Miss Verna Wilfert.
Invocation—Loren Kanenberg.
Pep singing—Led by Miss Patterson.
Address, "Our New Junior High"—Dr. C. C. Green.
Reading—Myrabeth May.
Remarks—Bart Richards.
Solo—Mrs. B. K. Thacker.
Girls' basketball captain—Charlotte Bartlett.
Boys' basketball captain—Robert Hoose.
Football captain—Richard Thomas.
Pianologue—Dorothy Young.
Dancing—Maxine Bollard, Peggy Griffiths. At piano, Nellie Brady.
Remarks—Miss Totman.
Remarks—Mr. Lingerman.
Remarks—Miss Helen Sloans.
Presentation of letters—B. K. Thacker.
Cheers—Peggy Griffiths.
Pep singing—Led by Miss Lois Patterson.

Following is the list of honor pupils who received awards for the various activities of the school, both scholastic and athletic:

Honor roll—Louise Fink, Edith Cleaveland, Genevra Hazen, Jack White, Sam Francis, Freda Ungar, Beatrice Gonick, Ruth Mervis, Lenore Beall, Jane Hawkins, Charlotte Bartlett, Clarissa Duff, Loren Kannenberg, Gilbert Hoffman, Louis Mauney, Hugh Schmidt, Herman Green, Frances Aiken, Tom Hawkins.

Football—Robert Hoose, Richard Thomas, Robert Shults, Merle Hart, James Sotus, Robert Chamberlain, William Porado, Kenneth Donegan, Jack Bollard, Jack White.

Cheer leader—Peggy Griffiths.

Student council—Jane Hawkins, Madge Gardner, Louise Fink.

Mrs. Louise Dannels was in Beaver Falls on Monday.

Bond Issue For New School Building

GROVE CITY, Pa., March 11.—The Grove City board of directors of public schools is considering a bond issue for the construction of a new school on the east side, according to report of its regular meeting held at the high school. Definite plans for the presenting of the proposal to the voters, will be made next Monday at a special meeting of the board.

The need of a new school building in Grove City is keenly felt and the board has given the matter careful consideration. They are of the opinion that a bond issue is the only possible way of financing the program.

The question of the heating plant at the Central building was discussed and the repair committee was ordered to inspect the conditions at the building and to have suitable repairs made or a new system installed.

The treasurer submitted the following report: Tax receipts, $711.11; general fund, $8,152.30; sinking fund No. 2, $23,192.43; sinking fund No. 3, $11,474.94; No. 4, $9,831.73.

The president, R. E. English, appointed the following two committees: Budget and salaries—C. A. Platt and M. W. Graham. Repairs committee—C. C. Harshaw and Mrs. Loretta Monroe.

Stock Wolfe Creek With Small Fish

GROVE CITY, Pa., March 11.—The Grove City chapter of the Izaak Walton league has been busy the last week restocking the waters of Wolfe creek with small fish. A shipment of the finny tribe was received from the state bureau of fisheries, containing several different varieties of the small fish. A large number of these have been placed in the waters of the "upper dam" which is one of the favorite places for Grove City fishermen to try their angling skill.

Record Wheat Crop Seen For Southwest

(International News Service)

TOPEKA, Kan., March 11.—The southwest wheat belt will harvest another record wheat crop this year according to present prospects.

Extensive wheat growers and elevator men are sending reports into the capital which indicate that all western Kansas, with the possible exception of a half dozen counties in the extreme northwest section, will break the record of last year.

The same optimistic condition of greening wheat fields appears over the entire southwest belt, including western Oklahoma and the Panhandle of Texas. Recent weather conditions have been pronounced ideal in most sections, and reports show that a large acreage was planted all over the belt.

No evidence that the Hessian fly or any other pest was threatening damage to the new crop was found by growers and elevator men who have been visiting the fields recently.

Council Buys Building Plot After Lengthy Discussion

Deadlock Over Proposed Grass Plot At North End Of Wampum Avenue By Bridge

Ex-Officer Hoover Threatens Suit If Back Pay Is Not Forthcoming

ELLWOOD CITY, Mar. 11.—At the regular monthly meeting of the members of the borough council which took place last night in the city building, an ordinance was read concerning the purchase of lots 3111 and 3112 of the Pittsburgh company plan and owned by the I. O. O. F. located on the east line of Sixth street for $8,000.

This ordinance was drawn up by members of the streets committee and J. S. Bowater, chairman, made a motion that rules of council be suspended and the ordinance be passed on first and final reading.

All voted favorably on the suspension, but when it came to voting on the buying of the lots, a heated argument ensued as to the relative merits of the Central building on Lawrence avenue, which may revert back to the city in 1930 and cost of proposed city building on the Sixth street lots. President Turner pointed out that if the school board needed the Central building at the expiration of the lease, there was a tacit agreement that they could continue to occupy same. Another member pointed out that to fix up the Central building for city use would mean an expenditure of possibly $30,000.

In the end a vote was taken by roll call and the ordinance passed by a majority of 7 to 3. Ordinance No. 2 drawn up by the streets committee asking for purchase of lots 3113 and 3114 adjoining the other two on Sixth street, and the property of the B. P. O. E., was passed by the same majority.

Protests Read.

Two protest petitions were read from north side residents asking that the grass plot proposed to be placed at the end of the Fifth street bridge where the silent policeman now stands, be given up on account of traffic dangers it will cause. These petitions were signed by about 145 people. Mr. West, as spokesman, pointed out that the plot, as proposed with sidewalk about it, and flag pole in center, etc., would prove too much of a traffic hazard for motorists. After much discussion over the proposed plot, and after an old petition had been read that was sent in by the taxpayers of the north side requesting just such a plot, the plot thickened, as it were. However, council members could not agree on the exact design of the project and it was tabled. Proposed cost of fixing that ground amounts to $8,287.30. At a suggestion from President Turner, the council members decided to view the ground in a body sometime between now and the next meeting and try to come to an agreement.

The secretary read a letter from M. J. Kraus, attorney retained by ex-Officer W. C. Hoover, who was suspended from his office some time ago. The letter asked for a sum of $150 due him for back pay since suspension. And also for $47 which he expended on a new uniform just before his suspension, and which is of course, no use to him now. In case the above amounts are not forthcoming, Mr. Hoover stated through Attorney Kraus that he would open suit against the city for same. This communication was received and placed on file.

Petitions.

A petition regarding the paving of Second street was read. This petition was signed by 12 property owners. The matter was referred to the street committee.

Two applications for the position of caretaker in the new comfort station located in the Central building were received and placed on file.

Fuller Motor company asked permission to put an air line to the property. This was referred to the street committee with power to act.

A request for a street light at the corner of Eighth street and Beechnut way and signed by 12 citizens, was also referred to the electric light committee with power to act.

Eight petitioners asked that a street light be placed at the corner of Sewickley street and Summit avenue. This matter was referred to the electric light committee with power to act.

Dance Ordinance.

An ordinance was passed on first reading last meeting night regarding the securing of a permit before giving public dances, and getting permission from the burgess regarding date. There will also be a police officer stationed at the public dance. For violation of this ordinance a fine of $100 may be levied. The above was passed on second reading last night.

An ordinance regarding the purchase of lot 585, owned by W. W. and Catherine Yoho, was read by the secretary. The members of council favorably entertained a motion to suspend rules and regulations for council and pass above on first and final reading. A vote was taken of members and the ordinance was lost with a vote of six against and four in favor of the purchase.

Storm Sewer.

Cost of putting storm sewers in Factory avenue, to Ninth street, down Park avenue to Sixth, through Chestnut way, with necessary connections, would estimate $63,000 was report of sewers committee last night. This plan will relieve overloaded water in the subway. The above is the most important in the entire sewerage plan. The report was approved by council.

Vocational Man Talks To Club Men

ELLWOOD CITY, March 11.—Richard Hawke, head of the vocational department of the Lincoln school, gave an interesting address before the members of the Kiwanis Club last evening at their meeting in the dining room of the Methodist church.

He demonstrated concretely and theoretically that boys should have vocational training in school, as it enables them to obtain some idea of what vocation they wish to devote their life work in the future.

The practice at the Lincoln shop department is that each boy must take a six-month course in different branches until his final year, when he may select his own course. Mr. Hawke displayed many clever articles made by the school children. His address showed his interest in his subject and was an educational benefit to the Kiwanis members.

Delegates will be elected at the next meeting to attend the international convention, taking place on June 6 to 9, at Memphis, Tenn.

Kiwanis Scout Troop Meets

ELLWOOD CITY, March 11.—Twenty members of the Kiwanis Boy Scout troop enjoyed a weekly meeting last night in the Hartman school building. Following the dispensing of routine business a social period was enjoyed, conducted by Ralph Mains, Scout leader; Ellison Walker, assistant Scout leader, and patrol leaders Earl Timblin, Robert Kennedy, Edwin Davis, William McConahy and Reed Kimple, scribe.

Word Received Of Death Of Rev. J. A. Cosby In Little Rock Sanitarium

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Mar. 11—Rev. James A. Cosby, aged 62, who was minister here for years at the United Presbyterian church, died Wednesday at a sanitarium at Little Rock, Arkansas.

The Rev. and Mrs. Cosby left Ellwood City last fall to take up a residence in Beaver Falls, where Rev. Cosby had been summoned to fill the pulpit of the College Hill United Presbyterian church. His health, however, broke down, and necessitated his going to a sanitarium in Arkansas for treatment, Mrs. Cosby accompanying him. Rev. Cosby's early death is a distinct shock to this community where he has many friends.

The deceased is survived by his widow, one son, Vigil Cosby, who is an ordained minister and Mrs. Dwight Chapman, a daughter residing in Tarentum.

Class Has Shower For Newly-Weds

ELLWOOD CITY, March 11.—Twenty-one members of the King's Messenger class entertained Mr. and Mrs. McCandless, who were recently married, with a miscellaneous shower last evening at the home of Mrs. Clarence Wallace on Line avenue. The surprised young couple received many lovely and useful gifts.

During the fore part of the evening the routine business of the class was discussed. The next meeting will take place at the the home of Mrs. Ferd Bingle of Fountain avenue April 5.

Company Wants To Buy Central Bldg.

ELLWOOD CITY, March 11.—A bid was read by Secretary Moyer at the regular monthly meeting of the Ellwood City council last evening for the purchase of the Central building on a post-dated contract for 1930 from the Harrison Real Estate Corporation of Buffalo, N. Y. The communication was received and placed on file.

Ralph Sulia Dies At His Home Here

ELLWOOD CITY, March 11.—Ralph Sulia, aged 79, died last evening at his home on Line avenue. He is survived by his wife and several relatives. Funeral services will be conducted from the Italian Catholic church, with interment in Locust Grove cemetery, on Saturday afternoon.

Interesting Lecture On Criminals Here

Dr. Claudy Makes Strong Plea For Treatment Of Released Criminal

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Mar. 11—Unfortunately the local people did not avail themselves to any great degree, the opportunity of hearing Dr. J. W. Claudy last evening at the Bell Memorial church in his celebrated lecture on criminal life, entitled "Backwash."

However Dr. Claudy who was sent here by the Moral Welfare department of the Presbyterian church has always delved deeply into the study of criminal life and is at present in correspondence with many men in prison and is a source of great comfort to them. A high light of his talk was his remark "A Nation rises as high as its respect for law and authority."

Dr. Claudy seemed discouraged by the large criminal class now in the United States though there is an encouraging decrease in juvenile delinquency.

Dr. Claudy touched briefly on the crime situation in Chicago, stating that in six years 1,795 murders were committed and in the same number of years only 28 executions.

He challenged the church people to help the released criminal and not discourage him because he has made a mistake and paid the penalty. He should be given a clean slate in most instances and helped to become an honest man.

J. J. Dunn Speaks To Rotary Club

ELLWOOD CITY, Mar. 11.—J. J. Dunn, general manager of the National Tube company, gave an interesting address last evening before members of the Rotary club, the occasion being their weekly dinner meeting.

His subject was the famous French scientist, Lewis Pasteur, whose wealth of knowledge has materially aided the cause of modern surgery. Dr. Dunn is an untiring student and a deep thinker along scientific and literary lines, and his address was well given and enjoyed by the club members.

Next Tuesday will be set aside by the club for the crippled children's clinic.

Number of arrests, 33; number of fines, 6; number of forfeits, 15. Total fines and collections for month, $252. Inmates in jail dormitory for month, 197. This report was received and placed on file.

Bring Husband Back From Ohio

ELLWOOD CITY, Mar. 11.—Local police located George B. Young of this city, who was wanted here on a charge of desertion and non-support made by his wife. He was brought back from Youngstown, where he was traced, Wednesday evening and is in jail awaiting bail. His wife and four children have been residing with her father. Officer Hayes brought him back and no extradition papers had to be drawn, as he came willingly.

Health Report Is Read At Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, March 11.—Inspection of 10 meat markets, five bakeries and eight restaurants has been accomplished by the board of health last month. Ten cases of measles reported, two cases of scarlet fever, six cases of whooping cough and one case of pneumonia and one case of chickenpox.

KINDLY NOTIFY REPORTER OF CHANGES

ELLWOOD CITY, March 11.—When a club meets periodically every two weeks or monthly, the hostess names the members to the reporter who has signified her intention of entertaining the club at the next meeting and this fact is incorporated in the write-up of each meeting. The reporter, who keeps a date book on all events, enters the hostess' name in the book under scheduled date, and unless she is notified to the contrary will announce the event to take place on that date. If any changes are made kindly notify the reporter the day before and avoid mistaken announcements.

FUNERAL SERVICES

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Mar. 11—Funeral services for Mrs. Angeline Lombardo, whose death occurred at her home in Beaver avenue on Wednesday, following an illness, were held at the Italian Catholic church yesterday morning.

Interment was made in Locust Grove cemetery.

Traffic Light Ordinance To Be Drawn Up Here

Juice To Be Turned Into The Light Placed On Corner Of Line And North Street

ELLWOOD CITY, March 11.—An ordinance is to be drawn up immediately affecting the regulation of traffic at the signal lights placed here by the borough council.

The question of turning the juice into the light placed at the corner of Line and North streets was brought up at council meeting last night. Two new lights were purchased, after council had turned down the police recommendation to purchase three. That is, the members compromised and permitted the purchase of two.

One of the members pointed out that people had not been observing these lights, on account of knowing that no ordinance had been drawn up to cover enforcing them. To protect the borough against any trouble in the future in case of accidents with regard to these lights, an ordinance will be drawn up controlling the traffic problem and making a violation of it punishable by fine.

Ladies Social Committee Of Club Announced

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Mar. 11—Mrs. Loring Gelbach, chairman of the Ladies Entertainment committee of the Country club for 1927 has chosen the following to act on her committee:

Mesdames W. R. Johnston, W. W. Seidel, R. C. Stiefel, W. L. Dean, J. S. Bowater, H. E. Fisher, A. D. Campbell, James Hughes of Beaver Falls and Charles S. Passavant III, of Zelienople.

Mrs. Hayes Is Hostess To Club

ELLWOOD CITY, Mar. 11.—Members of the S. and K. club spent a delightful evening at the home of Mrs. Carl Hayes, Second street, last evening. Caught in the swift current fad for bridge, the members have laid aside their needles and thimbles in favor of "rubbers".

Lunch was served at 7:30 o'clock after which a social evening at cards was enjoyed. Mrs. Tom Jones will entertain March 22.

Fire Chiefs Report Is Read At Council

ELLWOOD CITY, March 11.—The fire chief reported as follows: fire at 311 Wayne avenue, no damages; fire at 521 First street, damage $5; fire at 305 Crescent, no damage; fire at 678 Crescent, no damage; fire at 812 Beaver avenue, $40,000 damage; fire on Wampum avenue, $350 damage. Cost of fire service for month of February, $525. This report of the fire chief was read by Secretary Ernest Moyer at the regular monthly meeting of the borough council in the city building last night.

Play Grounds To Get Appropriation

ELLWOOD CITY, March 11.—At the regular monthly meeting of the borough council last night in the city building the members voted favorably upon the finance committee's request for an appropriation of $600 for continuing the playgrounds this summer. This amount, together with $1,100 now on hand, will operate the two playgrounds for the season of 1927.

Ben Franklin High Minstrels

Pupils To Present Program On Monday And Tuesday

JAZZ ORCHESTRA TO AID PROGRAM

A minstrel show known as "The Forty Singing Seamen Minstrels" will be presented by the ninth grade of the Benjamin Franklin Junior High school at the Franklin auditorium on Monday afternoon March 14 and Tuesday evening March 15.

The show is under the direction of Miss Maude Young and Miss Ruth Leyda and much time has been spent to make the affair a great success. A program of singing, jokes and jolly good fun is assured throughout.

The scene of the play will take place on the "Good Ship Jolly Rover" which will make a trip around the world. The cast will contain black, ferocious pirates, pretty piratetts, Hawaiian girls and many others from the lands visited.

The "Jolly Rover" calls at different ports on its trip around the world and the Singing Seamen are entertained by the natives of each country. Beautiful Hula-Hula girls at Hawaii will meet the ship and sing and dance in the moonlight. Sunny Italy and Tony Baroni (Josephine Allen) tells his troubles. The "Jolly Rovers" stops at Hamburg, and hears the little German band. And thus many countries are visited and the program is varied by the costumes of the different lands.

The Franklin Jazz Orchestra will furnish the music for the occasion, with Miss MacEwan to direct and thus help the audience from getting seasick as they are carried over the waves with the pirate crew. The Franklin Jazz Orchestra consists of Julia Sidley at the piano, with Floyd Fennel, Dorothy Fell, James Armstrong, Guy D'Eletto, John Schweinberg, Ray Muder, Watson Wilson and Ralph Ulrich.

The end men of the show are called "Pirates from the South Seas". They are:

Alt, Paul McCurdy.
Bangs, John Essinger.
Case, Cyril Jones.
Dunn, Charles O'Brien.
Eltridge, Dominic Isolda.

The interlocutor, who is known as the the "Pirate Chief", is to be played by Albert Hahn.

Assisting the end men are six piratetts called the "Perky Pirate Sisters". These parts are taken by Gertrude Harbert, Elizabeth Krestel, Jean Twaddle, Lois Rodgers, Leola Cutler and Anabel Baughman.

The show will be given twice, on Monday afternoon, March 14, at two o'clock and on Tuesday evening, March 15, at eight o'clock.

BURY STUDENT WITH DIPLOMA

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Marie Cecilia Reidy, 14, a student at St. Dominic's school, had set her heart on graduating in June, she studied hard—too hard. She wanted that diploma.

Overstudy brought on a heart attack and Marie died. Today her body was borne to a grave in Mt. Olivet cemetery. Clutched in her lifeless hands was a diploma. It was issued by school authorities after her death.

Riches in a Debt

Simon I. Patino accepted a deed to land in Bolivia in payment of a $250 debt twenty-five years ago. The land today contains the largest tin mine in the world, valued at $150,000,000 and holding 10 percent of the world's available tin supply and Patino is reputed to be the richest South American. This photo shows him in Paris, where he has lived for some time and where he will represent Bolivia as minister to France.

Beer Deluge Being Probed

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 11.—The federal grand jury investigating the Pennsylvania-Ohio beer "deluge" which is said to have flooded northern Ohio, is an action again today after a slight delay, pending arrival of witnesses from Pennsylvania.

Among those expected to testify today are:

Ella Wallace, postoffice employe of Wilkes-Barre, Louis Thomas and Miles J. Gibbons, clerks of the Anthracite Trust Company, Scranton; Elba Saybood, Fred Newmyer, K. L. Paul and Fred Randecker, of the Castanea Ice and Beverage Company, of Lock Haven; Joseph Reedy and John R. Pritchard, postal clerks of Kingston; A. A. Fairchild, Lackawanna railroad freight agents and F. Harvey, dispatcher for the New York Central lines at Jersey Shore, all of Pennsylvania.

Photographs of checks, alleged to have been made out by the ring in payment of bribes and freight bills were introduced in evidence today.

Thirty Four Cases For Pardon Board

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Mar. 11.—Thirty four cases are listed for argument before the State Board of Pardons next Wednesday, F. H. Hoy, the secretary said today. There are no first degree murder cases. Seven cases will be submitted on papers filed and 21 application for rehearing considered.

The rest of the country needn't sneer at Texas. Texas at least tries a man for a killing.

Tells Story In Own Defense

Waynesburg Man Takes Witness Stand In Murder Case

(International News Service)

WAYNESBURG, Pa., March 11.—Charles W. Stewart, Waynesburg garage man and member of a prominent family here, took the stand in his own defense today in his trial on charges of killing Sam Abraham, Assyrian peddler of Canonsburg, Pa., last October, and told the jury that he shot the peddler to death in self defense.

Stewart told his version of the shooting in detail. He followed a photographer and a civil engineer to the stand, the latter two identifying pictures and plots of the scene of the shooting.

Stewart said that on the afternoon of the shooting his two small children, Alberta and Catherine, came to his garage and told him their mother wanted him at once. He returned with them, he said, and found Abraham seated on a chair in the living room. He passed the peddler, he said, went upstairs, and securing a revolver, returned and seated himself on a lounge facing Abraham.

Turning to his wife, now a co-defendant with him in the murder charge, awaiting trial later, he asked her if Abraham was the man who had insulted her. She replied in the affirmative, Stewart said. He then ordered Abraham to leave, and he charges, the peddler leaped up and struck him with his fist.

The two then grappled, Abraham pinioning Stewart's left wrist to his body as he attempted to reach the revolver held in Stewart's right hand. Abraham was overpowering him, Stewart said, when he struck the Canonsburg man with the revolver, inflicting a slight wound, just as the weapon was exploded. He denied this shot took effect.

The blow loosened Abraham's grip, and the peddler started towards the front door. Stewart backing away from him. Then, the defendant said, he stumbled over a chair, and as he went down, Abraham seized a sand filled bottle, used as a door stop, and knocked him down again.

As he fell against the wall, he looked up, Stewart said, and saw the peddler raise the heavy bottle in mid-air, poised to strike him again. He aimed under his armpit, and with his back to Abraham, fired, he said. Abraham groaned, and turning, fled from the room into the street, where he was found dead.

Upon cross examination, Stewart denied he ever told Constable G. T. Zimmerman that "if some fellows didn't stay away from my house, I'm going to kill someone." This was testified in a prevous hearing.

The defendant also denied ever applying to Sheriff Arno F. McClellan for a permit to carry a weapon, or having told the sheriff, "If they don't leave me alone up at my house, some one is going to get killed."

Noon recess was taken while Stewart was under cross examination, and he was to go back on the stand when court met at 2 p. m.

Defeat Bill To Prohibit Teaching Evolution Theory

(International News Service)

ST. PAUL, Minn., Mar. 11.—By a vote of 55 to 7, the Minnesota State Senate today overwhelmingly defeated a bill that would prohibit the teaching of evolution in tax supported schools of the state.

Reading Company Makes Application For Bus Permit

Wants To Operate Bus Lines In 24 Counties Of State

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 11.—The Reading Transportation company today filed an application for state charter with the Public Service commission asking permission to operate motor bus lines in 24 counties. A similar application made by the Reading last year was approved by the commission but later refused approval by former Governor Gifford Pinchot.

Pinchot in explaining his refusal at the time asserted that to grant such rights to the railroad companies would result in a monopoly of the roads built at state expense.

The same attitude was taken by Pinchot on the application of the Pennsylvania General Transit company, a subsidiary of the Pennsylvania Railroad company. That application also was approved by the commission.

The application filed by the Reading company today is for a company capitalized at $1,000,080. There would be 2000 shares at $500 each and out of the total the Reading company would hold 1965 shares.

The commission today merely noted the Reading company of receipt of the application. It is expected that a date will be set for hearing and the same routine followed as in the former application.

Although Governor Fisher in his inaugural address and repeatedly since then has indicated that he blames the heavy busses for most of the damage to the roads he also has asserted that the commission will be allowed to function "without executive interference". He refused comment on the present application prior to the time it reaches him for action which cannot be for several months.

Cantonese Open Drive On Sunkiang

By ALFRED MEYER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SHANGHAI, March 11.—The Cantonese have opened a drive against Sunkiang and have been forced back in their first sally.

The long expected battle in the Yishing sector for Sunkiang and also in the Taiping Chen region of Anhwei now appears to be in full progress, with all reports here indicating that the Cantonese have had to give some ground.

KNOWS HIS GROCERIES.

"What's them?" he demanded thrusting out a grimy hand full of small white objects.

"What are those?" said the young man with an ingratiating smile. "Those are beans."

"He does not know 'em, maw" bawled Freddy triumphantly into the adjoining room. "You said he didn't."

TACTFUL

"My dear, I have a splitting headache", he said. "Can't you manage to get rid of these people?"

"Why, I can't very well show them the door", replied his wife. "What would you advise me to do?"

"Certainly, you can't put them out", said the husband wearily, "but couldn't you set yourself at the piano?"

NO LAWYERS NEED APPLY

Two college students were arraigned before the magistrate charged with hurdling the low spots in the road in their motor car.

"Have you a lawyer?" asked the magistrate.

"We're not going to have any lawyer," answered the elder of the students. "We've decided to tell the truth."

Charleston Blamed For Many Divorces In German Capital

(International News Service)
BERLIN, March 11.—"Charleston mania of the modern German society woman is the cause of many divorces of higher class people," said Dr. Frey, well-known Berlin lawyer, whose advice and assistance is especially sought by prominent stage and screen beauties.

"Charleston very often alienates the affections of serious men from their wives. However, at the same time, one of the most amazing features of modern divorce cases in Germany is the fact that very often the divorced renews relations after some time has elapsed and even marry each other again. For instance, I know of a case where the man married his first wife for the third time. In some circles it is considered 'smart' not to sever relations with the divorced husband or wife altogether. A call at an afternoon tea given by a charming hostess is often attended by the former divorced husband.

"Also, is is a remarkable feature of divorce cases that divorces of people of a more or less advanced age have become a rule, nay these cases even outnumber divorces among the younger generation."

Texas Minister Rewrites Marriage Ceremony For Self

(International News Service)
BEAUMONT, Tex., Mar. 11.—It used to be "until death do us part." Now it is "as long as this union shall last."

Believing that the traditional phrase used in marriage ceremonies deliberately places men and women in a position that later may cause one or both to violate their marriage oaths or tell a lie, Rev. Aubrey Hess pastor of the First Congregational church here has rewritten the words he uses in ceremonies.

There might be a divorce or a separation Rev. Hess says either of which would result in violation of the oath if the old phrase were used.

Instead of the words "love, honor and obey," Hess uses "to love, forgive for, to make a home for and to remain clean, true and spotless."

Dry Forces In Turkey Praying Against Liquor

(International News Service)
CONSTANTINOPLE, March 11—Dry prayers enumerating the evils of drink have been prepared by the Turkish prohibition leaders and they will be recited regularly in the mosques in the future.

The members of the Green Crescent are also arranging to publish songs unfavorable to the wets. But it is probable they will have a little difficulty in turning the country dry because of the very large revenue the government derives from its alcohol monopoly.

Missouri Student Sets New Record In Pistol Shooting

(International News Service)
COLUMBIA, Mo., Mar. 11—What is believed to be a national record for pistol markmanship was set up here recently by G. L. Noland, a junior at the University of Missouri.

Firing at a distance of a possible 250, both slow and rapid fire. Army officers stationed here, who witnessed the performance, termed the feat "phenomenal" and, so far as they knew, unequalled.

New Gold Finds To Enrich Osages

(International News Service)
TULSA, Okla., Mar. 11.—Gold has been found in the Osage hills of Oklahoma and the Osage Indians, already fabulously wealthy from oil royalties, are opening their coffers to receive new riches.

Reports of rich veins running through its rocky fastnesses have once more made these Osage hills a mecca for adventurers and prospectors, and the color of frontier days has returned. Where once poured wealth in the form of "black gold" to beckon seekers of riches, yellow gold now lures an eager, varied throng to the hills of the

A Bahl is the prospector credited with the discovery. Formerly a railway roadmaster, he dreamed of gold winding through the hills on trains.

"There is gold in those hills," he once remarked. "Gold and minerals worth far more than any Oklahoma oil pool are hidden there."

Two years ago he disappeared into the hills and began to dig. A few days ago he emerged.

"There is gold out there and I have found it," he announced. He carried specimens of earth and rock, in which he said were not only gold, but iron, soda and aluminum as well.

Government assay reports, exhibited by Bahl a few days later, showed gold ranging from $50 to $1,000 for each ton of earth in his shaft. He claims his holdings will produce as high as $2,000 a ton.

STOP IT OR IT WILL STOP YOU
NEGLECT EXACTS A HEAVY PRICE

That catarrhal condition in your nose and throat is the forerunner of serious trouble if you don't take it in hand. It will not get well of itself, nor will it stay where it is. Afterwhile it will spread to your stomach, and if you fail to check it will become the source of all sorts of trouble.

Found Out The Trouble

"I neglected the catarrh in my head until it seemed to go all thru my system. My whole body was failing me. I became constipated, my skin turned sallow, and my kidneys worried me. I doctored first one thing and another, but failed to realize that catarrh was back of all my troubles. Because I read that World's Tonic was a wonderful strengthener, I began to take it. The first bottle made me feel a lot better, but when I had taken three I saw that my catarrh was clearing up. As I got relief from that I began to get well, and now with the catarrh all gone I'm a different man—well and look it."

If we could only get this message over to you—that catarrh is at the base of all kinds of illnesses—we should be performing a wonderful service to mankind. World's Tonic conquers catarrh. It builds up the body at the same time. That is why hundreds of people right in this town speak so well of it. 100,000 Bullfrogs Sing Lullaby For Indiana's Strangest Farmer

(International News Service)

LAPORTE, Ind., March 11.—A chorus of 100,000 frogs in a well lulls the slumbers of Edward Chambers, 73, of Westville every night. Chambers, one of the most unique farmers in the United States raises the frogs in an old well 45 feet deep and sells their legs to tickle the palates of fastidious dinners.

Years ago Chambers started out in the frog business along the banks of the Kankahee river with no capital other than a few dollars with which to buy a harpoon. Armed with the harpoon he would set out through the marshes at night spearing the frogs. When his business become too extensive to supply the demand for legs he conceived the idea of growing them in the abandoned well on his farm.

Now he grows all varieties of the amphibians from the smaller kinds to the huge jumbo croakers. The frogs live mostly on the insects they catch, Chambers says but he feeds them a special diet of meal mixed with scraps from the butcher shops. He finds their chief recommendation as a crop in the fact that they are almost never sick and that they yield large returns for the amount of time and money expended.

"Their croakings don't bother me" Chambers said. "It did a bit at first but now it helps me sleep, with a rumbling like a huge orchestra. The people that live in cities get used to the noise of elevated trains so that they couldn't sleep or feel natural without it. I am the same way with the sound of the croaking of a hundred thousand frogs under my windows at night.

Chambers makes a quick "turnover" in his frog stock. He raises a complete crop every 12 months.

Slayer In Prison For Fifty Years Must Die There

WETHERSFIELD, Conn., March 11.—Forty-eight years ago the 26th of this month the iron doors of Connecticut's state prison closed on Frank Bassett, a young man of 24, convicted of second degree murder, and they have yet to open to allow him to depart. For almost half a century Bassett has shuffled through the corridors of the prison and today, harmlessly insane, he is the sole surivor of his prison generation.

Bassett is Connecticut's oldest "lifer," both in age and length of prison service. He has "outstayed" and outlived every convict and every official of that prison who was there the day he entered. All have passed on, leaving him the only remaining link between the Wethersfield of today and that of 50 years ago.

The aged man's crime is shrouded in mystery because prison officials have little documentary evidence concerning it. As far as can be ascertained, he conspired with a married woman to murder her husband. The plot was successful and both he and the woman were sentenced to life imprisonment from Fairfield county. His arrest occurred when he attempted to sell the body of the murdered man to the Yale medical school. An investigation followed his offer and he was apprehended.

The woman for whom he murdered, died in the Middletown hospital after spending a short time in the prison here. Bassett was examined on his arrival here and pronounced sane, but was transferred to Middletown in 1893. In April of the same year he was returned here. In September, 1896, he was taken to Middletown again and held at the state farm until January, 1898. Then he was put in the criminal insane ward at Wetherfield. Six months later he was given routine prison work at which he has been occupied ever since.

Twenty-five attempts have been made by Bassett to obtain a pardon, but the board has refused to grant him his release. In making these refusals, the pardon board has been actuated more by its desire to help Bassett than to keep him incarcerated for the rest of his life. Every examination on the prisoner by the doctors has resulted in the same report, "harmlessly insane but unable to care for himself if released." For this reason Bassett is still in prison.

Colorado Soldier Of Fortune Is Military Advisor To Chang Tso Lin

(International News Service)

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo., Mar. 11—Steamboaot Springs boasts one citizen who has thrown off the yoke of commercialism, chosen romance as his guiding star, and risen to fame as a soldier of fortune—General Dudley E. Swinehart, who at the age of 34, is chief military advisor of Marshall Chang Tso-Lin, the great baron of Manchuria.

Gen. Swinehart has been in this country conferring with officials in Washington on secret matters pertaining to the Chinese situation.

Friends here received word that a plot to behead the youthful general was frustrated by his sudden departure for America.

General Swinehart came to Colorado with his parents when only 5, and lived on a ranch in Steamboat Springs. When Dudley was 14, his father, then superintendent of a state fish Hatchery, and prominent in state affairs, started out on a hunting trip and was never heard of again. It is thought he was lost in a severe snow storm that swept that region.

A chance soon came to go to Panama to work on the canal, then building, and Dudley took it. His brother, Charles Swinehart, was boss of a large construction gang in the Zone and was killed in an accident soon after young Dudley arrived.

After working on the Canal, the call of Central American took Dudley to Nicaragua, where, at almost any time, a promising young American can find fighting and romance. Swinehart found the former in abundance, taking part in an uprising.

After the revolution, Swinehart finished his technical education, graduating in civil engineering from Clemson college. In South Carolina.

Returning to Latin America, he had charge of a railroad construction job in Peru, where he worked for two years, when the world war broke out. At Camp Sherman, Swinehart was commissioned a lieutenant, and later served in China.

It was there that acquaintance with a college classmate brought him into contact with the great war lord of north China, Chang Tso-Lin. Favorably impressed with the young engineering officer; Chang made him chief engineer of a Manchurian railroad.

Swinehart has lived with the famed baron ever since and during the recent disturbances, has been advanced to the rank of general, serving as chief military advisor to the great leader.

General Swinehart writes to his friends in Steamboat Springs that Chang Tso-Lin is a marvelous leader and a great character in the development of his nation. His power is unlimited, and he is apparently a fixture in Chinese politics.

SHORT ROMANCES OF EVERYDAY LIFE

As In a Mirror

By Hazel Courtney

ANNETTE, summoned by a hasty telephone message, looked at Vi in bright-eyed curiosity. "And they really published it!" she said, breathlessly. "And paid you $50 for it!"

Vi nodded. "I'm not going to teach, after all. I'll just write a story every week. Let's see, that'll give me $2,500 a year, at least."

"Then what on earth is worrying you?" wondered Annette.

Vi flushed. "Well, I never dreamed it would be accepted by a magazine that everyone reads. And I—don't you dare tell, but I made Ross Armstrong the hero, and I'm worried to death for fear he'll recognize himself. Of course, I gave him a different name and circumstances, but I put in his darling little dimple, and—oh, he can't possibly mistake it!"

Annette giggled. "And he'll know how crazy you are about him."

Vi flushed again. "And I'm going to a dance with him tonight, too. I'm petrified." She brought a magazine from the stand and handed it to her friend. "Now you may read the story and guess who I was thinking of when I invented the villain."

Annette read absorbedly. "The villain," she said with some hesitation, "is Albert, isn't he?"

"Yes," said Vi. "The little pest. I certainly hope that he does recognize himself. He'll know just what I think of him."

"But," objected her friend, "Glenn isn't just like Ross, and Percy is rather different from Albert."

"Of course," scoffed Vi. "You can't put people in just exactly as they are. And even if you could it would be mean. But in a way you have to use real people as models."

"Hello, Ross," she called.

"He looked up. "Good evening, Violet." The girl stood still. It might have been a stranger who stood before her.

"What's the matter, Ross?" She came toward him slowly.

He looked away. "Don't you think," he said finally, in stilted tones, "that you might have found a kinder and less public way of expressing your opinion of me?"

"What do you mean?" she challenged.

"I've read your story," he said, looking at her now. "It's plain enough who you were thinking of when you described Percy. Haven't you razzed me enough about the way my hair stands on end? And—oh, well, never mind. It's your privilege, of course. Come on."

Vi followed him, stricken to silence. Percy had been the villain. Did Ross think she had chosen him for the villain How could he? And yet she couldn't deny it, couldn't blurt out that he was not the villain but the hero.

The dance, one may assume, was not an entire success. Ross preserved his aloof attitude throughout the evening and Vi took refuge in resentful silence.

But she was not for a moment allowed to forget her story. She was the first member of her crowd who had ever had anything published, and she was besieged by a group of admiring and envious friends. She had looked forward to this, had counted it a part of her triumph. But it did not give her the pleasure she anticipated. She wished desperately that they would forget her story, leave her alone.

The first time she had gone out with Ross, Vi had told him that she did not care to dance with Albert Tyre. And in his pleasant way Ross had always managed to shield her from Alger's eager attentions. But tonight when the fat young man surged up to them joyously, Ross was looking the other way.

He seemed more than usually objectionable tonight. "Oh, Vi," he cried, clasping her closely, "I read your story!" The girl ground her teeth. Always that story. "Say Vi," he went on enthusiastically, "you were a corker. It was sweet of you to tell me that way. I'd have known myself anywhere."

Vi pulled herself away from him. "You would!"

His eyes glowed. "Try to deny it, you cheeky little thing. Who did you take for your hero, now? Who was Glenn in your story? Little old Albert and no other!"

"Oh!" With a gasp Vi freed herself and stood still, casting a desperate glance toward Ross, who stood gloomily by the door. He came reluctantly toward her.

"Men are the stupidest things on earth!" raged Vi, when Albert was out of hearing.

"Why, particularly?"

"That Albert Tyre—he read my story. And he thinks I chose him for the hero!"

"What confounded nerve," growled Ross. "The original dumb Danny."

"He's no dumber than you, flashed Vi.

Ross stiffened. "Haven't you razzed me enough?" he asked.

"I say you're just as dumb as he is! But you're right about one thing. I did use you in that story. And he's right about one thing. I did use him. But I certainly didn't make him the hero."

It took time, but Ross finally got it. "You mean I was the hero!"

Vi tried to pull herself from his grasp. "Never mind what I mean." But she was in the arms of a better man than Albert this time, and later in the garden by the lilac tree, he found out just what she did mean.

Eternal Justice

By Monte Darrell

ASHBEY PERRIN comfortably stroked his chin as he lay back in his chair and contemplated the surging sea as it broke at the foot of his castle home. He quietly chuckled as he recalled the tense courtroom, the solemn judge and the intent jury; he heard again the legal wranglings; felt again that subtle haziness of doubt as the jury left; again he waited hours of fever and hope; and then came freedom which had cost him so dearly. He chuckled. It was a fiendish chuckle, for he had committed the capital crime.

Ashbey Perrin's house was a miniature castle set upon a jutting promontory that ran into the open sea and ended abruptly in a blank face. Into this face a floor had been painstakingly cut, and from there were reared the turrets of the castle, rising from the very level of New England's frivolous sea.

He was a brooding man. For hours he would watch the billows rise and fall with tireless monotony; and when the sea was turbulent he became mildly insane—fascinated by the vicissitudes of the sea as it spread its foamy crests in pearly fans against the cliff.

All day a raw east wind and storm had whipped the sea to a fury of whitecaps. Later a bitter cold had set in. And as the spray flew into the air it shimmered in the light of the full moon and then fell in a shower of splendor, many of the frozen pellets intermittently striking the windowpanes.

About the castle ran a narrow fissure—a natural flaw in the cliff. It circled the lee side of the house and, trailing over the side of the cliff, disappeared into the sea.

The full moon had brought the flood tides; the east wind had whipped mammoth billows into stirring; never before had the sea reached so high; never before had the billows attained such force. The flying spray had sheathed the front of the castle in a coat of glimmering ice spread in fantastic design, moulding the castle and sea as one.

Thrown by the flying spray, rivulets of water, following the fissure, encircle the castle, turning to ice and forming pinacles that danced and gleamed in the light of the moon. Increased by the surging billows, this rim of ice, set in the narrow fissure, became a ponderous, bejeweled bracelet encircling the castle with all its power and beauty.

Suddenly there came a sharp report. The castle trembled. Ashbey Perrin sprang to his feet. He glanced out of the window, and saw nothing but the wild sea in all its madness. He laughed nervously and sat down. "Merely the snapping of the frost."

He looked about nervously. His face had blanched to the color of old parchment. An insipidness of color a dullness of fear and awe, had taken his usually dark, crafty eyes. His mouth was slightly open; and his lips were hard, dry, and pale. He sat tense, his bloodless fingers gripped upon either arm of the chair. Nothing could be seen amiss; but a strange atmosphere had fallen upon the place. There was a haziness and suspension such as often precedes a radical change of weather. The sea had calmed; the wind had abated; and a horrible lull had fallen. The cold, unfriendly rays of the moon bespangled the crest-broken waters and threw clammy shadows about the castle. It had lost its firmness of foundation. It seemed balanced in mid-air; as though floated by some supernatural power.

Another sharp report—sickeningly the castle lurched. There was madness in the man's eyes as he sprang from his chair and turned to flee. But too late—for again the castle lurched out and down. There rose a terrible din as stones ground upon stones; walls fell asunder; winds rising again, howled and shrieked around tower and cornice; and breakers fell with a maddened roar. It was a chaos of destruction; a bedlam of noises.

Castle and floor had parted as a unit from the cliff. Slowly gathering momentum, it slid, grinding and powdering rocks and walls, until the greedy waves had swallowed the highest turret. In an ecstasy of madness the breakers sprang over the eddies and whirlpools from the castle, and curled their foamy fingers over their new conquests.

"What animal," said the teacher of the class in natural history, "makes the nearest approach to man?"

The Prince of Wisdom

By Joella Johnson

MOTHER, I wish you wouldn't work so hard!" Selina, trim in her new Spring suit and jaunty hat, did not notice as she came into the kitchen that the landlord's agent was glowering in one corner.

He sneered openly at her words. "Yeah, a lot you care!" he remarked. "Dolled up to the nines, while your mother slaves for you." And truly Mrs. Brent, with her suds-stained apron and straggly hair, did present a marked contrast to her modish daughter. She looked up in sharp anger at the man's impudence, but she did not speak, though she knew the injustice of his taunt.

Selina was faintly puzzled at her mother's silence. It was not like Mrs. Brent to be intimidated. She turned to the caller. "The rent is paid. Please go. Our personal affairs are nothing to you."

"You bet they are!" he spat out. "The rent's going up ten dollars from now on, the boss says."

Mrs. Brent started. Selina frowned and looked at the man steadily. "It will be impossible for us to pay more," she said finally.

The man sneered again. "You can't have a new fur coat, maybe. That's all it'll mean."

Selina bit her lip. That was the worst of having him live next door. He knew too much about one's affairs. He knew, for instance, the speculation rife among the neighbors concerning her mysterious job.

"If you will give us a written notice from our landlord, whoever he is, that this raise has gone into effect, we shall try to pay it," she said finally.

He laughed. "You'll pay it anyway," was his parting word.

Selina's step dragged on the way to the office. In spite of her neighbor's suspicions, she really had a job. And her wage was no more than her hard-working mother seemed to need. As to her fine clothes, they were an essential part of her work. A detective must always look the part he intends to play, and Selina Brent was one of the most skilful sleuths on the force of Whitman and Oliver. But her success depended upon secrecy.

"Good morning, Miss Brent." The clear, tired eyes of Stanley Oliver held unusual weariness. He was a good executive and he generally got what he went after, but he didn't really like this business of spying upon other men. Neither did Selina like it, but she knew it a necessary part of the administration of justice.

Her greeting was sympathetic. "Anything new, Mr. Oliver?"

He toyed with a pencil. "New, yes, and personally disappointing. I'm taking you off the firm's business today, Miss Brent, to do some private work for me." He paused and Selina felt a quickened interest.

"It's rather a nasty job." He made a wry face. "But the way, you live out Eastham way, don't you?"

"Yes." Selina was surprised that he knew even that much about her.

"I own some apartment houses there, Miss Brent, and I'm having trouble with my agent, who thinks, by the way that I'm a broker. His name is Carson." Selina's throat was suddenly dry. Mr. Oliver looked straight ahead. "I guess I trusted him too much. Anyway, I'm afraid he is blackmailing some of my tenants. Charging extra rentals, maybe even more. I want you to get the goods on him."

Selina rose swiftly. "I'll get it for you," she promised grimly.

Absurd enough, she told herself on the way home. Yet some instinct told her that it was true, that it was her mother whom Carson had been blackmailing. That alone would explain the constant and mysterious drain on the funds which she paid weekly into the family coffers. But it needn't go on any longer. With Mr. Oliver established as a broker in Carson's curious mind, she could confess her connection with him. And Carson's hold would be broken, for she knew that he must have been trading on the neighborhood suspicions against her. With a sudden pang she realized that her mother must have believed them.

Before going upstairs she visited the other apartments in her building, and when she finally opened her own door her worst fears were realized. The Brents alone, in the whole building, were paying triple the original rent asked by their landlord.

Carson appeared, blustering but slightly uneasy, in response to Selina's summons.

"Mr. Carson, we are going to move at once," the girl told him, "unless our rent is reduced to correspond with that of the other tenants in this building." He tried to speak, but she continued calmly, "I have taken a position as secretary for Mr. Stanley Oliver, a broker of whom you may have heard. He owns an apartment house, he says, with a considerably lower rental than this one."

The man's jaw sagged. Mrs. Brent cried out.

"Shall we move, Mr. Carson?" asked Selina. "Or shall I tell Mr. Oliver that you made a mistake and have returned the money you thought we owed?"

The man glowered again, but he had no choice but to give in.

Selina faced Mr. Oliver's quizzical glance the next morning. "Mr. Carson has promised to be good," she told him, "and your tenants are satisfied. Will that do?"

Mr. Oliver looked at her for a moment, and she read in his glance understanding. "I'm proud of you," he said quietly.

The Tiny Voice of Conscience

By Margaret Taylor

YOU did right, you did right," insisted the little voice, but Alice Ripplan was trying hard not to listen to the little voice. Yet, as she sat there in the doorway of her old-fashioned country house, she heard again that persistent tongue of the conscience within her.

It was just last night she had told David Farnsworth what the little voice had directed her to say. "I can't marry you now, David," she had stated firmly.

"You mean 'won't'" he had replied shortly. "You can't sacrifice your life for your sister. Someone else can care for Rita. Why, Alice, we have planned so long that when the time came that I must make this South American trip we would make it our honeymoon trip. I shall be gone so long. I—."

"That's just it, David," she had interrupted him. "Don't you see that something might happen while I am gone? Why, Rita's my sister! Why, I couldn't leave her when she needs me the most. Oh, David, don't tempt me. It isn't going to be easy, but it's my duty."

"Don't you owe me—us, anything? You'll ruin both our lives. Would you throw love away? Do you remember that passage we read together: 'There is a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune?' Don't decide foolishly," David begged.

"I'll not change my mind," Alice had smiled sadly.

Why hadn't he helped her? She had had to fight him as well as herself to reach this decision to remain, at whatever personal cost, at the side of her sick sister.

"Perhaps Doctor Oliver is wrong," David had seized on the idea eagerly. "The specialist who is coming tomorrow may find that Doctor Oliver is wrong."

"Doctor Oliver told me not to hope too much, and the way he said it I can't hope at all. Dear David, don't question my love," Alice had faltered, tears in her voice. "It's the only thing I can do—to stand by Rita. It may be years before I can leave her, for I'll never leave while she needs me."

"It may be years before I can return, but then I don't count, do I?" Bitterness had crept into David's voice. Then he had pleaded, had argued, had entreated, had threatened, had stormed, and had finally left in anger.

Alice had stood as unmoved as a rock, for the little voice had spoken for her. "It's the right thing to do. The only thing to do," it had told David. But when he had gone the little voice had forsaken her, too; she had been suddenly dreadfully alone—desolate. She was a girl with a broken heart, a girl whose life seemed like a broken wheel.

Rita had not been able to make the long trip to see the specialist, so the specialist had had to come to her. He was now up in Rita's room with Dr. Oliver, and Alice seated in the doorway, was waiting for them to come down.

All at once there came from the room above the sound of laughter; Rita's voice filled with a happy lilt. Breathlessly Alice went flying up the stairs.

"Oh, Alice, good news," announced Dr. Oliver, as she entered the room. "I was much mistaken about Rita."

"A very natural mistake under the circumstances," explained the specialist. "But absolutely she has not the disease. I certainly expect the young lady to have 50 or 60 active years before her."

"Dear Rita!" exclaimed Alice. Tears of joy shone in her eyes as she thought only of her sister.

Sometime later Alice slipped downstairs to sit for a moment in the doorway again. Now that her heart was at rest about Rita, the thought of David came back. She was not sorry she had chosen as she had, but now that Rita did not need her, her own life seemed to extend before her a meaningless matter of years.

"I ought to be glad," she thought bitterly, "to have him gone. He was not big enought to rise above his own selfish desires. If he had loved me he could not have been so cruel."

But her dreams seemed forever shattered; the lovely visions had drifted away like clouds.

Suddenly she gave a little gasping cry as unexpectedly David, himself, came into view up the garden path.

"Alice, my dear!" He caught both her hands in his. "Forgive me. How could I hurt you so when I love you so? Remember that other verse: 'Though the walls of my heart crumble and molder in dust away?' It is like that with me and always will be, no matter how long I must wait."

He did not know about Rita! He had reached this unselfish decision in an agony of forlorn hope, even as she had done. He, also, had been tested and had not been found wanting.

For a long passionate moment they clung to each other. The air about them was filled with the sound of Rita's happy laughter, of the low, sweet words of David, then, within her. Alice heard the little voice. It seemed to be singing, and it sang so loud that she knew that the echo of its music would sound forever down the beautiful years.

Just Enough

By Claire Wesson

BETTY LOVETT danced into the Lovett's shabbily comfortable home, as usual a few minutes late for dinner, and began:

"It's all settled, dear family. We had a class meeting today and I need some money for—"

"Now, see here Betty, you've got to cut out some of these shows, and dances and things." Father stopped serving the hamburg steak and canned green peas to gesture emphatically. "I'm not a millionaire it's a dollar and half here, and two dollars there—something all the time. It's got to stop."

"But, daddy! A dollar and a half. Two dollars! Why—why—" Betty was stammering in her excitement.

Betty's eyes turned to mother for encouragement; and father's eyes turned to mother for enlightenment.

Mother, with a quick little catch of her breath, evaded father's eye, and, nodded to Betty, said, "Go on, Betty. Tell father what you need."

"Well, it's all settled." Betty was once more enthusiastic. "We are to have white linen for Senator Day, flat crepe for Baccalaureate Sunday—"

"Clothes!" Father exploded. Then he threw his roll on the table. "Well, there it is—every last cent that can be spent for extras this Spring. I told you I was not a millionaire." Father shuffled his feet disgustedly, and pulling the paper out from under him, proceeded to shut himself away off.

Betty meekly ate her dinner until father became absorbed in the account of Batty Jones' home run, then she reached forth a dimpled white hand and gathered in the money.

"Oh, mother, I guess there'll be just enough, "flipping over the bills, and calmly appropriating every last cent for herself. Betty knew that many of the girls were having only two, possibly three, new frocks, but she had made up her mind to have five, one for every day.

Mrs. Lovett mentally calculating, sighed inwardly, and resigned all thought of the excellent piece of blue silk that she had admired in Bessom & Co.'s window. But Susie, two years Betty's junior, sighed outwardly and exaggeratedly: "I see where I go without a new dress for Celia's party."

Mother, trying to sympathize with both, interposed: "I know you need a frock, Susie, dear—but—we do want Betty to look as nice as any other girl at Commencement."

So Betty began her shopping and went through the whole list—and the whole roll of money.

The white graduation dress shimmered in finished beauty, the soft folds of the orchid reception frock hung in graceful completeness, and the rose-colored church dress was cut but unfinished when Betty suffered a change of heart. The blue silk in the shop window had been disturbing her for some days now. She wanted it for her mother. Also, coming quietly in one day, she had found Susie, shining-eyed, draped in the rose-colored silk, posing before the mirror.

Two lovely frocks at once, and a white linen one, ought to satisfy any girl, Betty thought to herself. She bundled up the sport silk and started for the silk store.

Timidly Betty approached the clerk. "May I exchange this for some of that blue silk in your window?"

Betty knew the manager slightly, and she again put forth her timid question. "Well, now, Miss Betty, that is a nice idea," he said, when she had told him that she wanted to surprise her mother with a new dress. "But why not keep your silk, and I'll give you some for your mother on the charge acount."

"No, thank you, Mr. Baker. Father said we were not to spend any more money for clothes. He gave me a lot, but I spent it all on myself."

"All right, child, guess we can fix you up," and the manager got the silk himself and cut it for her. "Your mother will enjoy wearing that dress, I am sure, Miss Betty," he said as he handed it to her.

Class Day came, and Betty wore the white linen she had worn on Senior Day. Graduation night came and Betty, all shimmering white loveliness, stood on the platform to receive her diploma.

Her eyes sought out her family, where they sat in tense silence, their eyes fastened on her. There was mother, dressed becomingly in blue silk; Susie, proudly arrayed in the adored rose frock; father, his eyes alight, not only with love, but with admiration and understanding as well. Betty felt that she had truly graduated.

Peter's Aunt Stasia

By Clyde Weldon

FROM the bottom of her heart, Miss Anastasia pitied herself. Ever since the arrival of small Peter Knowlton two months ago, bag and baggage, into her placid and well regulated household, she had pitied herself continuously.

She felt a rising resentment against Laurabel for dying, and leaving a boy of 12 for a spinster sister to look after. She might at least have been considerate enough to leave a girl. Miss Anastasia slammed the kettle on the stove with an angry grunt. She had warned Laurabel not to marry that inventor with his many big ideas and meagre purse. It was just like him to get himself blown to bits by those ideas, and to leave Laurabel alone with a baby to support.

At any rate, here was Peter, tall for his age, tow-headed, wistfuleyed, his mouth ready at all times for food, for all the world like a young robin's.

"Well," said she grimly, "you certainly aren't much to be proud of. How you ever manage to get so dirty beats me. And then you want a dog to help you track in some more dirt! For gracious' sakes, go wash those hands, put on a clean shirt! And don't forget to hang your hat on the peg behind the door!"

"Yes'm, I mean, no'm."

"Yes'm."

He disappeared through the dining room door. His aunt shook a disapproving head. That was always the way. Never any satisfaction! She wondered if he was "all there." Like his inventor father, most likely, a little bit off! They all were! If he had only been a girl, like Laurabel, little and bright and pretty!

In his own little room up under the eaves, Peter looked disconsolately at his freckled face in the square of cracked mirror over his table, and talked to his mother. Even if she could not answer him, he derived a great deal of satisfaction from talking to her.

"She don't love me yet," he whispered. "And she don't seem like you said she was, but I s'pose it's me, an' not her. I try to do everything like she wants, but she wants heaps."

He washed his hands laboriously, changed his shirt and spent a great deal of time and effort on the tying of his tie. For Aunt Anastasia's sake he wished that he resembled his mother more, but deep in his heart he exulted in the fact that he looked like a Knowlton.

"That nephew of yours is a great kid," he informed her. "I wisht he was my son, that I do."

"That so?"

She was hard on him at times. She admitted that. Twice—and she blushed hotly for that—she had whipped him with a hickory stick, once for falling into the blueberry swamp, and once for not coming home to supper till long after dark.

"He thinks a heap of you," went on Tom Skelton. "Ain't many kids would think such a heap o' their aunts in so short a time. He thinks the sun rises and sets in you. We was exchangin' notes. You see, I was raised by an old maid aunt, too, an' I set a heap o' store by her."

"Humph!"

"Wall, I mean," hastily interrupted Tom, "my aunt an' his aunt are somethin' alike. They neither o' them had no kids, an' we was sorter wished on 'em. See what I means? That boy thinks there's nobody like you, like I used to think o' my Aunt Lizzie. He says to me that next to his ma they was nobody like you."

Tom Skelton went. Miss Anastasia drew out the tin of delicately browned biscuit. There was a mist before her eyes. She squared her shoulders and hurried as she had never hurried before. With one eye on the clock she began to mix dough, flour her board, roll, pat. She would use the applesauce she had just made. Little boys liked apple pie, and she had not had any since his arrival.

"Peter," she said, as he appeared again in the doorway, "how would you like for us to go down tomorrow and pick out one of the Lawton collie puppies for you?"

PETERS ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

By Florence Smith Vincent

UNDER THE COCOANUT TREE.

The lean dog was having just about as much fun as was his master and making twice as much noise. As each cocoanut came thudding to the ground he was upon it, biting at it with his white teeth, scratching at it with his sharp claws, barking gleefully all the while.

And in the excitement he did what no wise dog ever does—he forgot his master's warning. And by and by a cocoanut dropped—not upon the ground first but upon the poor dog's pate. Then the Dog's mirth turned to sadness, and the lean Hound howled and ran yelping from beneath the cocoanut palm tree.

"Ki yi, ki yi," cried he, rubbing his head with is paws to soothe the ache away. "Srange how accidents will happen at the most unexpected times. How could I have guessed Master that you would not have aimed more kindly.

"Poor old fellow, it's a shame!" Petares' tone was sympathetic, but he did want to laugh, the lean Dog looked so comical all humped up on the bank of the river. "I am truly sorry, but if you had kept from under you couldn't well have been hit you know."

"Grrrr! I know it was all my fault, but I was having such fun. It's all over now, though! I've no longer the spirit for the game. I shall sit right here until you come down, and, I pray you, come down soon."

And then Petares did laugh "Cheer up comrade. I will come! And when I have cracked open the cocoanut and given you to drink its sweet milk you will forget the ache in your head and be your merry self again."

THEN THE DOG'S MIRTH TURNED TO SADNESS AND RAN YELPING FROM BENEATH THE COCOANUT PALM TREE

"Grrrr!" growled the lean Dog under his breah. "A blow such as you dealt me is not gotten over in such a hurry!" But Petares did not hear the Dog grumbling or if he did he was too busy climbing down the palm tree to pay any attention.

Now, as any one might guess, it is much easier coming down than going up a tree—all Petares had to do was to slide. And in no time at all he was upon the ground again and hastening to gather up the cocoanuts.

Athletes Travel 242,500 Miles To Cincinnati Meet

(International News Service)

CINCINNATI, O., Mar. 11.—Athletic teams from various corners of the United States travelled a total distance of 242,050 miles—equal to ten trips around the earth—in visiting the University of Cincinnati's athletic combines during 1926, a university student of statistical bent has figured.

He pointed out that teams visiting Cincinnati did not travel so very far at that, because of this city's location in relation to other universities, and indicated that the figures for the far-western or far-eastern universities would be much higher.

New Castle Ship Men Get Big U. S. Orders

(International News Service)

NEW CASTLE-ON-TYNE, March 11--There is joy among shipbuilders here because Britain, in face of strong competition from the Continent, has secured orders from the United States for the construction of six oil-carrying vessels of an aggregate value of $5,000,000.

The contracts were placed by George H. Taber, Vice-President of the Gulf Refinery, Pittsburgh. Construction will be supervised by Sir Joseph W. Isherwood, who secured the contracts.

Three of the vessels will be oil tank vessels to carry 15,000 tons dead weight, and are to be built by the Furness Shipbuilding Company, Haverton Hill-on-Tees. The other three vessels will be twin-screw oil tank steamers of about 3,700 tons dead weight. They are to be built by Palmer's Shipbuilding Company at Jarrow, and are destined for Venezuelan trade.

NEW CASTLE MEETS DUQUESNE TONIGHT

Game Scheduled In Big Pitt Stadium

New Castle Faces Real Test In "Steel City" Quintet Tonight

Duquesne Rated As Champions; Second Trip In Two Years To Pitt Tourney

By "BUGS" WALTHER

TONIGHT at eight o'clock, in the Pitt Stadium gym, New Castle High's Sectional IV champions will receive the greatest test of the year. Duquesne High having eliminated Vandergrift from the picture, will use practically the same tactics this evening with the locals. Whether or not the "Dukes" will continue their elimination process remains to be seen. Conceding that only the "sack race" at the annual grocers' picnic is in the "bag", anything can happen tonight.

New Castle High, with one of the strongest and smoothest working combinations that has ever represented the local institution, will find in the Duquesne High team a group of players rated high in scholastic circles at Pittsburgh. There are many who believe that the "Dukes" will struggle through the W. P. I. A. L. elimination games to the home stretch with their record unmarred. There are many who honestly believe that if the "Dukes" are to be taken out of the picture New Castle High is the outfit that will do the erasing. One thing is assured, and that is the fact that New Castle High can play basketball, the boys have shown this to be true in their past games, and if they continue the stride that carried them to the top of the heap in Section IV, then the Duquesne team is due for one of those unexpected surprises tonight.

"Dukes" Are Strong

Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh sent the locals through a light drill on Thursday afternoon and it was apparent from their style of play that the Red and Black cohorts are feeling their way carefully. Coach Bridenbaugh announced that Reider and Franklin would handle the forward jobs, McGrath at center and Ostrosky and Sillman at the guards.

Over-confidence, that unseen something that has wrecked many a good floor team or any kind of a team, in fact, is lacking at the camp of the New Castle High quintet. In meeting Duquesne High the boys know and realize full well that they are stacking up against one of the best schoolboy passer teams in this section of the state. There can be no getting away from the fact that the "Dukes" have compiled a great record this year, and they have had the advantage of one tourney game already.

Last year, just about this time, the New Castle High team, Section III winners, traveled to Pittsburgh and met defeat at the hands of Duquesne High, 27 to 20. If New Castle High can upset the Steelers tonight it will mean something to the boys. There are several who believe that New Castle High will capture the W. P. I. A. L. tourney if they can hurdle the "Dukes" barrier tonight.

In order to stop this Duquesne team there are just a few things to be considered, and two of them happen to be brothers. The Kowallis boys, Steve and Ralph, are the real threats on the "Dukes" outfit. It has been the work of this pair from the same family that has carried the Duquesne team to rather dizzy heights. Sillman and Ostrosky will have their hands full in watching these boys.

New Castle		Duquesne
Reider	F	S. Kowallis
Franklin	F	R. Kowallis
McGrath	C	Mlunick
Ostrosky	G	Lenhart
Sillman	G	Ciesyski

Liberty Passers Defeat Butler In Fast Game 35-25

The fast stepping Liberty Five defeated the Butler Crescents by a score of 35 to 25 in a hard fought game played on the Lincoln-Garfield gym floor on Wednesday night.

The Liberty boys started scoring in the first quarter of play and were never headed throughout the contest. At the end of the first half the score stood 22 to 13. The final half of the game was even with both teams scoring 12 points.

The Liberty tossers have won 15 and lost three this year and are well on their way to the amateur championship. Roher was the big scorer of the game with four baskets. Donnell, former Butler high football star and Wersh former Butler high center were the best for the Crescents. Reiber, Parker and Jenkins performed in fine style for the locals.

Liberty Five—35.		Crescents—25
Roher	F	Wilson
Reiber	F	Spears
Parker	C	Donnell
Jenkins	G	Wersh
Rogovin	G	Crews

Subs: Tino, Hendman, Durnham.

Field goals: Roher 4, Reiber 3, Parker 3, Jenkins 3, Rogovin 2, Wilson, Hendman 2, Spears 3, Donnell 2, Wersh 2, Crews 2.

Fouls: Liberty Five, 5 out of 11. Butler 1 out of 9.

Referee: Gennock Tin Mill.

"Special Train" Leaves Tonight At 5:30 O'clock

With a last minute rush of ticket selling the "Special Train" to Pittsburgh for the New Castle-Duquesne game tonight was assured early today. Gardner announced that the train would leave at 5:30 o'clock from the Pennsy west side station.

For several days it appeared that plans for the "Special" were doomed to die, but the enthusiasm yesterday and the sale of ducats indicated that the folks were just waiting 'till the last minute as is customary anytime.

The train on its return trip will leave Pittsburgh at about 10:30 o'clock according to plans.

The "Special" will be met at the Union depot by several street cars of the Pittsburgh Railway Company. The fans will be transported from the station direct to the stadium.

In addition to the number who will motor to Pittsburgh the New Castle high team will be rather strongly backed tonight.

Westminster Closes Successful Season; Twelve Games Won

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Mar. 11.—When Westminster defeated Thiel at Greenville, Tuesday evening, 31-17, it brought to a close one of the most successful cage seasons in the history of the college. A glance at the record sheet shows 12 victories and five defeats. Three of the victories might be termed pre-season games which gives the United Presbyterians nine victories over college fives against five defeats. The pre-season games with Greenville Scholastic, Buhl and the Alumni.

Tudor Lewis of Farrell, sensational guard, led the blue and white scoring. During the season, he caged 51 field goals, the highest number of two plyers made by a United Presbyterian cager in many years. His foul record is also unusual, he getting 43 in 56 chances. "Sparky" Connor of New York City, is closest to Lewis in field goals with 34. "Bill" Crowell of Sharon, caged the spheroid 29 times from the field while Capt. Hugh Gamble of Sharon, was a close second to Crowell with 28.

The records of the individual players are:

Greenville And Sharon Win In Tourney Games

(International News Service)

GROVE CITY, Pa., March 11.—Greenville and Sharon high school teams today were added to the list of strong contenders for the annual Mercer county basketball tournament championship here.

Greenville downed the strong Farrell team, 14 to 8, and Sharon romped on Fredonia to the tune of 26 to 9 in last night's games, at the Grove City college gymnasium.

WHITE ELECTED TECH CAPTAIN

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, March 11.—P. H. "Whitey" White of Detroit, a Sophomore in the building construction division of the school of industries, today assumed the captaincy of Carnegie Tech's basketball team for next season. White is an outstanding student, being only the second person in the history of the school to be chosen a member of Alpha Tau, honorary scholastic fraternity.

New Wilmington Aces Win Hard Fought Game

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Mar. 11.—The New Wilmington Aces defeated the Thompson Billiards Thursday night in a fast game played here, the final score showing the invading team to be trailing a 26-24 score.

During the first half the Wilmington team had easy sailing, holding the lead throughout. The score at the half way point stood 14-10, our boys going strong and the visiting five flashing more speed and pep as the game went on. During the second half the Thompson Billiards were giving their best and tied the score many times. By hard guarding and fine team work the Aces gained a lead near the end of the game which won them a victory.

W. Hutchison with five baskets was the star of the game, while Eagleson and Worrall also played fine ball. For the losers the work of Wetzel and Brown featured.

Summary:

Aces		Thompson Billiards
T. Hutchison	F	Wetzel
Eagleson	F	Wilt
W. Hutchison	C	Berry
Worrall	G	Mansell
Penberthy	G	McLain

Subs.—Billiards: Brown for McLain.

Field goals—W. Hutchison 5, Eagleson, Wetzel, Brown 3, T. Hutchison, Wilt, Mansell 2, Worrall 1.

Referee — Maxwell (Westminster.)

SEE ALLEGHENY LOSE TO PITT

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., March 11.—A. A. McDonald, graduate manager of athletics at Westminster college; John D. Lawther, basketball coach; Glenn O'Donavon varsity cager; Postmaster "Rosey" White of New Wilmington and "Ab" Skillen motored to Meadville Wednesday evening where they saw Pitt beat Allegheny 25-24.

The men reported an excellent game, blaming Allegheny's defeat to their poor strategy in the last period when they were leading by a six point margin. The defeat robbed Allegheny of its chances of copping tri-state non-conference honors.

Walsh Picks Braves To Finish Well Up In National League

Bancroft Having Added Strength To Team Makes Braves Contenders

Fournier, Brooklyn Cast-Off, Will Aid Boston In Fight This Season

(Editor's Note:—This is the first of a series by Davis J. Walsh on the major league clubs in their training camps. Other stories will follow.):

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor Internat'al News Service

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Mar. 11.—To a man up a tree who doesn't expect to come down until the whites of their eyes turn black, the Boston Braves apparently are always disappointing the boy friend, Mr. David J. Bancroft, and all I can say is that if they only will do it again this year Boston may wake up unconscious some morning from shock of finding itself in first division. The Braves tossed off a tenth-inning decision to the Cleveland Indians yesterday.

This is highly encouraging. In 1926, they couldn't go wrong in the training camp and couldn't go right in the league race. The performance was a great moral victory, which is something you are careful to put out with the cat before closing up for the night.

Anyhow, full well do I remember the season of 1924, our Mr. Bancroft's first as manager of the outfit.

"Just a terrible ball club," said he with that if I-do-say-it-myself manner. The Braves disappointed the young man very sorely that year. They closed with a great rush to take fourth place.

Therefore, it may be a source of some comfort for Boston to know that David doesn't expect much from the Braves in 1927.

"Anyhow, I won't make the mistake I did last year," he said today as his club prepared to have it out with the world's champion Cardinals at the local park.

"That mistake was in getting my pitchers and, in fact my whole club, so far advanced in March that they couldn't break a screen door at ten paces in April. They came back again at the tag end of the race, but then it was too late to get anywhere."

Lacked Punch

The Braves, having lacked a real punch, were just a streaky ball club in other years, a prey to the whims of their pitchers. It may be that this condition will be altered by more pitching and less whimsicality this year; also by the possibility of additional punch being added by Lance Richbourg, picked up from Milwaukee, and Jack Fournier, picked up from the odd-lot mart.

Jack still can hit them and will play an occasional first base, which is about the best way he does it. Dick Burrus, the Hatteras, N. C., gentleman, will occupy the position most of the time in spite of his 1926 slump. It seems that he was a sick man last year and the fact of the matter is that he really looks the part of a good ball player down here. In consequence, the general punch of the outfit should benefit accordingly.

Richbourg lives at Crestview, Fla., and he wouldn't have far to go if he was going but he isn't. Getting two to three hits per diem, he has clinched his place in right field and will range the regular outfield with Jimmy Welch and Ed Brown. The Oakland, California, specimen has improved so much that he has taken the centre-field job away from Brown.

The latter can go a mile and get them but the trouble is that it takes him so long to carry the ball back. He shakes hands very nicely with his throwing arm. Anyhow, left field, it is figured, will make the throw in less binding. As for Richbourg, he always has been a hitter since that distant day he caught McGraw's eye as the third baseman of a college team in Florida.

Speaking of third basemen, the Braves have two and neither is a cold choice. Eddie Moore, ex-Pirate, has been shifted over to the position he played in the Southern Association and, with his fine arm, he looks like a million. But Andy High, the other candidate, drove in more runs than any other man on the club in 1926 and it is understood that they intend to count runs again this year. High is one of those men who has slowed up everywhere except in driving the ball through the infield.

Mr. Bancroft, himself and in person, will play shortstop, which automatically ends that argument, if any. Walter Gautreau and Herb Thomas, from Providence via Jacksonville, are holding a two-man vendetta around second base. They like Thomas down here but Gautreau is a smart, fighting fielder, gets on a lot and is likely to take the marbles in spite of his inadequate arm.

The pitchers are plentiful and most of them are good—when the spirit moves. Bancroft thinks Larry Benton is the best righthander in the league. Joe Genewich is another man who could find a home anywhere in either league. Werthe was more promising last year; Hearn, the lefthander, showed us a great curve ball in 1926 and doesn't look as though he can miss; Harold Goldsmith, up from Providence, pitched three great games against league leading teams last September; Foster Edwards, Dartmouth man from Minneapolis, also turned in three fine performances without a run being earned.

Then, there is also, there is Arthur Mills, from Pittsfield via Utica, of whom every one in camp is expecting great things; Kyle Graham, a very fair right-hander; Bob Smith, the pitcher-shortstop who likes to face the Pirates; Charley Robertson—no hit Charley of Chicago—and the inevitable George Mogridge. George is only 37 and ought to be developing right soon.

Johnny Cooney, last year's regular, has just undergone an operation on his arm in a Chicago hospital. They said the operation was successful, which may or may not mean that John still has the arm.

The regular catchers, Gibson and Taylor, are adequate. In addition, Francis Hogan, Somerville, Mass., recruit, is giving a good old college try to the matter of trying to beat Oscar Selmer out of the warmup job.

Doctors Report Mostil Is Now Out Of Danger

(International News Service)

SHREVEPORT, La., March 11.—Johnny Mostil, star center fielder of the Chicago White Sox, who slashed himself with a razor in a suicide attempt here Tuesday, was today pronounced practically out of danger by his physicians. There is still a slight possibility of blood poison from his many wounds, physicians say, but all danger of pneumonia has passed.

Mahoning Midgets Trim Celtic Five

The Mahoning Midgets gave proof Thursday that they were still hitting their stride, the one which won them seven out of their last eight games, when they defeated the Celtics 32-19 on the Mahoningtown gym.

The results:

Wettich	F	D. Lanigan
Uber	F	S. Tucker
Yeager	C	Haines
Purdy	G	Kelly
O'Donnel	G	J. Tucker

Substitutes — Midgets: Wray, Pitzer. Celtics: R. Lanigan, Tucker, Woods.

Field Goals—Wettich, Pitzer 4, S. Tucker, Haines 3, D. Lanigan, Uber, Purdy 2, R. Lanigan, Yeager, Wray 1.

BRAINS BEHIND THE YANKS

Baseball Magnates To Strike At "Phoney Purchase,, Evil And Ballyhooing Of Young Stars; Brown Reveals Plan

By NORMAN E. BROWN
(Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News)

ST. PETERSBURGH, Fla., Mar. 11.—The major league magnets at a joint meeting next June, will adopt drastic measures which will be designed to eliminate or at least crush three of the outstanding evils of baseball.

The three are:

Hokum.

The conditional purchase of young stars, which permits major and minor league clubs to "juggle" these stars and frequently reacts to the detriment of the player.

I have this on the word of one of the magnates—the squarest shooting man I know of in baseball today.

By high finance practice is meant the auctioning off at fabulous prices of untried stars or "phenoms" under conditions which hamper the development of that player and create a wrong impression of the relative merits of the younger players and their value.

By hokum is meant the ballyhooing of these players with the knowledge that the resultant purchase price can be boosted through such tactics.

The conditional purchase involves both of the above and is the root of the evils mentioned.

This is what frequently happens. A minor league club player Jones, a promising youngster. The word is spread that he is a star in the making—or readymade.

Suddenly the baseball public (especially in the major league city involved) is thrilled with the announcement that that player has been purchased by the major league club for, say, $50,000.

This creates serveral impressions immediately—that the purchasing club is paying "important dough" to get new material, that he must be a star of the magnitude intimated and therefore worth going to see in action, and that his future in the big show is virtually assured.

As a mater of fact, in many cases, while the $50,000 is possibly the final amount to be paid, Jones is bought "on condition." The club pays perhaps $1,000 down and guarantees the rest if he makes good after a trial. The purchasing club soon realizes that $1,000 in added interest and gate receipts so cannot lose in the deal. If he fails to make good he has cost the club less than the average good prospect recommended in all seriousness by one of the club's own scouts.

Another Angle

Also—

The alleged sale may have been arranged mainly with the intention of "saving" the player for another year for both clubs involved. At present, when such a player is purchased even conditionally before, the anual draft period arrives he is not subject to the draft and therefore is bound to remain the property of his minor owners for another year if turned back.

Meanwhile major league clubs which are in need of young players and would pay a fair price for him and give him a real opportunity to deliver cannot reach him through the draft—the annual drawing out of the hat for minor league players. He must remain in the minors if the club owners so desire.

The "hokum" distributed about the player meanwhile not only created the wrong impression of his value with the laws but gives him an exaggerated opinion of his worth and ability and gives the manager handling him an additional problem. Also, when the player eventually lands with some other major league team, as these over-touted stars frequently do, the first major league pilot to have had him comes in for a beautiful bit of razzing—for a condition over which he probably had no control.

Here is the way the magnates plan to check and eventually eliminate the evils cited.

The Comtemplated Moves

Revise the draft rules, granting in many cases concessions which will make the operation of the draft more satisfactory to the minor leagues accepting it.

Enact legislation which will induce the leagues not now under it for self protection.

Enact legislation and new provisions which will protect the player involved in conditional purchase deals and indirectly the minor and major league clubs not involved in the transaction.

Landis Planning the Action

Judge Landis, high commissioner of baseball, is now formulating concrete plans for these changes, to be presented by him at the mid-summer meeting.

Baseball magnates with whom I have talked to date seem well aware of the fact that next to eliminating evils in the game, the crushing of these sharp practices and 'hokum' tendancies is now the most important task facing them.

The contemplated action indicates that they plan to strike while the ball is coming over the plate, so to speak.

BRAVES' ROOKIE SHOWS STUFF

Proving that he is no mean base runner, Francis Hogan, a catcher, formerly of the Newark International league club, now training with the Boston Braves at St. Petersburg, Fla., is shown sliding into home to earn a "safe" decision from the ump.

Mt. Jackson Basket Ball Teams Take Three Victories Wednesday

Boys Varsity And Subs Each Win Victory; Girls Defeat Petersburg Girls

Mt. Jackson's "basketeers" ran wild Wednesday evening when three games were played on the Jackson high school floor, the home teams emerging with a victory from each fracas. Mt. Jackson's high school boys defeated the Petersburg five, 11-8; the girls taught the Petersburg girls something about the game to the tune of 20-12, and the boys' second team conquered the Shenango Works quintet, 12-7.

The "Subs" and Shenango Workers had played two games previous to the one Wednesday night, each having a victory marked up for them. By winning the last game Jackson's second team now holds two games out of the series of three.

The results:

Boys' Varsity

Mt. Jackson		Petersburg
Wallace	F	Ewing
Sherer	F	Hamilton
Barris	C	Faust
Greider	G	Meredith
Gilchrist	G	Starly

Subs.: Mt. Jackson—Patterson, Dawson, Daugherty, Peters.

Field goals: Sherer, Barris 2, Greider, Ewing, Hamilton.

Referee: Nolte.

Girls

Mt. Jackson 20		Petersburg 12
Reed	F	Habson
Patterson	F	Bright
Chambers	G	Postich
Gilchrist	S. C	Molchon
Miller	G	Scholl
Barris	G	Grossen

Subs.: Mt. Jackson—Fullerton, Greider. Petersburg—Ohlem.

Field goals: Barris 6, Reed, Patterson, Hobson 3, Bright 1.

Referee: Kirker.

Boy Subs

Mt. Jackson 12		Shenango 7
Patterson	F	Pondas
Miller	F	Dominich
Williams	C	Walker
Carto	G	Sorba
Dawin	G	Cone

Field goals: Wallace, Dawin, Miller, Patterson, Dominich, Walker 2.

Referee: Greider.

Bessemer Pirates Lose To Canfield

Reserves Also Beaten In Contest With Canfield Team

(Special To The News)

BESSEMER, March 11.—The Bessemer Pirates ran into more opposition than they were prepared to meet and were defeated in both ends of a twin bill by the Canfield Olympics and Reserves. The Pirate Reserves lost out to the Canfield Reserves 29-11, while the Pirate regulars were set back by a score of 59-27 in games played at the Bessemer gym Wednesday night.

Inability to cage the ball when under the basket was the direct cause of the Pirate Reserves' defeat, since they had just as many opportunities to score as the Canfield players.

In the main game after the latter part of the first half, the Pirate regulars never threatened the Olympics. They tried hard but their efforts lacked the dash and confidence of the Olympics. At this stage the Olympics took the heart out of the Pirates, when they sent the ball through the hoops five times in as many consecutive plays. Each time the ball went through without touching the rim, and this display of sharpshooting was too much for the Bessemer players.

Lineups:

Pirate Res. 11		Canfield Res. 29
Malley	F	Corll
Ducic	F	Lynn
Chaney	C	Fredericks
Bryan	G	Brobst
Carlson	G	Scharshu

Subs—Bessemer: Beale. Canfield: Kennedy.

Field goals—Ducic, Chaney 3, Carlson, Kennedy 3, Lynn 6, Fredericks 4, Scharshu.

Fouls—Carlson, Fredericks.

Referee—Young.

Timer—Winters.

Bes. Pirates 27		Can. Olympics 59
Chaney	F	Corll
Jacobson	F	Ross
Swanson	C	Zimmerman
Smith	G	Reed
Beale	G	Heintzleman

Subs—Bessemer: Ducic, Malley, Carlson. Canfield: Corll, Kennedy, Brobst, Scharshu.

Field goals—Jacobson, Swanson, Beale, Smith 8, Ross 8, Corll 7, Zimmerman 8, Reed 3, Heintzleman.

Fouls—Jacobson 2, Swanson, Smith 2, Corll, Zimmerman, Reed, Brobst, Heintzleman.

Referee—Shull.

The Rangers' Chief — By Feg Murray

Copyright, 1927 by Metropolitan Newspaper Service

This week's old timer comes from the ranks of the hockey players and claims as his native land that great Dominion which produced George Young, Earl Thomson, Ovila Chapdelaine, and other star athletes. Lester Patrick went on to coach and manage a team in the sport he loves so well. Just as John McGraw, Knute Rockne, Walter Christie and others won fame in the game with which they are still closely connected, Lester Patrick was at one time a hockey hero whose name was famous from one end of Canada to the other.

Lester Patrick, now noted as the manager and coach of the Rangers, the New York team that is virtually sure to be in the play-off for the world's championship early in April, played his first real hockey with the Westmount A. A. in 1903. In 1906 he turned "pro" to play with the Montreal "Wanderers," where he remained until 1909. How he played with them is best illustrated in the following story of the Stanley Cup series between the Wanderers and Ottawa in 1906.

In the first game, played at Montreal, the Wanderers led 9 to 1. Patrick scored eight of his team's tallies. As total scores counted in the series, the Wanderers' backers thought they were "sitting pretty" when Lester opened the next contest at Ottawa with another goal, putting his team nine points to the good. But, much to their consternation, their opponents came back to cage nine shots in a row, tying the score at 10 all. Then Lester Patrick came through with two sensational rushes down the ice to score two more goals and win the series.

After a year with the Renfrew "Millionaires," Patrick and his brother Frank went West in 1911 and formed the Pacific Coast League, Lester taking charge of and playing on the Victoria Congers. It was a "raid" by the Patricks on the Eastern leagues that caused the change from seven-man hockey. The Patricks took so many stars west that there weren't enough to go around, so the "rover" was dropped and six-man hockey resulted.

Patrick came East to manage the Rangers in 1926, after winning the world's championship in 1925 with the Congers.

Feg Murray Says—

"Clerk of course," was the reply.

Union High School Five Ends Season At Harrisville Tonight

Coach Burnham's School Team Holds Fine Record For First Year At Basketball

Union High school's basketball team will invade Harrisville tonight to play the high school quintet at Harrisville in the school gym. This game will mark the closing of Union's first year at basketball, and one which has been successful, considering the fact that Coach Burnham has not had a gym on which to give his lads a good set of workouts.

When the local boys travel to Harrisville this evening Keller, Gibson, Hughes, Schieck and Crispie will be listed as first-string men, with Wallace, Eckles, Thompson, Carr, Mottinger, Clark and Hoffmeister as subs.

It is hoped by many of the "huskies" at the school, as well as by many of the faculty, including Coach Burnham, that when next year's basketball season comes around a gym floor will be listed as one of the improvements of the building. The ambitious coach stated today that with all of this year's material coming back next year he will have a team that will make a fine showing should a gym where they could hold regular practices be listed among the summer's improvements.

Union won only three out of their 15 games, but as anyone seeing some of their games could say, this set of passers would have played havoc with some of their victorious opponents had they had a place where they could hold regular practice. Union lost to Ben Franklin (twice), Mt. Jackson, Evans City, Greenville, Mercer, Zelienople, New Wilmington. They hold victories over Mahoningtown, Mt. Jackson and Enon.

When Union holds its athletic banquet for the combined forces of football, basketball and track men the following boys will receive letters as members of the basketball quintet: Keller, Gibson, Hughes, Schieck, Crispie and Carr.

Keller, Gibson and Hughes were the best bets for this combination during the year and much is expected of them when Harrisville and Union meet.

Methodists And Imperials Will Battle Tonight

The First Methodists and Gerson Imperials will clash tonight in the second game of the championship series to decide the Church League title. The game will be played on the Y. M. C. A. floor. The Sacred Hearts and Athletics are billed in the preliminary game at eight o'clock.

The Athletics, members of the Boys' League, are stepping out of their class tonight in taking on the fast Sacred Heart outfit, but the Athletics are confident of putting up a fast game against the Church League team.

The Methodists are favored to capture the second and deciding game of the three-game series tonight. If the Methodists can triumph tonight they will be recognized as the City Church League champions.

The first game of the series played last week was a 41 to 28 victory for the Methodists.

Training Camps

(International News Service)

PASO ROBLES, Mar. 11.—Regulars and Yanigans were to play their second game this afternoon, at the Pirate camp the youngsters suffering a 10 to 4 defeat in the initial game. Ray Mahaffey and Guy Morrison will pitch for the regulars today, and Lee Meadows and Johnny Morrison will be on the mound for the Yanigans.

BRADENTON, Fla.--Losing their first exhibition game to Washington 6 to 3, the Phillies were out today for the scalp of the Athletics. The Phils six errors, four of them attributed to Fresco Thompson, the new second baseman, gave the game to the Senators. He and Al Nixon were the heaviest hitters among the Phils, getting two each.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—Eddie Collins, the A's veteran captain, despite a bruised knee continues to join the practice drills and will be in the lineup today against the Phils. Cobb and Wheat the other high priced veterans also will play. Connie Mack added another rookie to his payroll yesterday when Jud Waller, husky Decatur College Texas student reported seeking a berth in the outfield. Cobb and Wheat continue to work out in the morning in and afternoon drills. The Georgia Peach after a strenuous workout gave the younger Mackmen some pointers on batting yesterday.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Babe Ruth, who injured his leg in the Yankees' game against the Reds, will be in shape to play again in a few days. The Yanks won the ball game 8 to 5 as Pipgras, Moore and Beall allowed only three hits.

SARASOTA, Fla.—Having downed Buffalo 7 to 6, the New York Giants today are ready for the big series with Washington. The Giants almost booted the game away after getting off to a six-run lead.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—The Brooklyn Dodgers have found a club they can beat—the University of Florida nine. With Babe Herman smacking a single, a double, a triple and a homer, the Dodgers whitewashed the Collegians 12 to 0.

LAKELAND, Fla.—The Cleveland roster is now complete with the Sewell brothers, Luke and Joe on the ground. Both are reported in fine fettle.

The next exhibition game for the Tribe is scheduled with the Columbus American Association team. George Uhle who led the American League pitchers last season, is expected to be in shape to start this game. Lou Fonseca continues to be the hitting star of the training series for the Indians.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—When the Tigers start the fight for the flag they will not present a lineup that differs materially from the one that campaigned last year. It is probable that only one new face will be seen. Marty McManus, barring accidents, will play at second base. Moriarty will depend almost entirely upon his veteran pitching staff.

SHREVEPORT, La.—Manager Ray Schalk of the White Sox was happy today over the manner in which his proteges performed in a seven-inning ball game here yesterday. Schalk divided his troupe into the "Blues" and "Whites", one team wearing the blue spangled road uniforms and the other the white carb used at home. The Whites won 5 to 3. Schalk did the catching for the Blues.

LOS ANGELES—The Cubs family, headed by Manager Joe McCarthy, was in Los Angeles today preparing for their first exhibition game of the season. The Bruins will tackle the Hollywood Stars of the Pacific Coast League at Wrigley field this afternoon. Roy, Brillheart and Jones will probably share the Cubs pitching job.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN

TOURING THE TRAINING CAMPS, March 11.—The signing of Garland Braxton during the winter caused some speculation in and around Washington concerning the future of the world's greatest pinch pitcher, Fred Marberry.

Braxton, obtained at the waiver price from the Yankees, had been used mostly in a pinch hitting role and had done yeoman service. His record for the year, which isn't an accurate line on his pinch pitching proclivities, gave him five victories and one defeat. He pitched not one complete game, but broke into 39.

* * *

Washington's pitching problem, acute last season, is as much more acute as a year's time affects such vets as Johnson, Coveleskie, et al. The supposition was in many circles that Marberry would be thrown into the breach as a regular and asked to take his turn as a regular. Braxton replacing him as the help-help brother.

* * *

I had a chat with Clark Griffith, Washington prexy, while the Senators were playing the Braves at Tampa and during our talk Griffith touched on the matter.

* * *

I believe Bucky is rather counting on keeping Marberry as the relief man and using Braxton as a regular. For one thing Braxton is a lefthander. We can use a good southpaw. Should Braxton get into trouble we can send Fred in to check 'em.

* * *

Marberry set a record a few seasons ago when he broke into some 50 games, mainly as a relief pitcher. His success in picking games out of the fire was phenomenal.

* * *

Saw Walter Johnson before the same battle. He had picked up a cold, but otherwise was the same old Walt. "I ought to have the same kind of a year I've been having. Feel just the same."

After all it is probably natural that after the first 20 years in the big league a pitcher should find one season just like another.

* * *

Billy Sunday, old-time ball player who stepped from the diamond to the pulpit and has been there ever since, umpired on the bases. Sunday is gray and thinner than he was years ago.

Lot of the folks thought Billy might have been rung in just to add color to the game but the very first inning found him called upon to show his knowledge of the game and he came through.

Herb Thomas, rookie infielder, was on first with one down when Eddie Moore drove a liner to left field. Thomas played it for a hit and had turned past second when Rice made a brilliant catch. Thomas jogged back to first, but forgot to touch second. Sunday's attention was called to it and he promptly ruled the runner out—amid cheers.

Nick Altrock's imitation of Sunday as an evangelist, the while Sunday was playing umpire, was a hot sketch. Nick tore off an imaginary collar and tie and went through all the motion of driving out the devil. The crowd roared—and Sunday joined in.

North Highland Club Will Meet

With the baseball season fast coming at us, players of the national game as well as fans are beginning to take it up as the main topic for discussions on the street and in the club rooms. With this in view, "Pick" Houston, manager of the North Highland Baseball Club, calls a meeting for Monday evening, March 14. The meeting will be held in the Anderson Grocery, Highland avenue extension, and will start at 7:30.

The following players are to report: K. Downing, W. Woods, T. Altman, H. Houston, C. Altman, P. Mills, C. Anderson, S. Altman and R. Hannon

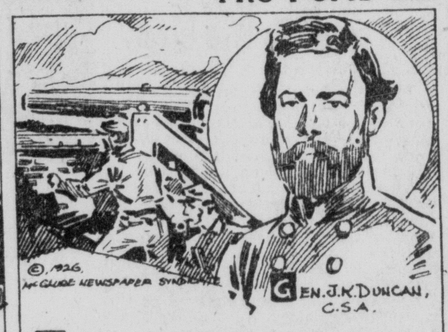
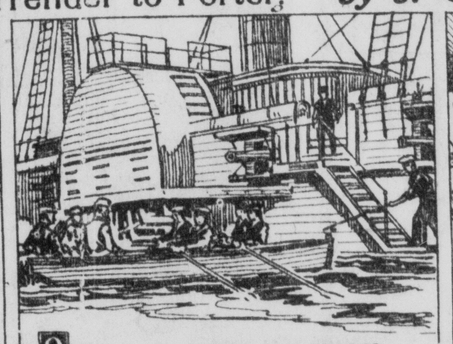
by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

ALTHOUGH FARRAGUT'S FLEET HAD REACHED NEW ORLEANS, THE CONFEDERATES STILL HELD THE FORTS BELOW THE CITY. COMMANDER PORTER, WHOSE MORTAR FLEET CONTINUED TO MENACE THE RIVER DEFENSES, ON APRIL 25 (1862), DEMANDED THEY SURRENDER, BUT GEN. DUNCAN, THE CONFEDERATE COMMANDER, DECLINED TO DO SO UNTIL HE RECEIVED WORD FROM NEW ORLEANS.



ON BEING INFORMED THAT THE CONFEDERATE GARRISONS MEANT TO HOLD OUT, PORTER RESUMED BOMBARDING THE FORTS AND SENT MORTAR BOATS AROUND INTO THE GULF TO ATTACK FORT JACKSON IN THE REAR, WHILE FEDERAL TROOPS OF BUTLER'S ARMY WERE THROWN BETWEEN THE FORTS AND THE CITY.



ON APRIL 28TH, HAVING BEEN NOTIFIED THAT FARRAGUT WAS IN POSSESSION OF NEW ORLEANS, GEN. DUNCAN AGREED TO YIELD. THE GENERAL, WITH COL. HIGGINS AND OTHER CONFEDERATE OFFICERS, WAS ESCORTED ABOARD THE "HARRIET LANE", PORTER'S FLAGSHIP, WHERE TERMS OF SURRENDER WERE DISCUSSED.

TOMORROW—FARRAGUT ASCENDS THE MISSISSIPPI.

Trustees' Sale

By the order of the Orphans' Court of Lawrence County, Pennsylvania, at No. 1, September Term, 1926, O. C. P., the undersigned will offer at Public Sale, on the premises, on Tuesday, March 29th, 1927, at 10:00 o'clock, A. M., all those certain parcels of land situate in the township of Big Beaver, County of Lawrence, Pa., belonging to the estate of May E. Snyder, late of said Big Beaver Township, deceased, and being particularly bounded and described as follows, to-wit:

FIRST PARCEL: Bounded on the north by the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad; on the east by land now or formerly of T. E. Morrow; on the south by Main Street; and on the west by land now or formerly of Margaret McKinney; said north line being one hundred thirty-seven (137) feet; said east line being one hundred twenty-three (123) feet; said south line one hundred fourteen (114) feet; and said west line one hundred eighty (180) feet.

SECOND PARCEL: Bounded on the north by Big Beaver river; on the east by lands of Henry McGinn's heirs and the Big Beaver river; on the south by the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad; and on the west by lands of the heirs of Henry McGinn; and containing two (2) acres; said north line being six hundred (600) feet in length; the east line one hundred eleven (111) feet in length; the south line six hundred (600) feet in length; and the west line one hundred (100) feet in length.

THIRD PARCEL: Commencing at the corner of land now or formerly known as J. E. Morrow's land, and running thence along line of land now or formerly of F. J. McQuiston to a white oak tree at the swamp; thence running at right angles with the aforesaid line toward Newport, far enough to make two (2) acres, with the equal of the other line; thence to the road parallel with the first line; thence down center of road to the place of beginning.

TERMS: 10 per cent of the purchase price to be paid in cash on the day of sale, when property is knocked down; balance to be paid in cash upon confirmation of sale by the Court and delivery of deed.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Mar. 11.—Aggressive leadership in the forward price movement was furnished in early trading today by the railroad stocks, the independent oils and a few of the motor and specialty stocks.

Definite improvement in business and industry, combined with the broadening of the country's credit base, as indicated in the Reserve Banks' weekly report, furnished an impetus for the insistent buying of speculative stocks. Restoring of the dividend on Mid Continent Petroleum Company, after a four-years' intermission and the increasing of Barnsdall's dividend rate, attracted favorable attention to the oil stocks.

Atchison continued its leadership in the dividend rail group and sold above 175 for the first time in the history of the company. Gulf, Mobile and Northern was the star performer for the speculative rails, its advance to 60½ against yesterday's low at 48¼ being accompanied by reports that the common stocks would soon be in line for dividends. Other stocks in the so-called Southwestern group pushed forward a point or two in heavy trading, with Kansas City Southern a strong contender for first place.

Trading was more evenly balanced in the second hour, when week end profit taking appeared in considerable volume. The high priced motor and specialty stocks bent backward a point or more, but there was plenty of buying demand at slight concessions from current prices.

Call money unchanged at 4 per cent.

Tin Mills Will Operate 13 Turns

Effective today the tin plants of the city on orders received, according to D. S. Pyle, superintendent of the Shenango Works will operate 13 instead of 16 turns a week as had been the condition prevailing for some time past. It is a temporary change in working conditions which it is not anticipated will continue for any great length of time. The plants closed down this morning at 8 a. m. for the week end instead of 8 a. m. Saturday morning which has been the working conditions prevailing for some time.

Chamber Of Commerce Endorses Volant Road

Good Progress On Work Of 125th Engineers; Finances Discussed; Disinfectant Of Cattle

At the regular semi-monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce, held as a luncheon meeting in the Elks' club, at 12:15 p. m., Thursday, March 10, with President Fred L. Rentz, presiding, B. F. Morehead, Sec.-Treas., of the J. J. Dean Grocery Company, accompanied by J. E. McConnel and W. R. Walton, explained to the board, the benefits which would be derived by this community if the road leading from New Castle via Eastbrook, Rich Hill Church, and Volant, which is now contemplated were built. After considering this matter thoroughly, the Board of Directors went on record as endorsing the construction of this road and requesting that the Representatives from this District in the State Legislature lend their support to this end.

The board ratified the action taken by the directors at their last meeting, at which time a quorem was not present. They also ratified the action taken by the Finace Committee at their meeting held on March 4th.

Hon. S. P. Emery and James K. Love reported very good progress in their efforts to secure co-operation for Company B, 125th Engineers, which organization will shortly be in condition that they will receive Federal recognition, and be officially authorized by the Adjutant General of the State of Pennsylvania.

The matter of assisting in the purchase of disinfectant to be used to disinfect premises upon which tubercular cattle were found when final tuberculin tests are made in Lawrence county, was discussed but no action taken at this time.

The Finances of the organization were thoroughly discussed and it was unanimously decided that in the near future an effort would be made to secure the active cooperation of all the business interests in New Castle in the Chamber of Commerce movement.

Those present at the meeting were: Messrs. Fred L. Rentz, president; T. W. Dickey, treasurer; Hon. G. T. Weingartner, Hon. S. P. Emery, R. J. Tully, James K. Love, James M. Smith, Ira M. Ramsey and Secretary Chilton, and Messrs. B. F. Morehead, J. E. McConnell and W. R. Walton, who met with the board in the interest of the New Castle-Volant road.

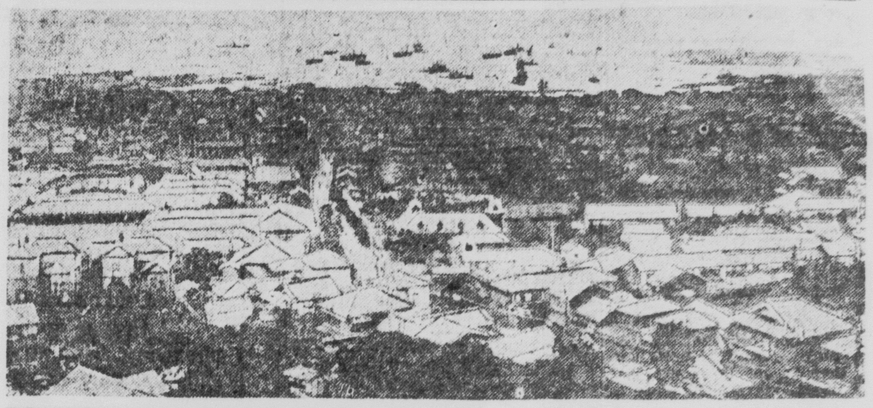
Thousands Die in Earthquake That Shakes Japan; Cold Weather and Loss of Homes Spread Suffering



A severe three-minute earthquake rocked Central Japan, killing thousands, injuring countless more, shattering homes, and driving inhabitants out into freezing weather. Many of the buildings shown in the picture of Kobe are now in ruins, and at that port an American woman was knocked off the gangplank of a liner and was killed. The area shown on the map was reported strewn with wreckage, and death lists were reported from the cities and towns shown.

Prosecutor Held

Indicted with 80 other men, including a score of high officials, C. T. Roscoe, prosecuting attorney of Snohomish county, has been awaiting trial at Everett, Wash., charged with being one of the heads of a mammoth liquor ring, whose scope is said to have extended over the entire Pacific Northwest. Roscoe, who has been prosecutor for the past four years, stoutly maintains his innocence. He is at liberty under bail and remains in office administering the laws.

Simple Remedy For Bad Stomach Gives Swift Relief

No Need of Strong Medicines or Diet. Safe and Simple Home Recipe Keeps Stomach in Fine Condition.

If you are a victim of Stomach Troubles—Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this simple advice.

Don't take strong medicines, artificial digestants or pull down your system with starvation diets. For within reason most folks may eat what they like—if they will keep their stomach free from souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion.

And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with three or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless, inexpensive, and handy tablet form of Magnesia that promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A week's trial of Bisurated Magnesia tablets, which any good druggist can supply at trifling cost, should quickly convince you that 90 per cent of ordinary stomach distress is absolutely unnecessary. Be sure to get Bisurated Magnesia Tablets!

Make Plans For Miners Conference

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, March 11.—Active negotiations are in progress between soft coal miners and operators for a second joint wage conference to avert a general suspension after April 1, it was learned today. The first conference in Miami broke down without an agreement.

The union is ready for a new conference. A call will be issued when, and if, any group of operators ask for it. A call must be signed jointly by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and Rice Miller of St. Louis, chairman of the operators.

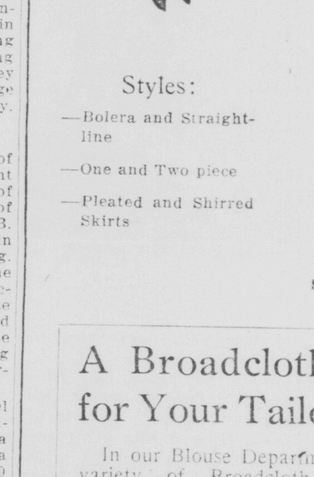
Our Menus Upside Down

English Dental Expert Urges Americans To Save Teeth By Eating Dessert First And Feeding Babies Toast



DR. J. SIMS WALLACE

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch To New Castle News

BOSTON, Mar. 11.—American dinner menus are upside down. They begin with fruit and end with starchy, sugary desserts. They should finish with apples, oranges, or nuts; and start off with a dish of potatoes and a taste of sweets, if the teeth of the nation are to be preserved.

Dr. J. Sims Wallace, British dental expert, after studying Yankee teeth, has decided that the dentists on this side of the water are first-rate, but the cooks are poor. He is positive that if the housewives would listen to him, their dentists' bills would be cut to less than half.

His rules for not having to go to the dentist are simple enough: Finish every meal with a cleansing food like fresh fruit, nuts, raw vegetables, crusts of bread, meat, fish, or bacon; and begin it with any starchy or sugary dish. If you must have sweets, chocolate, or biscuits, eat them only at meal times and follow them by a cleanser. Chew your food well and breathe through your nose.

His Experiments

Dr. Wallace, who is a member of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons in London, has experimented with his theories on English children and has had fine results. He has collected statistics of the decay of teeth in children of five, both before and after the war. By the increase from 5 per cent in 1914 to 48 per cent in 1919 of children with perfect teeth, he proves that in time of war, when sugar and milk are scarce, teeth are healthier.

This dentist-doctor is not an advocate of milk babies. He thinks that at eight or nine months, when their teeth begin to appear, infants should immediately be given solids like toasted bread and butter. Their milk should be decreased, and cleansing foods should be given after the milk, as soon as the child is old enough. At two years of age, a baby should have three meals a day (soup to nuts is the proper order), just as his parents have. Eating between meals and drinking during them should be discouraged.

Guarantees "Allenrhu" to Ease Rheumatic Pains and Help Reduce Swollen Joints

Money Back Says McKee's Kut Rate Store, Ellwood City Agent F. L. Schweitzer, if One Bottle of "Allenrhu" Doesn't Make Any Rheumatic Sufferer Rejoice.

It does not matter whether you are disabled with cursed Rheumatism or have only occasional twinges "Allenrhu" will ease the agony, do away with the gnawing pains and often reduce the swollen joints.

Allenrhu is no laggard. It starts right in at once searching out the poisonous deposits and in two days starts to drive the concentrated impurities that often cause Rheumatism, out of the body thru the natural channels.

Allenrhu has been tried and tested for years and really marvelous results have been accomplished often in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and piteous and where the sufferer was almost helpless.

"The blessed relief this marvelous preparation quickly gives has made for it thousands of friends," says McKee's Kut Rate Store, Ellwood City Agent, F. L. Schweitzer.

Teacher Is Hurled Through Windshield

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 11.—Catapulted through the windshield of a closed car which collided with another machine, parked in the main street at Masontown, Miss Clara Lee, 22, Masontown school teacher, was so badly injured last night she was brought to a Uniontown hospital. The accident happened directly in front of the office of Dr. E. K. Wells, who gave prompt help. Miss Lee suffered severe lacerations of the face.

Pays Income Tax With Check For Eight Cents

YORK, Pa., March 11.—The local officers of the internal revenue collector in charge of income tax payments today is in charge of a check for eight cents in payment of the annual income tax.

The tax collector is withholding the name of the person who made the small payment.

FRANKLIN WOMAN CHEWS UP WARRANT HELD BY SHERIFF

FRANKLIN, Pa., Mar. 11.—Seizing a warrant from Sheriff O. J. Skelly, as he sought to arrest her on a surety of the peace charge, Mrs. Martha Scott is held for action of April term of court in default of $1,300 bail.

The incident happened after relatives of Vincent Scott, her husband, now a prisoner in the county jail on a charge preferred by his wife, had sought to effect the man's release on bail. Mrs. Scott vigorously opposed his freedom and is alleged to have told his sister-in-law she would "shoot her head off."

The relative, who is from Buffalo immediately swore out a warrant and as Mrs. Scott was leaving the jail, Sheriff Skelly attempted service. A chase followed, the woman was cornered, but she ripped the warrant from his grasp, shoved it into her mouth and chewed it up. A new warrant both on the old charge and for swallowing the first official paper, was then presented.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING

Mrs. Gadsby is broad-minded but economical—very economical, in fact. The other morning she caught the ice man kissing the cook.

"Oh, no," his wife replied. "But I gave her strict orders not to let it happen again till after he had put the ice in the box."
